

CRESCENTS WINNERS OF BASEHIT BATTLE

REGULARS LOSE TO EVANSTON TEAM

New Players of Latter Team Fail to get Together and Game is Poor. Crescents get 17 Hits for a Total of 24 Bases.

By Regular Fan
The Highland Park Regulars lost their third game to St. Mary's of Evanston, Champions of the Catholic League by the one sided score of 13 to 3.

It was a very poor exhibition on the part of the locals who could neither hit nor field the ball. The weather was chilly and probably hindered the boys from "loosening up" to some extent and then the same lineup has not been seen in either of the three games played. There are still two or three positions that simply have got to be strengthened if the Regulars want a winning team. Another switch in the lineup is expected for Sunday's game with Winnetka. Maroney managed from the bench Sunday, owing to rheumatism, Reed of Ft. Sheridan doing the receiving in fine form. Hapke was out of the game Sunday afternoon, and White of the Post team filled his shoes without an error.

As yet the locals have no regular pitcher although a half dozen have been "tried out" but only one, thus far, has proven himself worth the job and that is Sanders. He works hard all the time and has a world of speed with breakers. You may hear from him again Sunday. There's no question about next Sunday's game being a good one, as Winnetka has always showed strength against the Highland Parkers. Regulars vs Winnetka at Central Park Sunday, May 17th.

By Crescent Fan

The Crescents won a slam-bang battle from the Waukegan at Ravinia Park Sunday by the count of 11 to 6. About 400 fans witnessed the game which was certainly a thriller despite the one-sidedness of the score. The cannoning on the part of both teams, the Crescents in particular, was something fierce, and the fielding was clean and, in spots, brilliant.

The home team mauled Goggins unmercifully, lambasting him for a total of 17 bingles that went for 24 bases, while Waukegan also went after Greenslade hard, clouting his offerings safely 12 times for 17 pillows.

The home players began their mad assault on Goggins in the very first inning and kept it up unrelentingly throughout the game except for a brief spell of one inning—the fifth. Waukegan did its most damaging work in the third, sixth and ninth innings, when Greenslade was forced to yield ten of the twelve hits secured off him.

Duffy, Richards, Crolin and Heilman of the Crescents, and Whyte, King and Lutter of Waukegan were the slug-kids of the game. They connected with the ball with deadly effect. The Waukegan infielders and all nine of the local men played consistent ball in the field. Especially gratifying was the work of Whiting, who covered the right garden for the Crescents, and who was pressed into service at the last moment because of the non-appearance of the regular Crescent right gardener.

Next Sunday the Crescents meet Deerfield at Ravinia Park, and another hot struggle is in prospect. Howard Flinn's team, because it has shown in the two games played so far that it can pummel the horsehide for base hits and can put up a fast and snappy game in the field, besides being composed of clean and sporty players, is doing much to awaken interest in the game in Highland Park.

"JEANNE D'ARC" TO BE GIVEN BY STUDENTS

CHOICE OF DEERFIELD SENIOR CLASS

A Detailed Story of the Percy MacKaye Play and the Manner in Which it will be Presented at Ravinia Theatre

This year the class of 1914 of the Deerfield-Shields High School has chosen to present for its Senior play, Percy MacKaye's "Jeanne D'Arc." This play is doubly attractive since it offers opportunity for splendid pageant effects as well as the intensely dramatic history of the Maid of Orleans.

The first act is a holiday gathering of the young people of Domremy. Virgil Smith, Allan Durborow, Rowena Bastin, Loretta Kress, Lee Shaddle, Oscar Lundgren, John Baker, Harry Eichler, Phillip Seigle, and Elizabeth Schumacher, carry the dialogue, reinforced by a gay group of peasants who give tone and color to the act. The curtain falls as Joan takes her vow to raise the siege at Orleans and to crown the Dauphin, King of France.

The second act carries us to a scene of royal mockery at the court of France. The Dauphin, Harry Olendorf, is entirely controlled by the intriguer, La Tremouille, Thomas Findlay and his supporters, De Chartres, Edwin Gilroy, Catherine, Marion Boess, and other court members. Into this atmosphere of falsity comes Joan, the maid of Domremy, Elizabeth Schumacher, with her peasant escorts De Metz, Walter Goeltz and De Ponglang, Lee Shaddle, and through the influence of the quiet scholar, D'Alencon, Goodrich Schauflier, and the blustering soldier, La Hire, Leslie Schauflier, obtains an audience with the Dauphin. Joan further vindicates her claim to power by her recognition of the Dauphin, though disguised as a courtier. The act closes with a scene between the maid and the Dauphin which brings the latter to full realization of his power as legitimate heir to the throne of France. The following students aid in the development of the act: Joe Blum, George Baldwin, Julius Bosold, Loretta Kress, Gladys Tucker, Susanna Bolan, Florence Warner, Hazel Bell, and Evelyn Taylor.

