SOUND BUSINESS MAXIMS.

Use Your Ability and Take No Stock in the Law of Chance.

Most men who have amounted to anything started with nothing but ability and determination, a combination which recognizes no man made limitations.

Any kind of work is better than idleness, which is directly responsible for most of the unhappiness in this world. Idleness is a dangerous thing. It may grow into a habit that might stick to you after you get back in harness, and the man who loafs on his job is only fooling himself.

Eternal, intelligent effort is the price of commercial growth, and where there is no progression there is bound to be retrogression. Business is something like aeroplaning—to stop is to drop, and to drop is generally to bust.

If I had an enemy and wanted to get even with him I could wish him nothing worse than to land in a soft job and get the loafing habit. It would only be a question of time before he or the job petered out, and the longer he held on the worst off he'd be in the end. For there is a law of compensation which somehow or other makes us work in old age for the time we waste in youth or suffer if we can't make good.

Pin your faith to this law of compensation, but don't take any stock in the law of chance; there's no such thing. Waiting for something to turn up in the belief that things are bound to come your way eventually is throwing dice with fate. Many a good dog never got a decent bone until his teeth were gone.—Maurice Switzer in Leslie's.

GOLF WITH ANY OLD CLUB.

He Was a Shy Man, Too, but Surprised the Clever Amateur.

He was standing looking idly round him when I came forward to the starting tee at Blackhill golf course, a little dapper man, whom any one would have guessed could not play for nuts. Perhaps that latter idea is what caused me to ask if he meant to play a round. I should love to give somebody a proper whacking.

"I would like a round," he said, almost shyly, "but I have no clubs." This was not a chance to be missed. I would let him use mine. How pleased he was in his simple way. Any old club would do for every shot. "Well, well," I crooned to myself; "if the man is out for a thorough Arubbing I am the last to deny him it."

He took a dirty ball from his pocket, made an easy sort of swipe at it, and I have never seen a ball so eager to get to the hole as that one was. His method of attack seemed to consist of one or two iron shots and a putt. I will vouch for it that he deliberately allowed me to win a hole or two. I have never felt so completely humiliated in all my life, yet he was quiet, inoffensive and almost shy.

"You are a brilliant golfer," I gushed as we made for the nineteenth hole. "Oh, ay, I ha'e to be!" he said quietly. "It's my work, ye see; it's my work!"

Why don't those professionals try to look more like real golfers?—Glasgow News.

No Milk Bottles in Sickroom.

Milk bottles should never be taken into a sickroom, for as they are usually returned to the milkman they may thus carry infectious diseases into other homes, says the United States department of agriculture.

Every milk bottle left at a house where there is an infectious sickness should be boiled before being returned. The best thing to do in such circumstances is to provide one's own milk bottles or covered dishes into which the milkman may pour the milk from his bottles.

The duty of each individual to his neighbor in this connection is most important. The board of health may be called to disinfect milk bottles properly after they have been in a home where there is sickness.

Bottles should be given reasonable care before they are returned to their owner. The practice of pouring vinegar or kerosene or other liquids into them temporarily when not in use should by all means be discouraged. The containers should be washed in cold water first and finally in warm water before they are returned to the farmer supplying the milk.

Opening a Bottle of Milk.

Before removing the cap from a bottle of milk the cap and the neck of the bottle should be washed and carefully wiped with a clean cloth. The cap should not be pushed down into the milk. It may be easily removed with a sharp pointed instrument without injuring the contents.

The bottle when once open should be kept covered, and the milk should be kept in the original bottle until it is used up. The original cap should not be replaced, but instead an inverted glass may be put over the top of the bottle. The bottle when not in use should, of course, always be left in the refrigerator, and any milk that has been poured from it into another vessel should not be poured back.

Onions and other foods having a strong odor impart their distinctive smell to milk that is left uncovered. This is an additional reason for always keeping milk in a covered receptacle.

Summer Care of Milk.

When milk is delivered it should be put into the refrigerator at once. A very brief exposure to summer heat makes it unfit for use.

If it is impossible to have the bottles put immediately into the refrigerator provide on the porch a box containing a lump of ice.

In planning a house arrange to have the refrigerator set in the wall, with an opening on the outside. It is always possible to provide locks for these boxes of refrigerator doors and supply the milkman with a key.

The interior of the food compartment should be wiped every day with a clean cloth and thoroughly scalded as often as once a week.

Under no circumstances should the drainage of an icebox be connected with a sewer.

Gloves For Dishwashing.

The housewife who has never used rubber gloves has yet to learn what a comfort they are when washing greasy dishes, pots and pans and doing other forms of housework which force one to put the hands in strong suds.

In selecting a glove the same rule holds good as in selecting for hot water bottles. The seamless ones are less apt to spring a leak. Be sure they are amply large, for they will not stand much stretching.

Apple Sauce Sundaes.

Make apple sauce in the usual way. Shell and chop into small pieces one dozen English walnuts or pecan nuts. Also chop three enough preserved ginger to make three tablespoonfuls. Just before serving beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth. Add the nuts and the chopped ginger with its syrup. Serve in sherbet glasses, heaping the nut and ginger decorated whites on top.

Tomatoes Farced.

Cut the tops from six large tomatoes, but do not peel them. Scoop out the insides and mix with one cup corn, one-fourth cup breadcrumbs, three teaspoonfuls melted butter, three teaspoonfuls milk and salt and pepper to taste. Dust the inside of the tomato shells with salt and pepper and fill with the mixture. Sprinkle dried breadcrumbs over the top and bake.

Poinsettia Salad.

Peel small tomatoes and cut in eighths lengthwise, but do not separate sections at one end. Open like flowers on bed of lettuce. In the center of each pile a teaspoonful of cream cheese that has been put through a coarse strainer. Serve with salad dressing to which has been added one teaspoonful each of finely chopped green pepper, parsley and chives.

Nice Milk Toast.

To keep milk toast from becoming soggy serve the boiling buttered milk in a covered pitcher, so that each one may pour it himself over his toast.

Green Onions.

An appetizing way to use these is to boil them and serve them, as one would asparagus, on toast with the regular drawn butter dressing.
