WHERE HISTORY IS LAKE.

Benefactors of the Human Race Who Get Too Little Credit.

History as it is written and as it is taught is one great panorama of wars and dynasties. It bristles with the names of doughty warriors and rulers, describes at length their struggles and achievements and dismisses the inventors and promoters of the great agencies which have made modern civilization possible, with scanty, if any, mention.

The invention of printing has had more influence upon the development of the race than any act of any ruler that the world has ever known, and more than half of those who read this will not know the inventor's name.

The men who invented and developed the steam engine did more to lighten human toil and to make possible to each of the dwellers upon earth a larger mead of comfort and enjoyment than all the generals who ever pitted men against their fellows. Hunt for their names in the indexes of your histories.

Art and literature have been broad highways to fame. The high school scholar can tell you who wrote what and when he wrote it, but ask him who built the first railroad in America and when and where it was. The magnificent Albert memorial is covered with the names of authors and painters and sculptors, but Michelangelo is there because he was an artist, not because he was an architect, and Leonardo Da Vinci because he was a painter and not because he was an engineer. Power.

KEPT HIS SECRET WELL.

Even Scott's Son Didn't Know Who Wrote the Waverley Novels.

A Scotch newspaper having referred to the old story that Walter Scott, son of the great novelist, had never read his father's novels, the Dunfermline Court Journal reprints a letter that first appeared in its columns on Sept. 17, 1859. It was signed "Veritas," and the writer says: "From 1810 to 1833-I resided in Edinburgh and was on intimate terms with Walter Scott. Sitting together one winter evening several years before his father made the famous declaration at the theatrical fund dinner held in the assembly rooms of Edinburgh that he was the author of the Waverley novels, I put the following questions to my friend: 'Do you not really and truly believe your father to be the author of the Waverley novels, or who do you suppose the author to be?'

"His answer was: 'I have really no idea who the author is. If my father is the author he keeps the secret to himself, for none of the family know.' And then he added: 'The moment a new novel (by the author of "Waverley") is announced my father orders a copy from his bookseller, and the whole family assembles in the parlour in the evening to hear the novel read by myself and my sisters, each taking a turn.

"He further added: 'When anything very droll or funny occurs in the reading of the novel my father joins most heartily in the laugh, perhaps more so than any of the family.'

Got the Best of Carlyle.

The Rev. Thomas Alexander, a Presbyterian minister, long resident in Chelsea and well known as a brother Scot, was most anxious to know Carlyle, but had no opportunity of getting an introduction to him. One day in the King's road he saw Carlyle coming in his direction and took advantage of the opportunity by going up to the sage and saying, "Thomas Carlyle, I believe?" Carlyle's reply was, "Tom Alexander, I know." They became good friends, and later Mr. Alexander wrote to Carlyle for a subscription toward a school building fund, and Carlyle wrote back a refusal in doggerel, whereupon Mr. Alexander replied that if he did not send him $5 he would sell his poetry to a collector or publish it. The $5 was at once forthcoming.

The artist was of the impressionist school. He had just given the last touches to a purple and blue canvas when his wife came into the studio. "My dear," said he, "this is the landscape I wanted you to suggest a title for."

"Why not call it 'Home'?" she said after a long look. "Home? Why?" "Because there's no place like it," she replied weekly. -Glasgow Times

A Solemn Critic.

A local band was one day playing at Dunfermline when an old weaver came up and asked the bandmaster what that was they were playing. "That is the 'Death of Nelson,'" solemnly replied the bandmaster. "Ay, man," remarked the weaver, "ye ha'e given him an awfu' death!" -Glasgow News.

A "Place of Learning."

Sydney Smith, once being asked why a certain college was called a place of learning, replied that although a great many had been there to get learning, no one had ever taken learning away; hence it was quite appropriately named.

Blockhead.

Sapleigh-The barber wanted to singe my hair, but I said no. Smart-Your caution was commendable. He might have started a wood fire. -Boston Transcript.

Hard work is still the road to prosperity and there is no other. -Benjamin Franklin.

United Evangelical Church Notes

The pastor being at Ashton attending conference, there will not be any preaching service next Sunday. The Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. and Christian Endeavor at 8:30 p. m., will convene as usual, to which all are invited.

Since the completion of our new basement increasing our facilities, these organizations have taken renewed effort. The Sunday school averaging about 175 and Christian Endeavor about 50.

A large crowd attended the oratorical contest, given by the Christian Endeavor, which proved successful. The Christian Endeavor passed resolutions inviting the Lake County C. E. Union to hold their annual rally here.

Trinity Church Notes

Next Sunday, March 28, will be Mid-Lent, or as it is often called Refreshment Sunday. The season is rapidly passing and Passion-tide will soon be here.

The choir under the direction of Mr. Sidney Arno Dietrich is doing admirable work, and on Good Friday evening, April 10, will sing Roger's lenten cantata, "The Man of Nazareth." This very beautiful composition has never before been given in Highland Park.

During Lent the Ladies' Guild and the Woman's Auxiliary have had all-day meetings every Monday. These meetings have been largely attended and much charity work has been accomplished.

There is an exhibition in the vestibule of the church a water color sketch by Mr. Herbert Page Beers, architect, showing the appearance of the completed group when the church is lengthened and a tower built, the present rectory is removed and a new one built to correspond in style with the church and parish house. The general effect is that of an English quadrangle open to the south surrounding a formal garden. The sketch has received much favorable comment and the time is not far distant when it will be realized in solid masonry. This is the next step forward in the material growth of the parish.

Governor Frees Murderer.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. - Governor Dunne on the recommendation of the state board of pardons, commuted the sentence of Frank Sineni, sentenced to twenty-five years on a charge of murder in Cook county in 1904. He will be released from Joliet prison on St. Patrick's day, March 17. Sineni is in the last stages of locomotor ataxia and can live but a short time.

Blanks in Lottery of Love.

FREEDPORT, ILL. - Companion suits for divorce at the present term of the Stephenson county court are those filed by Mrs. Edna Entmeyer and Mrs. Lucile Dame. The maiden name of the two complainants is Clark.

They married at the same time and both found that in the lottery of love they had drawn blanks.

Dies on Way to Funeral.

WAUKEGON, ILL. - Frank McNichols former assessor of Libertyville township, in Lake County, was on his way to attend the funeral of Mrs. Jane Davis, an old friend.

When near the home of another Davis family he was stricken with heart disease and died within a few minutes. He was fifty-two years old.
