grade assembled for a more formal program. Robert Nicholls representing the 8 A's described in some detail the Battle of Gettysburg pointing out on a large relief map that had been prepared by some of his classmates the positions mentioned in the description of the battle. The story of the delivery of the speech was next given and then followed a contest to decide which pupil could give the most effective recitation of the Gettysburg address. Each of the six upper grade groups had previously had its own friend-Friebele had been chosen to represent the 8 A's, Mary Fay the 8 B's, Arthur Williams the 7 A's, Truman Metzler the 7 B's, Allen Mason the 6 A's, and Donald Buchanan the 6 B's. Each of these pupils in turn recited the Gettysburg address and then all the pupils of the up-while the judges were preparing their decision. The first prize was awarded to
