

Photo copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.
THE PRESIDENT AND HIS BRIDE.

SIMPLICITY MARKS WEDDING OF PRESIDENT AND MRS. NORMAN GALT

Bride, One of Washington's Most Beautiful Women, Has Never Looked More Lovely and Attractive.

She is a Woman of Simple Tastes, Fond of Books and Traveling and an Excellent Housekeeper.

THE wedding of the president of the United States and Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt at the bride's Washington home on the evening of Saturday, Dec. 18, electrifies an entire nation, peculiarly susceptible to the heart appeal to a country witnessing the marriage of its first citizen.

With a ceremony so simple and with attendants so few one can scarcely believe that the wedding means a new life for the president and a new "first lady of the land."

Mrs. Galt, one of the most beautiful women in Washington of the old Virginia stock, never looked more lovely than she did as the date for the wedding approached. And even the most cynical recognizes the genuineness of the elation and buoyancy of the president, who under the spell of his bride has been literally "made over."

On Dec. 23 the president will be fifty-nine years old. Less than a year ago the trace of a very eventful year was written unmistakably into his face and physique. Especially did he show the stress and travail which he has undergone during the last five years. Today, apparently without a care in the world, he looks less than fifty. His air of austere reserve has melted away, and he is all graciousness. Nobody can doubt that under the influence of the simple, gracious, companionable woman he has won, "the year at the spring" for him. Moreover, he developed an enthusiasm in his courtship that proved a delight and surprise for those who thought they knew him best.

The "Something Blue."

The same turquoise bracelet worn by other brides of this administration—Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo—adorns the arm of the president's bride. It is the property of Miss Margaret Wilson and supplies the "something borrowed and something blue" necessary to carry out the old bridal superstition.

The "something old" is a piece of rare old rose point from a famous Bolling collection. The wedding gown, of course, provides the "something new."

The Galt home in Twentieth street was put in spick and span order for the ceremony and the festivities incident thereto. The floral scheme is on an elaborate order, having been worked out by experts of the White House conservatories.

The tall mirrored mantel in the drawing room, which has been done over in American Beauty tints, is banked with lilies of the valley and Killarney roses. The tall palms which have formed part of the decorations at all White House weddings since that of Nellie Grant have been placed in the drawing room.

The dining room, the scene of the wedding feast, is one of the most interesting rooms in the house. The long mahogany table, an heirloom in the bride's family, has been polished to extra brightness. The old fashioned buffet is laden with gifts of silver of friends and with the hand wrought silver of the Bolling family.

The country has never witnessed functions more brilliant than those which will be held in the White House after the return of the president and his bride from their honeymoon. She is a gracious and brilliant entertainer, although she has taken little part in social activities during the past eight years. Of course there will be trouble in arranging the diplomatic dinners because of the European war, but the president's bride is somewhat of a diplomat herself and will find a way out. Many receptions have been planned, and Washington society is rejoicing.

Washington has often noted with complimentary phrases the bride's taste in dress. Her friends have always remarked her ability to dress distinctively and becomingly. Back of this ability lies a talent cultivated in the girlhood days. Money was not overabundant in the Bolling family. There was enough to give everybody the education due the standing of an old and influential Virginia family, but cash to buy trousseaux and lin for a family of girls remarkable for their beauty and popularity was not always available, wherefore Miss Edith Bolling began to utilize her gift for line and form and for color and design. Twenty-five years ago in Wytheville, Va., the new first lady is a girl in her teens developed a great reputation in the large family connection for her ability to buy, to cut out, to fit and to make up divers frocks for divers occasions. So, too, with hats. She has great skill in the building of a hat. She can "poise a wing" or twist a ribbon into a bow with the skill of a trained hand.

Not Fond of Jewelry.

"She has less jewelry than any member of the family," said one of the connection the other day. "I should say she has no favorite gem. The opal is her birthstone and is seen in the hander some bodice jewels, brooches or rings she possesses. She never cared for jewelry, even as a young girl."

The bride is fond of flowers. No matter what the blossom, its color, its fragrance, its shape, its size, she is fond of flowers. The president's earliest remembrance took the form of exquisite clusters of orchids, sometimes white, sometimes yellow, sometimes mauve. Huge clusters of rich red roses and sometimes replaced the orchids, and again bunches of lilies of the valley beautified the smart toilets in which she appeared either in public or in the drawing rooms of her friends.

A few books showed the president's thoughtfulness from time to time. "Blue-White, not either bookish or a 'blue-White' stocking," the bride is a remarkably well informed woman. She has made nine or ten trips to Europe, and each time she has gone she has stopped for periods varying from six months to a year. She is keenly observant, and she delights in leisurely touring about in unfrequented paths.

A Simple Woman.

