ODDITIES IN NAMES.

The Old English Puritans indulged in Some Curious Freaks.
Referring to an article on the unusual Christian name as an aid to fame, a correspondent kindly submits some specimen names, for perplexed parents.
In 1878 a London journal announced the marriage of a lady whose first name was—take a deep breath—Totantretateuterlate, but it omitted to mention what she was called in the bosom of the family. Among the Dublin marriage licenses, too, the name Atleandollogra occurs. And as lately as 1806 a Dorinda Cassandra appeared in the London Times. With such names one could hardly fail to get into the papers.
Odd combinations of names resulted from the system of nomenclature followed by the Puritans. James Brome in his "Travels Over England, Scotland and Wales," published in 1700, gives a copy of a "Jury Return Made at Ryb. Sussex, in the Late Rebellious, Troublesome Times." The names of the twelve good men and true were Meek Brewer, Graceful Harding, Kill-sin Pimple, Earth Adams, Weep-not Billing, More Fruit Fowler, Hoop-for Bending, Return Spelman, Fly Debate Roberts, Stand Fast on High Stringer, Be Faithful Joiner and Fight the Good Fight of Faith, White.
How a present day justice would enjoy himself if a jury named in this style were called before him!—London Chronicle.

Wonderful Earthworms.
As Darwin long ago showed, the earthworm is the farmer's friend. Its burrows drain and aerate the soil, while the earth which has passed through its body is finely divided and is constantly being brought to the surface from lower levels. Its body is adapted to the burrowing habit. The pointed head end is devoid of feelers and eyes, and the foot stumps are only represented by rows of bristles, which can be felt if the finger be passed along the body from back to front. There are no jaws, but the muscular part of the digestive tube acts as a kind of pump for taking in food. This includes plants and animals. It has a small gizzard, which contains many stones, and these are used instead of teeth to grind the food.—Chicago Herald.

The Inducement.
"He showed her a fine building lot in a fashionable suburb just before she agreed to be his."
"Ah, a case of love at first sight!"—Baltimore American.

Perverting mediocrity is much more respectable and unspenkably more useful than talented inconsistency.—Hamilton.