In the third act Joan is transformed from the simple holy maid of Domremy into the strong leader of men. Wounded, deserted by her generals, her army repulsed, Joan stands forth in all the dominant strength of her belief and turns the tide to victory. Leslie McCaffrey, John Baker, Goodrich Schauflier, Phillip Speidel, Lucien Ellsworth, Charles Redmond, Leslie Schauflier, with additional soldiers assist Elizabeth Schumacher in the development of this strong act.

In act four we find the conspiracy receives an unexpected check but such is the power of La Tremouille, that he eventually wins. In pageant effect we see the triumphal march toward Rheims. The last scene in the history of Joan of Arc is very briefly pictured, D'Alencon is with her in the disguise of a priest, her spirit rises above the agony of the moment and she awaits her summons with the strong courage of a martyr maid. The entire cast is used to depict these last scenes.

The class is working very hard under the direction of Miss McElrath, making every effort to produce a performance worthy of so great a theme. This will be played at Ravinia theatre, May 23rd.

WHEN DOES A NEWSPAPER STEAL?

When it reprints articles without giving credit for them?

There are times when a newspaper has to give credit for articles it "lifts" from other publications; these are when the articles are poorly written and the editor who "lifts" doesn't want the blame. Thus it may be that THE PRESS cannot claim credit for being honest in this respect when it roasts other papers for lifting articles from its columns. The most fragrant cases of "lifting" we have seen occurred last week and the week before when the Evanston News helped itself to the "Bird and Tree" articles written for us and printed in our columns. Last week they even placed one of them under a double column head with another article on the same subject which contained the authors name, making it appear that our article was written by this man. When does a newspaper steal?

BEST USE FOR FUND FROM VEHICLE TAX

BUY OIL, LAY DUST ON ALL STREETS

Many Objections Raised to Appropriations for Repairing few Blocks of Roadway. Believe Much Better Uses Could be Made of it

We do not claim any credit for the idea nor do we claim to know whether any great number of people will regard it as creditable but we believe that they should and we therefore advance it with all the enthusiasm with which it was given us; it is that the city, in place of spending nearly all the money realized from the vehicle licenses on a few blocks of roadway, combine with the improvement association and use the money for oiling the streets of the entire city. Last year the money realized from the vehicle licenses amounted to about $2,600 and it will not be much more this year and if the amounts appropriated by the council last week for three streets, $600, $600, and $750, are deducted from it there will not be much left for other work, just as necessary. Of course the contention will be raised that the money is already appropriated but we believe it is possible to repeal an ordinance, at least we have known them to be repealed, and also if the property owners on the three streets, North Sheridan Road, East Laurel and West Central Avenues should fail to raise the amounts they stipulate the ordinances would die a natural death. Another point raised is that the council has already made its appropriations for the year and they could not legally add to them.

Whatever the points involved, though, it does seem as though it would be better to have the disease spreading dust laid in all parts of the town for all the summer than to have a few blocks of streets repaired for a year or so. It is stated that these repairs will last for three or four years but North Sheridan Road, which is one of the streets for which an expenditure is asked was repaired in this manner only last spring, the property owners paying for all the work. It was noticed and commented on by many that the haste with which these ordinances were passed was in marked contrast to the manner in which the lake park question, where the Ossoli Club women after trying all winter to get the council to guarantee them aid have finally decided not to operate the bathing beach this year, was handled. An excellent resolution, which would have satisfied nearly everybody concerned, giving the management of this park over to the building and grounds committee and appropriating the money from the sale of sand for their use was withdrawn and the only reason for the action we have heard is that the appropriation was illegal. Nothing was said about illegality when the ordinance appropriating from the vehicle license fund were passed.

JABS SCISSORS IN BROTHER'S EYE
Little Matholdi Lencioni in Play Badly Injures Younger Child

While playing with a pair of scissors at the home of her father, A. G. Lencioni, little Matholdi Lencioni raised them above the head of her year old brother, James, and then accidentally jabbed them into the little fellow's eye. The accident occurred Monday and the boy was rushed to the Waukegan hospital where the specialist engaged stated yesterday that it was probable that the eye could be saved.

R. G. SALYARDS DIES SUDDENLY

Found Dead in Bed About Six-Thirty This Morning

After talking to her husband before she went to prepare breakfast this morning, Mrs. R. G. Salyards returned about fifteen minutes later to find him dead in bed. As we go to press the inquest has not been held but the physician pronounced the death as due to heart failure. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at nine o'clock from the home in Ravinia and at ten o'clock from the First United Evangelical church.

SCALDED TO DEATH IN WASH TUB

Mother Accidentally Pushed Baby into Tub of Boiling Water

Playing on the floor near a tub of boiling water, which his mother had placed for clothes washing, two year old Settimo Ponsi was accidentally pushed into the tub as he bumped into a baby carriage in which the mother was rocking a younger child. Before he could be taken out he received burns from which he died in the Evanston Hospital at three o'clock in the afternoon. The accident occurred at seven Monday morning.