"You may take it from me, Edith never does anything for effect or because it is considered 'the thing to do.' She is in love with the man Woodrow Wilson. The glamour of the White House did not attract her or influence her judgment in a matter so intimate and vital," was one comment.

This side light is further emphasized in her manner of traveling. She selects her route and her companion, makes her arrangements and sets out sanely. According to another of her friends, she is one "of the most alive and vivid women" imaginable.

An alive and vivid woman she appears in her travels. Two years ago, with Miss Alice Gertrude Gordon, she made a tour of Spain—not the Spain of the cities, but the bypaths of the unfrequented Spain.

Between Miss Gordon and the bride the warmest friendship exists. Called to General Gordon's deathbed, her promise to "look after Gertrude" has resulted in a devoted friendship cemented by long periods of travel in far-off lands. Sentimental only is the tie of "guardianship" which many in Washington, even the closest friends, consider exists between Miss Gordon and the president's helpmate. However, so devoted is she to her young companion "Altrude" (a play on the given names of Alice Gertrude) that even her business affairs have many times received the steady influence of her oversight.

Fine "Poor Man's Wife."

To turn to the purely domestic side, she is an excellent housekeeper, and she has a reputation for retaining not only the good will but the co-operation of her domestics. She herself can work out a menu admirably, and if the necessity arose she could personally "get up" a palatable dinner. She is clever at the Sunday evening supper table (a distinctive feature of southern households), and her handling of the chafing dish on these occasions conduces to the good digestion which waits on appetite.

She is a familiar figure in the Washington markets, her smart little run-about many times being filled with the more perishable fruits of her domestic shopping.

Altogether she would make a "fine wife for a poor man."

She is open handed and generous, a devoted church woman and until quite recently a member of St. Thomas' Episcopal church. She now attends St. Margaret's, where her brother, Richard Wilmer Bolling, is an usher and her mother, Mrs. W. H. Bolling; her unmarried brother, John Randolph Bolling, and her sister, Miss Bertha Bolling, also attend.

Fond of Young People.

"To show the younger contingent a good time" is one of her attributes. Not less is she considerate of the aged. Many instances of her looking up the invalid and elderly and taking them for drives about the parks are recorded. The mother of a young southern woman employed in one of the government departments came to visit her daughter, whom the president's bride had frequently met. Almost daily throughout the visit she appeared either in the afternoon or morning and acted as cicerone.

As to her accomplishments, the bride, possessing an avid mind and having traveled extensively—she has passed some time in every country in Europe and has traveled throughout the United States, Canada and Alaska—is thoroughly in touch with the thought and development of the life of the day. She speaks French well. She is a talented pianist. Her fine mezzo soprano voice, while untrained, is admirably suited to periods varying from six months to a year. She is keenly observant, and she delights in leisurely touring about in unfrequented paths.

Finally she is well poised, "very human" and thoroughly unaffected and sincere. Not only charmingly pretty, she has the distinction of manner and carriage which will admirably conform to the role she is soon to assume—chaperone of the White House and first lady of the land.

Two Days before Christmas

There is still time to have that "CABINET GAS RANGE" installed before Xmas. We wonder if you realize how delighted Mother or Wife or Sister would be with a new "RELIABLE" in the kitchen. What joy and satisfaction would be theirs all the year round. Installed within two hours, after notice.

North Shore Gas Company
North Sheridan Road
Phone 194

PHEASANT

BRAND

Loganberry Juice

The pure juice of the fruit with sugar
A Beverage that satisfies
A Tonic that braces

IDEAL

For Sherbets, Punches, Sauces—HOT or COLD
An all around HOLIDAY DRINK

For Sale By
GEORGE F. BOCK, Highland Park
GEORGE TUCKER, Ravinia

Deerfield News Items

The December meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Easton Thursday afternoon. The subject was "The Mountaineers," and Mrs. Fred Haggie, the vice-president, had charge of the meeting.

The Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening was led by Miss Dorothy Reichelt.

Miss Florence Carolan was another victim of the gripe last week. During her absence from the Wilmot School Mrs. R. E. Pettis acted as substitute teacher.

The Senior and Intermediate classes of the Presbyterian Bible School will give a Christmas pageant in the church Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Gaddis and her two small children returned from Brighton, Colorado, last week, where they have been the guests of Mrs. Gaddis' mother, Mrs. Counter, for four months.

Miss Clara Pyle was confined to her home with the gripe last week.

Mrs. W. Walker of Chicago, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Duffy, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Whiting, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Whiting of Winnipeg, Canada, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whiting.

On Tuesday afternoon the members of the St. Paul's Ladies' Aid gave Mrs. J. Lueder a pleasant surprise in honor of her birthday anniversary. All seem to have enjoyed themselves having been entertained by various games.

