TO LAKE COUNTY VOTERS:

On next Wednesday, September 9th, you will register your final decision regarding my candidacy for re-nomination for County Clerk.

Of course it has been impossible for me to see all of my friends, but I wish at this time to reiterate my appreciation of their assistance in the past and assure them that if re-elected I will continue to extend to every one the courtesies that are to be expected from a County Official, and to fulfill to the letter the duties of my office.

During my first term, I have conducted the office at a substantial profit to the tax payers, having turned over to the County Treasury from December 1, 1910 to June 1, 1914, the sum of $40,760.70 as surplus earnings of the County Clerk's office after paying all salaries and office expenses. These figures can be verified by records and reports.

I have also during my first term endeavored and have given the people of Lake County a good, clean, honest business administration, and I will, if re-elected, continue the same policy and use my best efforts to serve you and your interests as tax payers.

If you approve of my administration, I will appreciate your support at the Primaries. If you desire to vote for me, place a cross in the square at the left of my name on the Republican (white) ballot.

LEW A. HENDEE, County Clerk.

MOTORCAR PROGRESS.

Standardization of the Parts and What That Means.

Ask any engineer what feature of modern motorcar construction represents the greatest improvement and advancement in design, and he will say not the automatic engine starter, the six cylinder engine, but standardization.

That may be a word which means but little to the car owner, but he unconsciously derives untold benefit from it every day that he runs his automobile. By reason of it he has only to ask for a certain kind of spark plug and he knows it will fit the cylinder, he has only a dozen or so different sizes of tires from which to select the one adapted to his car, and even the carburetor may be replaced by one of a different make without any change whatsoever in the bolt holes or attaching flange.

A vital part of the motor or running gear may be replaced by a blacksmith or local machine shop from the ordinary sizes of stock carried on hand, and the screw thread sizes as now used conform to a certain standard that renders replacements exceedingly simple. Grease cups, nuts or bolts that may have been lost may be replaced at the nearest supply store or garage, for no longer does each manufacturer work only to his own specifications on these minor parts.—H. W. Slauson, M. E., in Leslie's.

LOST HIS BAROMETER.

Count Zeppelin Says General Butterfield Sneaked It Away.

Count Zeppelin, the inventor of the dirigible balloon, is not a stranger to the United States, for he saw service with the Union army in the war between the states. In his recently published reminiscences he tells this amusing story of General Butterfield, who was chief of staff in the Army of the Potomac:

In planning operations General Butterfield attached special significance to knowledge of the probable weather conditions, and for this reason he became especially fond of an excellent aneroid barometer that I had obtained from London and paid a lot of money for.

He saw this instrument in my tent, borrowed it from me, then found it impossible to give it up. He kept it a longer time each time he borrowed it until at last he failed to return it at all. When I was about to leave the army I asked him again and again to return it, and I finally became so pressing that he said he would go to his tent and fetch it out.

After waiting outside a long time I followed him into the tent. It was empty. With my barometer in his hand he had crawled under the canvas and disappeared.

Building to Please Everybody.
"Have you started to build your house yet?"

"No. We haven't quite decided what we want."

"You haven't? I thought you had that all planned out months ago."

"So we did, but Aunt Jane didn't like the living room, so we changed that to suit her, and Uncle Bill thought the porch ought to be different, and we changed that. Then Cousin Kate insisted that we'd never be satisfied without a music room, so we had to rearrange it to put that in, and my folks thought we ought to have a butler's pantry, and her folks were sure we couldn't get along without a room in the attic, and we're waiting now to learn what color an uncle in Honolulu thinks the roof ought to be."—Detroit Free Press.

Reading That Sticks.

An old lady, says the editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, was discussing the differences between the old and the new. "We hadn't anything but the reading book to read when I was a girl," she said, "but I know the best parts of that so I can say them to myself now I'm sitting here in the dark, and my grandchildren don't know what they read last week. It soaked into me and it drips off of them." The editor concludes: "Not what drips off, but that which soaks in is of real importance, stays with the reader and affects and develops character."

Of Course He Swooned.

While the judge was giving his charge to the jury in the burglary case one of the jurors fainted. His lordship had just impressively said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, in arriving at the verdict you must take the testimony of the witnesses for the defense into consideration and give them full weight."

At the words "and give them full weight" the jurymen swooned away. He was a coal merchant.—London Mail.

On the Trail.

"Do you see that man going along with his head in the air, sniffing with his nose?"

"Yes, I know him."

"I suppose he believes in taking in the good, pure ozone?"

"No. He's hunting for a motor garage, I believe."—Kansas City Star.

and the attending nerve-trying strain both nines bobbed oftener than they are wont to. The great crowd that witnessed the combat surely received its money's worth in excitement and thrills.

Both teams showed plenty of fight and a crushing attack. The Crescents in particular distinguished themselves when they twice battered down two-run leads gained by the adversary during the extra innings, and finally snatched the victory through solid clotting, prompted by sheer determination and a never-give-up spirit.

Waukegan began pummeling Ochsner right off the reel and scored once in the opening session. But the Crescents also had on their walloping clothes and clouted home a pair of runs in their half. In the third the home team slammed another couple of counts across the counting station. In the fifth, aided by two hits, a walk and a pair of slips, Waukegan fought its way to within one run of the locals' total. Clean hitting in the seventh knotted the count for the visitors.

Neither team was able to score again till the eleventh. In this inning a brace of boots and bingles gave the enemy a two-run edge. In the Crescents' half of this woolly inning two of the locals had been disposed of and things looked pretty blue, but Pepper Chambers worried Neimeyer into giving him a walk and stole second. Richards promptly improved the opportunity to save the game by tripping and scoring Chambers. Joe scampered home on the visiting shortstop's bad chuck of W. Duffy's rap.

Again in the twelfth Waukegan forged ahead by a two-run margin. Kerwin was given a life on a boot. This opening was followed by an uninterrupted volley of singles from the bats of J. Duffy, Flinn and Ochsner when Neimeyer was yanked in favor of Goggins. Potter greeted Timmie with a ringing shot to center that counted the winning tally.

The Crescents played the better fielding game, several times pulling off classy plays, which choked to death promising rallies started by the losers. At bat honors were more even. Each team garnered 16 bingles, the Crescents for 26 bases and the Waukegans for 24 bases. Richards, W. Duffy and J. Duffy of the home boys and Murphy and Creighton of Waukegan in particular were in evidence with their stick work. The defensive stars were Richards, W. Duffy, Chambers, Kerwin and Cronin, the brilliant little backstop of the Crescents, and Vose and Hook of Waukegan.

Potter, the Crescents' regular hurler, was not in condition Sunday to take up slab duty. A strained ligament in his salary whip compelled him to rest. Ochsner, the locals' reserve pitcher, although hit pretty hard in spots, gave a good account of himself. Potter will be in ship shape to take up the twirling burden again either Sunday or Labor Day.