WHAT WAS ACCOMPLISHED BY HOLDING ARBOR WEEK

REPORT OF COMMITTEE SHOWS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

In Spite of Late Start Much Planting has Been Done and Many Bare Spots Beautified Through Setting out Thousands of Shrubs and Trees. Material and Money for Work are Donated

The spring planting work inaugurated on the initiative of Mayor Hawkins and THE PRESS, in some of the public spaces about the entrance to the town, is nearly completed. Work was got under way a little late in the season, but with the prompt and willing assistance of the local nurserymen and of the citizens, who subscribed liberally to the cost, a considerable amount has been done.

The first work undertaken was a planting on the south parkway of Laurel Ave., from St. Johns Ave. to the Public Library. Here thickets were put in under the elms, with vistas in between, and the plants kept back from the sidewalk and street, so as not to interfere with traffic. Toward the corner only low bushes were put in, such as wild gooseberry, currants and roses, so there would be no trouble for automobile driving. Further east the planting was of native plum, hawthorn, crab, juneberry, nannyberry, gray and red dogwood, ironwood or hop hornbeam and arrow wood. A small group was put in the Public Library grounds. The Highland Park Improvement Association donated the money for this work.

Then Hazel Park was taken up, and a number of the existing beds of shrubbery were enlarged and new ones made. The planting here was much of the same character, with the addition of some larger trees, such as black cherry. The thanks of the community are due to the Ravinia Nursery for the gift of 100 very fine thorns, plums and crabs, and to Bahrs Greenhouse for the liberal gift of a large amount of stock. Four hundred plants were set in these two localities. Residents of the localities and citizens, in some cases living a considerable distance away, contributed to the cost. It is planned next fall, if sufficient money is available, to make an evergreen planting for winter effect in this park.

Next, the east parkway of First St., south of Laurel Ave., was undertaken, and a thicket of young trees and shrubs were put in, including some elm, poplar, butternut, linden and oak, as shrubs mentioned above. Here there were no large trees to start with, so some of these trees were set in to strengthen the effect. The Edward Hines Lumber Co., a little further south on First St., thereupon made a liberal appropriation for planting up their parkway, to continue the work on that street, and it will be but a year or two before they have a very beautiful front, worthy of the emulation of all of the business houses in Highland Park. The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad has now made an appropriation of $50 for planting about their round house and water tank, so that this bare building will soon be well sheltered and a continuous parkway planting completed at this point. There are already some beautiful native crabs on the First St. parkway, so that the new planting will be in harmony with what was there. Other business concerns have plans in view for beautifying their fronts, and it is hoped that the region around the station and the business part of the town, with the co-operation of these owners, will soon have the handsomest planting of any town along the shore. This will be a lasting pleasure and pride to the citizens who daily pass by, as well as good business for the industries. Nothing could be better advertising for the town, at such comparatively small expense, than to have it possible for strangers and residents alike to frequent business streets that are beautiful instead of ugly. There is no reason why Highland Park should not have effects that are as lovely in their way (with the use of our native trees and shrubs) as those which the famous New England elms give to their villages.

The purpose of those in charge of the present movement is restoration of the native beauty that has been so largely destroyed. The plants that grow wild in the region are those which nature has selected through centuries of trial, as being the thirteenth, hardiest and best fitted for our soil and climate. They are more beautiful than the imported nursery stock, cheaper and surer to grow. They endure the shade, and blossom in barren places where lilacs, private, spirea and the like find it hard to do more than put out leaves. The most eminent landscape gardeners now recommend natives in almost every place; white pine instead of Norway spruce; red cedar and arbor vitae in place of Colorado blue spruce and Douglas fir, with abundant use of the handsome common juniper. Instead of using privet, catalpa and mulberries, we should use the arrow wood, the ironwood and the spring flowering trees. Instead of trying to keep a poor lawn growing in the shade, we should plant a ground covering of wild roses, wahoo, bladder-nut and the like, or let the ground alone and let Nature plant it with wild flowers.

Let everyone consider what restoration work he can do to beautify Highland Park and preserve country beauty in the midst of a city, and it will not be long before our town will find itself famous for the beauty which Nature has given it, and wishes to continue to give it. M.

CLEVER THIEF WORKS OFFICES

Visits North Shore Towns and Finds two Victims in Highland Park

Playing a criss-cross game a clever thief late Friday afternoon relieved Dr. R. L. Moore of $9 and a few trinkets and Mrs. L. C. Ammons of one or two small articles of jewelry. The thief entered the Moore office claiming that he wished to make arrangements for his sister, whom he claimed was in the Ammons studio, to take treatment. The doctor, being busy, asked him to wait and he took a seat but later he tapped on the private office door and stated that he was going to the studio but would return in twenty minutes. At the studio he told Mrs. Ammons that his sister was at Dr. Moore's and stated that he wished to arrange for her to take music lessons. Some time after the girl departed both women discovered their losses and the police were informed. Hurried telephoning to Waukegan and other towns revealed only the fact that people in these towns had met the same chap with consequent loss.
