Mr. Fred Porter told in a very entertaining way of his trip to Newfoundland this summer. He told interesting facts of the people there, and also in the Labrador country. Mr. Porter's talk was made more entertaining by a map which he had drawn himself, of the country visited. Mr. Lawrence Buck told of the San Francisco fair, using illustrated lantern slides which were very entertaining. Mr. Buck's talk was a complete description of the fair and was much enjoyed. The Village House was prettily decorated in autumn leaves and pink geraniums. After the program refreshments were served, followed by informal dancing.

Twenty-two ladies, sewing for the Trinity Guild bazaar for next month met at the home of Mrs. Earl W. Spencer, for an all-day meeting Monday. Many pieces of fancy work, including doll and baby accessories were finished and others started. Choice and unique dolls are to be on sale; and not only the dolls, but every convenience and accessory for the doll's wardrobe will be seen at the bazaar. Mrs. G. A. Mason is in charge of this part of the sale, which promises to make the bazaar more attractive than previous ones. The first Highland Park Club card party for the season 1915-16 took place on Tuesday evening last. At a meeting of the entertainment committee some time ago, it was decided to ask one member to take charge of these parties and to try to make them a little more popular than heretofore; no better choice could have been made for the purpose than Mrs. H. H. Doty, a genial hostess, and an authority on cards as well as other things. The result was extremely gratifying, there were fifteen tables of bridge and all those present seemed to have an extremely good time. Very pretty glass baskets were the prizes given, sandwiches and coffee were served after the game. In order to make the next party even pleasanter it is requested that those members who do not belong to a party of four wishing to play together send in their names two days before the card party to Mrs. H. H. Doty, 416 E. Central avenue and a table will be arranged for them; she will have a reserve list of players willing to help out in this matter.

SEES SISTERS BURN TO DEATH IN DREAM

Girl Makes Mysterious Journey in Trancelike State. Marinette, Wis., Oct. 19.—A dream that her three small sisters were burning to death in an orphanage asylum at Green Bay is believed by physicians to have caused a peculiar mental condition which led to the strange wanderings of Marie Behan, a pretty eighteen year old miss who returned here while police in northern Wisconsin and Michigan were searching for her.

"I could not rest Tuesday night. It was 5 o'clock before I fell asleep. Then I began to dream," said the girl. "I saw my little parentless sisters dying in the flames as the asylum was burning. They called me and I dreamed that I was about to save them. The next thing I knew was when I heard some one call 'Green Bay.' Then I woke and found myself on a train just entering Green Bay. I went to see my sisters and then journeyed to Oconto to see other relatives, after which I returned."

Miss Behan was heard to descend the stairs at the home of Lee Frink, where she was a servant. That was on the morning of her disappearance. It is believed that she packed her suitcase and went to the train, purchased a ticket and boarded the train while in a trance. She has never been so afflicted before, but physicians say that such cases have been known.

THE SECRETARY BIRD.

It Kicks Like a Mule and Can Swallow a Snake Whole. The rarest and most valuable birds in the New York zoological garden are the strange pair of secretary birds quartered in the ostrich house. "Secretary birds" they are called because of the crest of long dark plumes that rises from the back of their heads, giving them the appearance of a clerk with a bunch of quill feathers behind his ear. It's an aristocratic name, but the thing that makes the secretary bird valuable is not his looks. The natives of South Africa love him because he can kick like a mule.

Toss into his cage a snake, no matter how vicious, and the fight begins immediately. The bird cautiously approaches the snake with wings wide-spread to escape the sudden lunges by flight if necessary. Once, twice, three times perhaps the snake lunges. The bird darts back, waiting his chance. At last it comes, and one of those long, hard legs shoots out like the hoof of a mule, landing squarely on the snake's head. It rears and falls back stunned to be knocked out completely by a second blow. And then its victor proceeds to swallow it whole. In South Africa the birds are regarded as a great protection. They are affectionate nudes and always travel together. When pursued they spread their wings and make off over the ground with the speed of a running horse.—Every Week.

The Dead Horse. The smart traveling man stood on a corner in the little country village at dusk. He was looking for amusement, and the first object that attracted his attention was an overgrown boy perhaps fifteen years of age riding a horse that might have come out of the ark.

"Hello, sunny!" shouted the salesman. "How long has that horse been dead?" "Quick as a flash the boy replied, "Three days, but you're the 1st boarder that has noticed it." The traveling man moved on to the hotel.—Youth's Companion Engaged. Stranger (impudently)—Say, isn't that newspaper to be had yet? I've been waiting for it for two hours. Waitress—"I'll see about it. Farmer Cross has it in the side room. He's tearing his little boy to read.—Flegende Blatter, Munich.

And So It Is. "What do you consider the greatest human paradox?" A secret session of a woman's club.—Philadelphia Ledger. Friends are lost by calling often and talking seldom.—Swift.
