

SOME of our patrons are not sure as to just what they should send us in order to get our new Finished Family Laundry Rate of 36 pieces for 54c each, 60 pieces for 5c each and 100 pieces at 4c each. To make it clear to everyone we give the following explanation:

These low rates were adopted to make it cheap enough for every family to send us their entire laundry work and have it finished complete. This allows you to send your dresses, skirts, waists, underwear, blankets, etc., at the above rate but we must receive all your fat work, handkerchiefs, stockings, etc., as well. The reason is to give you the opportunity to do away with any laundry work at home and make it fair to all.

Families that have accepted this plan are greatly pleased and recommend it to their friends. We want you to try it.

"Eastgate Cottage," Miss Anna Morgan's summer home in Ravinia was a scene of a pretty out door luncheon Saturday, when Miss Morgan was hostess to the board and committee of the Cordon Club of Chicago. The morning was spent in an automobile tour of parts of Highland Park and Ravinia. On Tuesday Miss Morgan was hostess at a studio tea at her studios in the Fine Arts Building, Chicago.

Mrs. William Ernst of McGovern street was delightedly surprised on Sunday when several of her relatives came to help her celebrate her birthday.

A very pretty June wedding was that of Miss Marjorie Small, daughter of Mr. A. Small to Mr. Walter Neilson son of Mrs. Neilson of Evanston, which took place on the lawn at the A. P. Smith residence, at four o'clock Saturday afternoon with Rev. P. C. Wolcott reading the service. The matron of honor was Mrs. Frank Wymond, sister of the bride, while the Misses Catharine Cushing, Dorothy Loudon of this city, Dorothy Sargeant of Glenoco, and Adelaide Neilson of Evanston acted as bridesmaids. Caroline and Barbara Bullard were the flower girls. The best man was Mr. Ralph Lidster and the ushers were Messrs. Thomas Bishop, Winnetka, Howard Cheney, Charles Cheney of Evanston, Lawrence Small of this city, and Herbert Gay of Newark, N. J. The bride's gown was of white tulle with a white satin train trimmed with tulle. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids were all dressed in white and carried large bouquets of pink sweet peas. A reception followed the ceremony and table decorations were in white. Mr. and Mrs. Neilson will be at home after August first at 2223 Colfax Ave. Evanston.

The Worth White Circle met with Miss Charlotte Brand on Tuesday evening. The next meeting will be with Mrs. O. B. Brand.

Ten young people from the United Evangelical Church hiked to Deerfield and were entertained at the home of Walter Tillman on Tuesday evening. Dainty refreshments including fresh strawberries and cream were served. Everyone had a most delightful time.

Campbell Chapter guild will meet with Mrs. Henry Clow of South Second Street on Wednesday, July 5th.

Mrs. Charles Freberg entertained the euchre club on Thursday afternoon. The prize winners were first prize, Mrs. Edward Huber, second, Mrs. Henry Clow and consolation prize, Mrs. Louis Shetzley.

On Thursday evening the regular meeting of Campbell Chapter was held. After the meeting a delightful party was given in the dining room in honor of Mrs. Henry Clow and Miss Ida Behrens, officers of the Eastern Star whose birthday come on the same day. Dainty refreshments were served including a lovely birthday cake. Decorations were in yellow daisies and blue bachelor buttons.

MOSES AND SANITATION.

Ancient Laws as Effective as Modern Rules of Hygiene.

There has been gathered a collection of facts to prove that the sanitary laws of Moses were not only on a line with the modern rules of hygiene, but in some cases in advance of them.

The Jew, thousands of years before Christ, settling in a semitropical country, was forbidden to eat pork or shell fish, and milk was designated as a source of contagion. In the Talmud a method of slaughtering animals was prescribed which is acknowledged today in our markets as the most sanitary.

Five thousand years before Koch gave to the world the results of his researches in bacteriology the Mosaic law pointed out the danger to man from tuberculosis in cattle, but did not forbid infected poultry as food. It was only a few years ago that German specialists discovered that fowl tuberculosis was harmless to man.

The Mosaic law also enforced the isolation of patients with contagious diseases and the burial of the dead outside all cities. These hints the Gentile world did not fully accept until a century or two ago.

The wise lawgiver prescribed not only fasting at certain periods of the year, but the removal of all families in summer out to camps, where for a time they could live close to nature. Many of the laws of Moses were prescriptions intended for the health of both mind and body.—Boston Transcript.

