ATTRACTIVE ROUGH CAST FINISH.

Design 737, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

Any one interested in a dwelling of this character will certainly appreciate at a glance the careful and well studied plan worked out in this design. The living room has an open stairway at the end, with built-in bookcases on landing. At opposite end is an open fireplace, at side of which is a French door leading to the sun room; three chambers, very good sized and well lighted, on second story; large bathroom, clothes chute, hat closet, linen closet and spacious sleeping porch, which is all inclosed. Size over main part, 26 feet wide by 28 feet deep. Red oak or birch throughout first story, pine to paint in second story and hardwood floors throughout both stories. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $3,500.

Upon receipt of $1 the publisher of this paper will supply Saxton's book of plans. It contains 254 new and up to date designs of cottages, bungalows and residences costing from $1,000 to $6,000.

MANY ARE KILLED

Christmas Tree Rush Smothers Women and Children.

STAIRS BLOCKED BY BODIES

Man Shouts "Fire" at Celebration at Calumet, Mich., and Starts Disaster—Hundreds Caught in Jam in Narrow Stairway—Grownups Pile on Children.

CALUMET, MICH.—The fool who ran up the stairs shouting "fire" is responsible for the death of eighty-three persons and the injury of over a score more who were attending Christmas eve entertainment for the children of the striking topper mines of Calumet in the Italian hall. Fifty-eight of the dead are children.

There was no fire. Not a candle was lighted on the three Christmas trees in the hall, for there were no candles the strikers could not afford them. But when the man came rushing in from the street with his wild cry there ensued one of those strange panics such as ended so many lives in the Iroquois theater in Chicago.

The majority were smothered to death. The outside door was opened by passers-by, but the women and children were so solidly packed at the bottom of the stairs and half way to the top of the single flight that they could not be pulled out. In the meantime others within the building poured over the bodies of the crushed and lifeless at the bottom of the stairs, using them as a roadway to escape from the building.

Stairway Blocked by Bodies. So solidly were the bodies at the bottom of the stairs packed that it was necessary for the firemen and deputy sheriffs to go into the second story windows with ladders and to come down the stairs and pull the children back off the pile at the top.

Only when the deputies appeared in the hall at the top of the stairs were others forcibly prevented from piling upon the bodies below. It took two hours to clear the hallway, many in the pile breathing their last while being taken out.

The first on the scene to help in the work of rescue were members of the Citizens' Alliance.

Many of the bodies were snatched away by grief-maddened parents, as the lifeless little forms lay along the walls and were taken to their homes.

Bodies Are Taken to Morgue. Seventy-six bodies were taken to the temporary morgue established in the Redjacket Town hall, where identifications are being made as rapidly as possible.

Clamoring about the building is a mob of several thousand strikers and others, including hundreds of women. Many whose children were at first thought to be among the dead later found their little ones. Many sobbing children are in the crowd looking for their parents.

The children among the dead range in age from two or three years to twenty. Nearly all were with mothers or fathers in the building, but the older people lost their heads as quickly as did the little ones on the cry of fire.

Deportation Stria Strikers. The strikers in the copper region are aroused over the deportation of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and the situation has become more grave. Feeling between the strikers and the Citizens' Alliance, embittered by the disaster of Christmas eve, reached a point where the conservative look forward with relief to the early arrival of John D. Densmore, the federal agent delegated to pour oil on the troubled waters.

At the headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners it was charged that Moyer was kidnaped because of statements made by him growing out of the panic in Italian hall in which scores of lives were lost. The Citizens' Alliance conducted Moyer out of the state because he would not retract the assertion that according to his information the men who started the panic with the cry of "Fire" were at the bottom of the alliance and because of his advice to bereaved families to "accept no aid from the alliance."

Moyer Says He Was Shot. GREEN BAY, WIS.—Lying in a berth in a sleeping car, with his head bound by a blood-stained bandage, Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, passed through this city on a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train on which he claims he was forcibly placed and guarded by two thugs until the train reached Channing, Mich. He said: "I was terribly beaten, shot in the dark, dragged more than a mile along the streets, threatened with death by hanging, and finally placed aboard a train for Chicago."

Growth in Postal Savings. WASHINGTON.—The growth of postal savings in the United States has been amazing and Illinois stands third in number of depositors and fourth in amount of deposits in the postal savings banks June 30.

The report of the trustees of the postal savings system shows Illinois had 24,356 depositors, whose deposits aggregated $2,093,506.

A generation ago, engagements, weddings, anniversaries and birthdays were largely neighborhood affairs. But communities have grown, suburbs have sprung up, and homes in the country separate many friends part of the year.

The handicap of distance often makes it impossible to extend congratulations in person. In this difficulty the Long Distance Telephone is indispensable. It is easier, quicker and more personal than a letter of congratulation, which is usually perfunctory and difficult to write.

Then, again, the Long Distance Telephone preserves the intimate, friendly touch.
