WORST STORM SINCE 1888

Nine and One-Half Inches of Snow Falls in New York City; Funds Are Exhausted From Other Storms; Milk Famine Feared—Hundreds Wait in Stations and Railway Cars.

NEW YORK. — New York and a large part of the east are suffering from one of the worst storms in their history. Five persons have been killed, so far as reported, railroad traffic is tied up and wire communication crippled. Streets and sidewalks are covered with an icy coating, making walking difficult and dangerous, and vehicle traffic is almost impossible. Few trains are leaving over any of the main trunk lines for the west and south and street car and elevated traffic in the city and suburbs is lame and in some instances suspended.

Not since the blizzard of 1888, to which old residents point as the worst in the history of the city, has a storm resulted in so much suffering. A milk famine is feared, because of the suspended train service in New Jersey and New York state.

Nine and one half inches of snow fell during the day and when it stopped a howling gale set in. The temperature, which had remained at a few degrees above freezing, dropped many degrees, freezing the slush and snow that covered the streets.

Street Cleaners Swamped. With only 50 per cent of the snow from the two previous storms removed from the principal streets, the city street cleaning department faced a new problem. Already $980,000 has been spent in snow removal work and city officials were unable to make an estimate of the probable cost of the latest storm.

With its telegraph wires down, signals crippled and tracks drifted high with snow, the Pennsylvania railroad made no attempt to run a train out of New York after 7 o'clock, and all incoming trains from the west and south arrived from two to eleven hours late. A local train from Atlantic City arrived at 4:30 o'clock, seven hours and fifty-three minutes late. The conductor reported that the storm was still raging along the coast and that the snow was drifting badly.

In the Pennsylvania railroad station forty sleeping cars remained on the tracks all night. In them were 800 passengers, many of whom slept peacefully ignorant that they were not on their way to their destination.

Hundreds Wait in Stations. In the waiting rooms were hundreds of persons waiting for the resumption of traffic. Lunchrooms and dining halls were kept open all night for their accommodation.

Trains in the New York Central lines fared little better. Points up state could not be reached by wire and the whereabouts of several incoming mail and passenger trains could not be learned. Among other trains reported lost was the Twentieth Century limited. Between Peekskill and Gold Springs, a distance of eleven miles, thirty broken telegraph poles are down. Albany and Buffalo were out of communication and New York Central trains between these points were reported lost. The storm put nearly every wireless station along the coast hereabouts out of communication and after 6 o'clock communication with ships at sea was impossible. The aeriads of the station were so crippled with sleet and snow as to render them useless.

TAFT REJECTS $750,000 BID

Owner of Cubs and Chicago Syndicate Fail to Come to Terms.

CINCINNATI, OHIO. — The terms offered Charles P. Taft by a Chicago syndicate for the controlling interest in the Chicago National League baseball club, are not acceptable to Mr. Taft, who has held a conference here with L. J. Behan, the representative of the syndicate.

Just what the terms were was not given out but the conference did not last an hour. Mr. Behan departed for Chicago after it ended.

MANY QUAIL DIE IN STORM

Some Say More Were Frozen Than Hunters Killed Last Season.

TERRE HAUTE, IND. — Jesse Winslow of West Terre Haute reports a covey of fourteen quail frozen to death in the storm.

Many farmers near here say the sudden cold and thirty hours of snow with zero temperature following killed more quail than did the hunters in the last open season.

Illinois State League. CHAMPAIGN, ILL. — A six-club league, to be known as the Illinois State League, is groomed as the successor to the Illinois-Missouri league. Lincoln, Streator, Kankakee, Champaign, Ottawa, and either La Salle or Peru are the cities regarded by President Cline as likely to constitute the reorganized league.
