PARALYSIS AFTER FOOTBALL

Knox College Student, With Back Dislocated, Ravages of Game.
St. Louis, Oct. 19.—Bryan Scott, twenty-one years old, a son of Frank Scott of Galesburg, Ill., and a member of the Knox college football team, who was injured Saturday in a game between the Knox College and St.
Louis university at Sportsman's Park, is in a critical condition at the City hospital. An X-ray showed that two of the vertebrae are dislocated and one broken. His body is paralyzed.

Scott was injured seriously in one of the first games last year, while he was playing with Cornell university.
Scott has been delirious and unconscious since he was taken to the hospital, and had been replaying the game of Saturday, calling out signals and saying "I've got my man and boys, we've got to win this game."

VICTOR E. BENDER IS DEAD

Former Well Known Publisher Succumbs to Bright's Disease.
Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 19.—Victor E.
Bender, one of the most widely known newspaper men in the state, died here from Bright's disease. He was brought to a hospital here two weeks ago from Springfield, where he formerly published the Omaha Mercury and the Com-mell Bluffs Nonpareil. Mr. Bender was born in 1861 in Grayville, Ill., and was a graduate of Knox college.

POLICE CHIEF SLAIN
BY NEGRO GAMBLER

Lynn Mathews, Galesburg, Ill., Loses Life Heading Raid.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 19.—Despite the fact there still is some excitement on the streets following the murder of Chief of Police Mathews, the authorities feel no fear of disorder. "Lottie" Hopkins, a negro accused of killing the chief in a raid on a gambling house, was taken from the jail here early in the morning and, under guard of three deputy sheriffs, rushed to Peoria to avoid possible violence.

Mathews was shot and killed while leading a raid on a negro gambling house. When the officers burst into the place, where several negroes were engaged about the gaming tables, Lottie Hopkins opened fire on the officers. The chief fell with a bullet wound through his right lung. He died in a few moments.

The shots fired by Hopkins were the signal for general firing on the part of other negroes and the officers, who had followed their chief into the house. The firing lasted for several minutes and when it ended and the negro gamblers had been disarmed it was found that Hopkins had escaped.

Sinnissippi Farm's Experiment in Dairying

FROM GEO. E. MARTIN FROM BREEDER'S GAZETTE.

PANORAMIC VIEW OF FARM BUILDINGS.

Much of the northern Illinois territory is given over to dairying. Large concerns engaged in the preservation and distribution of dairy products have established milk condensing factories and creameries at convenient centers, affording ready markets for milk and its products, and this has been a potent stimulus to the adoption of milk production by the farmers in that section.

Sinnissippi Farm, owned by Frank O. Lowden, is near Oregon, Ill. Much of this tract is operated on the tenant 4-foot wall of the same material, made with a 2-inch dead-air space inside.

The stalls are of cork brick. Everything is arranged to simplify the management of a farm than in any other enterprise which is to be successfully conducted and made to return a profit in keeping with the investment involved. Accordingly when the cows for the dairy were selected, he was not specially concerned with the cows that would give the greatest quantity of milk but rather with the type of cow which would return the greatest profit for the amount of feed consumed and the labor employed. His foreman was instructed to keep an account with each cow and in assembing the herd to make selections of Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys, and dual-purpose Shorthorns with a view to giving all a fair trial. In this way it could be demonstrated which breed was the most profitable for the average dairy farm in Illinois. In this scheme the value of the calves for dairy or beef purposes will be considered.

Important Bearing On Dairy Practice.
Such an experiment will not be lacking in interest to Illinois farmers who are endeavoring to arrive at a stable basis of farm operations which will prove to be a soil conserver and at the same time produce a profit commensurate with the high values to which the farm lands in the state have attained. Many thinking farmers find unresolved, at least to their own satisfaction the problem of the best system of farming, and if the experiment which Mr. Lowden has undertaken on his Sinnissippi farm shall result in the formulation of a profitable plan in the conduct of that farm it will not be lacking in interest to average farmers in Illinois. The work is being conducted in a practical way, such as would be the case on the average farm. Whether the experiment results in proving that the highly productive special dairy cow is the kind to tie to, or the cow of smaller milk production of a dual type whose male calf will make a marketable beef steer at an early age, remains to be seen. It is the problem that Mr. Lowden is determined to solve by means of this Sin-

INSIDE VIEW OF AN INEXPENSIVE AND PRACTICAL DAIRY BARN.

Plan. On account of the establishment at Oregon of a large milk condensing plant, and since the system of maintaining live stock in order to retain soil fertility is a rule of farming insisted on by Mr. Lowden, a number of farmers have engaged in dairying on Sinnissippi lands, and a practical dairy is in operation on the farm.

Plan Adaptable to Average Farm.

Dairy farming is an established system that has been proved profitable.
But for an experiment that has been inaugurated by Mr. Lowden and is being worked out there is nothing of special interest in the fact that at Sinnissippi a practical dairy is in operation. But the plan is adaptable to the average farm. Mr. Lowden desires to evolve a method which will apply to the ordinary farm, can be adopted by the farmer of average means, and will return a profit in keeping with the investment. Accordingly in arranging the buildings on the farm for this purpose, the old horse and cattle barn was remodeled.
The main barn is 72 by 120 feet, with a capacity for 100 cows, in addition to 6 maternity stalls and 3 bull stalls.
The floors are of concrete, with a ings into a dairy barn an implement shed is being remodeled and arranged for a creamery, as it is the intention of transforming the dairy products into butter and cheese, retaining the by-products for consumption on the farm.

Production Cost System Worked Out.
The dairy at Sinnissippi Farm is in charge of A. F. Lally, a practical

PART OF DAIRY HERD SINNISSIPPI FARM.

dairyman. A thorough system of the cost of production has been worked out, in which records are being kept with each cow in the herd, the object being to eliminate the non-profit producers. Frank O. Lowden is a man who likes to go to the bottom of things and to prove to his own satisfaction why a thing is thus or so. He realizes that haphazard methods should have no more place in the man-

sidered.

Mississippi Farm test. The eventuation of the experiment, made by a man whose interest in Illinois agriculture is practical and intense, will have an important bearing upon dairy practice in this state.

GEO. E. MARTIN.

A QUEEN AND A STYLE.

Handkerchiefs Are Made Square Because of a Royal Whim.

It is not necessary to insist on the utility of the handkerchief, for no one will contest it, but why should it be eternally woven in the stereotyped form of a square? The square may be large, the square may be small, but why square instead of oval or oblong?
The unfortunate young Queen Marie Antoinette is responsible for the shape of the handkerchief.

On Jan. 2, 1785, a royal command was issued that henceforth the regulated form of the handkerchief should be in the form that we are so accustomed to see. Before this we are led to believe that divers forms were used —triangles, heart shaped, points of a star, etc.

These individual conceptions did not please her majesty. She carried her complaints to the pliable Louis XVI.
It was her belief that the handkerchief in the form of a square was more elegant.

At the above date Louis had the following decree issued: "The length of all handkerchiefs manufactured in the kingdom shall be equal to their breadth."

During all the changes of government in France, from the revolution to the third republic, the law passed under Louis XVI. is the only one that has been immovable, as far as things to be worn are concerned. It has jealously guarded every change, and the rest of the Christian world has in this respect faithfully followed the wishes of Queen Marie Antoinette.—New York American.
