TO ASSIST IN EMPLOYMENT

Waukegan Commercial Association to be a Sort of Employment Bureau

Owing to the almost constant stream of inquiries regarding the availability of labor, the Waukegan Commercial Association through its industrial department under Vice President C. T. Ford, has decided to issue a public appeal requesting that laborers, both male and female, register at the association offices on the third floor of the Coon building.

The great strides which Waukegan is making in the field of industrial development makes of this question of demand and supply of labor an important one, and the officials of the Commercial Association, alive to its significance, desire to find out just what classes and kinds of labor they have. They are therefore requesting that people desiring employment of any kind, especially machine operators and mill hands, send their names, age, address, experience and references. The association cannot guarantee employment, but no charge will be made for service rendered of this character.

In the near future, the Commercial Association plans to undertake an extensive industrial survey for the purpose of indexing facts concerning Waukegan's industries and kindred matters. It is expected that such a survey will indicate many advantages which Waukegan is thought to enjoy over other cities and at the same time it will show where it is lacking and the step offers good opportunities for some constructive team-work in the future.

 Gentlemen:
 The sample of water which you submitted to us for analysis taken from our Water Purifier and Filter showed that it contained four grains of lime per United States gallon. The mud, silica, organic matter and bacteria was all removed, that the water is absolutely pure and is ice that you are making is better than any that is made in the city of Chicago or any suburban town.
 Very truly yours,

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

Things That Are Mere Comforts Now Used to Be Luxuries.

No economist has put enough emphasis on the fact that if the cost of living is higher now it is to a large extent because the average man is demanding more comforts and luxuries, and these must cost more. Before the days of plumbing and bathrooms the workman missed some onerous bills, but he is not ready to throw the plumbing out of the house.

Oil is cheaper for light than electricity, but people pay more for a modern light because they want the better service even at the higher prices. Workmen by the thousands have phonographs, a form of entertainment unknown until a very few years ago.

Even street cars are rather a new thing, and the poorest families spend many dollars every year for this service, which has become indispensable. Magazines are purchased now by many people who ten years ago had never subscribed for such a publication.

Thousands of articles are for sale in every department store, of which a large percentage are purchased at some time or other by the average wage earning family.

Modern living does cost more assuredly, but it also yields more.—Milwaukee Journal.

ATLAS AND HIS LOAD.

It Was the Heavens, Not the Earth, the Titan of Mythology Upheld.

Strictly speaking, "atlas" is a misnomer for a map book, since it was not the world, but the heavens, that the Atlas of mythology upheld. Mercator, the famous Dutch geographer, who made globes for Emperor Charles V. of Germany, was the first to use the name in this connection, choosing it as a convenient and in some sort an appropriate title, because Atlas, the demigod, figures with a world upon his shoulders as a frontispiece of some early works on geography.

Atlas, it was said, made war with other Titans upon Zeus and, being conquered, was condemned to bear heaven upon his head and hands. Later tradition represented him as a man chained by means of Medusa's head into a mountain, upon which rested heaven and all its stars.

In any case, Atlas was always associated with a heavy burden strongly borne. Thus Shakespeare makes Warwick say to Gloucester, "Thou art no Atlas for so great a weight."

It is not difficult to see how by an association of ideas this came to be chosen as the name for a book of maps which upholds and exhibits to us the whole world.