NO EXCUSE FOR "AIN'T."

It is About the Worst Contraction in the English Language.

"Ain't" is an improper abbreviation of "are not." British writers spell it "ar'n't," which properly indicates its derivation. Americans make it an invidious offense, using it for "am not" and "is not," as well as for "are not." It is unquestionably the worst instance of slovenliness in the common speech of today.

Yet it is by no means universal or even common use. It will slip occasionally from refined lips, always with a jar to the enunciator, as well as to the hearer. But the habitual user of "ain't" is careless of refinement. He may be an excellent citizen who never beats his wife nor kicks the cat. But there is likely to be something slipshod about him somewhere. For "ain't" is needless, as well as cacophonous. It fills no void and supplies no need.

English observers complain superciliously of the laxness of American speech. American observers who have listened to the marvels of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Devonshire and other shire dialects are inclined to resent any assumption of British superiority. But it is none the less desirable to eliminate our own linguistic sins, and of these "ain't" is the most deplorable.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Awkward.

A visitor to a hospital for soldiers was surprised to hear one of the patients being addressed by the nurses by his Christian name. It being customary to address patients by their surnames only. Upon inquiry as to why this distinction was accorded to the particular soldier referred to the reply received was:

"Well, we can't very well call him by his surname."

"But why not?" queried the somewhat astonished visitor.

"You see," was the overwhelming answer, "his surname is Love, and it's rather awkward."—London Tit-Bits.

Why Mosquitoes Like Blood.

The fact that mosquitoes so continually harass rich blooded creatures is due to the fact that they cannot lay eggs without the albuminous food which is thus obtained. In tropical countries the greatest enemy of the malarial bearing mosquito is a species of bat which is protected from the insect's bite by its strangely shaped hairs.

The bat is very swift of flight, and the mosquitoes, especially those which have already made a supper of blood, are their ideal food.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Japanese Needlewomen.

The daughters of the land of flowers sometimes curiously reverse European methods. They needle their thread instead of threading their needles, and instead of running their needle through the cloth they hold it still and run the cloth upon it. An English lady long resident in Tokyo once wrote to a friend that the impulse of her Japanese maids is always to sew on cuff frills and other similar things topsy turvy and inside out.

Two Important Matters.

"Now, Katie, do you know enough to keep your mouth shut?" asked the fashionable woman of the girl she was about to engage.

"Well, ma'am, I know enough to all right, but the question is, Do I get enough wages to encourage me to?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Selfishness.

The selfish man suffers more from his selfishness than he from whom that selfishness withholds some important benefit.—Emerson.

Regrets.

For all we know, the gaudy butterfly may have moments in which it regrets the fine times it had as a caterpillar.—Puck.

Wisdom is oftentimes nearer when we stoop than when we soar.—Wordsworth.

A COLUMN FOR THE USE OF EVERYBODY

Just think what a fleet of sporting and pleasure boats of all kinds Highland Park would have if it could offer them anchorage and shelter all the year round! In a community like ours, so largely composed of progressive, up-to-date, well-to-do people, it would not be long after the completion of a harbor before our city would be in a position to challenge comparison with any other city of its size along the lake in respect to yachting, motor-boating and other kindred aquatic sports and recreations.

I think you will all agree with me that such a condition would materially increase the attraction of Highland Park for the kind of people we have here and want here; that it would add materially to our possibilities of amusement and enjoyment and that it would certainly enhance the value of our property, thus benefiting every resident and every man who does business here.

Personally, I don't assume to know any of the details of cost or construction, but I do believe that we can get together and build a yacht harbor that will take care of all the boats owned here, and leave room for many others that will be certain to come in the near future, without hurting ourselves. A small individual contribution from each of us according to his means and a strong spirit of co-operation will put this project across and do it without delay. We don't want a yacht harbor some time in the future when we can't enjoy it and its benefits for ourselves; we want it now—we want to get it well under way, if not fully completed, this season. Mr. Clarke has already given us a flying start toward success; all we need to do is to fall into line with him and do our share.

Therefore, citizens, I call upon you to get together for a Highland Park yacht harbor. Get together among yourselves and send for Henry B. Clarke to tell you what he has done and give you his ideas of what you should do.

You may be asking yourself what business this is of mine—what interests I have in such a project. Well citizens, I tell you I am for anything and everything that will be of benefit to Highland Park, that is why I am boosting for a yacht harbor and writing this letter.

Yours for Highland Park,
ANDREW BLOOMFIELD
