AN INGENIOUS COOLIE.
How He Helped the Doctors During a Cholera Epidemic.
In a life and death battle with a cholera epidemic in Hunan province, China, in which an American medical missionary was the leading figure, one of the most serious difficulties was met successfully by one of the mental hospital coolies.
Since every patient had to have from one pint to several quarts of distilled water with salt in it, the water could not be distilled fast enough. For two days the staff struggled along with makeshifts while thinking up a plan to build a still for little money without the loss of time. This coolie solved the problem. In one day and at a cost of less than $2 he built a still which later produced twenty gallons of distilled water every twenty-four hours.
The still was simplicity itself. For cooking food the Chinese use large, flat, saucer-like pans made of iron. With one of these above and another below the coolie made a drum of galvanized iron with a hole in the side for a trough. Into the lower pan hot water for boiling was poured. Underneath a hot fire sent up a constant steam vapor. The upper kettle was kept cool by frequent changings of cold water. The vapor from the lower kettle, condensed on the lower surface of the cool upper kettle, dripped off into the trough, and filled bottle after bottle with distilled water.—World's Work.

THE WHITE FARM.
It Deserved its Name, and it Cheaply Advertised Itself.
During a vacation spent in the north we were driven through a most prosperous country, lined with beautiful farmhouses.
Among others we passed a white farm. The house was white, the barns were white, the fences were white. Milk white cows were grazing in the fields, and snow white chickens were running upon the lawn. A huge white dog lay upon the grass, and a white horse, with a white harness and white carriage, was hitched to a white post by a white strap. The white graveled drive was bordered with white rocks. A white fountain threw up a white spray, while white ducks floated upon the water beneath.
Just as we drove by a lady dressed in pure white, with white shoes, stepped out of the door and seated herself in a white hammock.
The whole effect was most striking and was an excellent example of advertisement without expense. The cost would have been the same if no attention had been paid to one color. There was no need of giving a name to that farm. It is known as the White farm for miles around and is one of the show places of the district.
The same idea, of course, could be carried out with other shades.—Progressive Farmer.

Hear, Hear!
"Hear, hear!" is the house of commons cheer, the member of parliament being forbidden the use of any other form of applause. But "Hear, hear!" in the house of commons may be made to express a number of conflicting emotions. Some of the varieties of parliamentary cheering have been noted by the late William White in his "Inner Life of the House of Commons." "There is," he writes, "the defiant cheer, more like a yell than a cheer. This is most commonly heard from the conservative side of the house. . . . Then there is the cheer derisive, which is very expressive, and, again, the cheer confirmatory. . . . There is also the obstructive cheer, . . . and, lastly, there is the genuine English, manly, approving cheer." And "Hear, hear!" denotes them all.
A Short Lived Club.
One of the most short lived clubs ever formed was the Club des Ladies—club for ugly women—organized by the Princess Pauline Metternich, who was an elegant woman, but so ugly that she used to call herself "a white monkey." Perhaps she felt lonesome. Anyhow, she tried to gather some of the other women she knew who were not blessed with good looks into a club. But the club proved unpopular and died a natural death. The princess got back at her women acquaintances by remarking that if there were any candor in them her club would be overcrowded.

Saved the Admission Money.
Ruth came home from her first visit to Sunday school, carrying a small sack of candy.
"Why, Ruth, where did you get the candy?" asked the family, who had gathered to hear her experiences.
Ruth looked up in surprise.
"I bought it with the nickel you gave me," she said. "The minister met me at the door and got me in for nothing."—Ladies' Home Journal.
A Matter of Policy.
"Honesty is the best policy," mused the business man.
"I've never heard of that company," began the insurance man, who had been sparring for an opening, "but now, I've got a policy here"—But his victim had fled.—Buffalo-Express.
Strategical Blunder.
"Pa, what is it they call a strategical error?"
"That's the kind of error your father makes, my boy, when your mother is giving a party and he forgets to enter the house by the back door."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The man who waits for opportunity, and when he sees it takes it, is not so good a man as he who does not wait, but makes it.