The Misses Marie, Loretta, and Ruth Kress, Messrs. Lester Stanger, Elmer Clavey and Alex. Willman, attended a Five Hundred Party at the home of Miss Vils Graves of Forest Glenn Tuesday evening.

An interesting program is planned by the Sunday School of St. Paul's church which will be given Friday evening, December 24th, and the service on Christmas morning will be at the usual time. The minister will address the congregation in English and German. There will be no service Sunday, December 26th.

Last Saturday afternoon Mr. Louis Ott and Miss Ellen Horenberger were united in marriage by Rev. Lueder at the parsonage.

The St. Paul's League will meet Thursday, December 30th, at the parsonage.

Little Theresa Peterson, Ernest Dieck, Katie Man, Richard Kress and Bernice Love will make their first Holy Communion at the nine o'clock mass Christmas morning in the Holy Cross Church. The Sunday School classes of the Holy Cross Church will have a Christmas program and Christmas tree Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. J. C. Wolf.

The Misses Eida and Mabel Horenberger were hostesses at the Sewing Club at their home Monday evening.

Miss Carlson of Berwyn, is the guest of Mrs. C. Jarvis.

Miss Clara Pyle was hostess at a six o'clock dinner party to a few of her friends Sunday evening.

Miss Martha Karch was confined to her home last week with the gripe.

Misses Almira Rockinbach, Grace Schlie, who are attending the De Kalb Normal School, Messrs. Alvin Meyer and Irvin Plagge, who are attending the University of Illinois, returned to spend the holidays with their parents.

Mrs. Geo. Watier of Maywood, Ill., died last Friday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. L. P. Todd, Deerfield, Ill. Mrs. Watier was the youngest daughter of Mrs. Todd, and was thirty-six years of age. Deceased was born in Chicago later moving to Deerfield with her mother, and spent most of her childhood days here, attending the Deerfield school. At the age of twenty years she was united in marriage with George Watier of Chicago, moving at once to Maywood where they have made their home ever since. Four children were born to this union, all of whom are living. Mrs. Watier had been in ill health for some time, and during the past year had been pronounced incurable by her physicians. She had been taken from Maywood to her old home in Deerfield in hopes the change would benefit her, but while every attention was given her, the end came at the above stated time, quite unexpectedly. Mrs. Watier was a sister of Miss Josephine Woodman of Deerfield, J. E. Woodman, Mrs. W. H. Kist of Wilmette, Mrs. Smelser of Chicago and James Woodman of Waukegan. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Deerfield home at 2:30 and interment made in the Deerfield cemetery.

Wm. Grand, English, will take full charge of dinner parties or assist at receptions' balls, etc. Best references. Tel. 721-W

Dr. E. A. Hamilton Dr. Earl D. Fritch
DENTISTS
Suite 4, 5 and 6, State Bank Bldg.
Telephone 678 HIGHLAND PARK, ILL.

Telephone 908

J. P. STEFFEN

Fresh Butter, Eggs and Poultry

331 McDaniel Avenue
HIGHLAND PARK, ILL.

J. Smith

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Iron Rags 1c per lb.
Metal Rubber Bottles Paper, etc.

The lightest Cash Prices
Automobile Tires, Metals & Rubbers A SPECIALTY

Drop me a postal card or telephone me and I will call for goods

60 North First St.
Highland Park
Telephone 410

Our Printing and Engraving are the BEST

Open Evenings until Christmas

Christmas Gifts. Shape for the desired prices as never before—

a hearty welcome

which were so eagerly desired as have been seen have just arrived—1.00, Pump Guns 50c 25c to 8.00, Doll Tea

Stationery Martha Washington & Colonial Stationery, Correspondence Cards, etc., beautifully boxed 1/2c to 3.25. Most attractive ever shown.

Gift Books Unlimited selection of desirable books for young and old, making lasting gifts 10c to 1.50

Framed Pictures Well known scenic & portrait paintings, copies of valuable oil paintings reproduced, wide gilt frames 1.00, 1.50 and 2.50.

Sweets to the Sweet

If you know our candies, you'll make your selection from our great stock at once. Boxed Christmas candies in a great variety. 1/2 lb. boxes up to any size 25c up. Bulk candy 12c 20c 25c and 50c lb.

Mixed Nuts 20c lb.

Boudoir Slippers

This is the home of "Comfy" house slippers for men, women and children. Nothing will please more than a gift of such practical nature. Low priced too 60c to 1.50.

Buicks

SONS INC.

ch Bread as Ours

never baked and we can't if you'll let us. The big baked fresh every day shows popular it is, even with women formerly did their own baking. loaf or so of it and you'll be uselessness of bothering some baking any longer.

arys Home Bakery
20 W. Central Ave.

ards at

or Dealer

Jewelry Store

enue