WHAT ARDEN SHORE IS DOING

Once more the Arden Shore Association is appealing to the generous and philanthropic people of the North Shore, who for many years have regarded the big Fresh Air Camp at Lake Bluff as their particular charity. The Association needs several thousand dollars more to carry on its work throughout the summer and to continue the camp as a home for convalescent men during the winter.

The Arden Shore Board is not by any means forgetful of the generosity Highland Park has shown in past years, and it has faith that the people of this community will help as liberally this year as before. The purpose of the present appeal is to remind those who have helped before, and to awaken the interest and enlist the support of others who have not yet had a part in supporting this splendid recreation spot for Chicago's needy women and children.

The Local Committee consists of a group of representative Highland Park women, with Mrs. J. McGregor Adams, "the mother of Arden Shore" as Chairman.

Checks for remittances of any sort should be made payable to Arden Shore Association and sent to Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Jr., Winnetka, Ill. Anyone interested in the Association's work is requested to get in touch with the Local Committee; they will all be glad to receive suggestions and cooperation toward providing funds for the camp or for adding to its equipment.

The officers of the Association invite everyone who cares about such work as it carries on to visit the camp. They are certain that nobody can see what is being done for mothers and children at the camp and how the beneficiaries of the work appreciate and enjoy the results and go away with an untouched heart.

The camp entrance is just one mile north of Lake Bluff and opens off the road which runs immediately east of the railroad tracks. It is so plainly marked that it can be easily seen from train or motor.

Mrs. Philip S. Post, President of the Association, says:

"We are all of us more grateful for the assistance and funds contributed to our work by the people of Highland Park than we know how to say. But we are still in need of funds—of everything in the way of money, equipment or service that any one can give. It will require several thousand dollars more to provide against all the expenses contemplated in the very carefully figured budget of this year. And we are always in need of toys, dolls, playground apparatus, books and magazines, towels, blankets, bathing suits (for girls of all ages and boys up to fourteen).

"At present we have approximately 500 guests in camp; of these 80 are mothers and the rest are children all the way up from the three-weeks-old tot who is the pride of the 'Baby-fold'. I wish every one of our readers could go out to the camp and see the

EX-MAYORS' PORTRAITS HUNG IN COUNCIL ROOM

WORK OF HISTORICAL COMMISSION

Frank P. Hawkins Representing the Beginning and End of Old Regime is Shown Twice by Likeness. Short Life Sketches

By Publicity Commission

There are eighteen interesting portraits newly hung in our Council Chamber that harmonize pleasingly with the brown tint of its walls and soften the severity of the room. They are the heads of the seventeen mayors who presided through the forty-six years of the older order before our new commission form of government came into existence. Since that era was bounded on both sides by the same man, namely, Mr. Frank P. Hawkins, there are fittingly two pictures of him. One portrays him as the newly incorporated city's first mayor, 1869, the other, quite as strong a face, shows him as he looked last year, when, with the expiration of his term, the old regime closed.

After Mr. Hawkins' first portrait hangs that of Cornelius R. Field, whose term ran from April, 1870, to April, 1872. He was at that time cashier of the First National Bank of Chicago. Beside his, is the face of S. B. Williams, a Chicago Board of Trade man and a descendant of Roger Williams. He was one of the founders of the Presbyterian Church of Highland Park. Next in order comes the artistic countenance of Thomas H. Beebe, a really fine man, who seemed in no way to deserve the series of calamities which befell him at the time of Chicago's great fire. His home and place of business were burned at that time, and the schooner in the Chicago River, on which he had placed for safety his large and valuable collection of paintings, was burned also. The same year the Peshtigo Mills of Wisconsin, of which he was president, were destroyed by fire. He never recovered financially.

The great architect, W. W. Boyington comes next. Among the many noted buildings of his designing are the Chicago Board of Trade and the State Capital at Springfield. John Middleton's portrait is next in order. (Continued on page 4)

WILMETTE TO PAVE SHERIDAN ROAD

Plans Call for Reinforced Concrete Base With a Vitriified Brick Surface. To be Completed by Sept. 1

With the $11,000 received as indemnity from the Drainage District, engineers' bids are now being advertised for the actual work of repaving Sheridan Road in Wilmette.

It is expected that without further delay this thoroughfare will be restored to its original condition at least by November of this year. The plans and specifications call for a completely new roadbed, consisting of a reinforced concrete base, upon which will be laid vitriified brick paving, the interstices of which will be filled with cement. Paving experts declare this will make one of the most durable surfaces possible and, in point of actual service, excels the solid concrete.

More Free Prizes Added to Last Week's List. Red Cross Relief Station. Address of Welcome by Mayor Hastings

The sixth annual Highland Park Day is to be dramatized tomorrow at Lake Front Park, the principal roles being played by the members of the Highland Park Business Men's Association. All loyal citizens are asked to decorate their motors, bicycles or other vehicles in any attractive way and enter the parade which is to start things off at nine-thirty. Everyone is especially urged to participate in this pretty part of the celebration. If you have ever ridden in the parade, in a gaily trimmed automobile down through the street lined on either side with shops in gala appearance, your heart swelled with civic pride, as you looked upon this beautiful city, and the setting aside of a day for celebration seemed a most proper thing to do. So, dear reader, it is not too late even now to tie yourself to your task of decorating and be one in this parade which will exceed in excellence all former ones. After the parade reaches Lake Front Park, and the commotion of arrivals has sufficiently quieted down the address of welcome will be given by Mayor S. M. Hastings.

Red Cross Relief Station

A new and very attractive feature which this year's Highland Park Day is to usher in is a Red Cross Relief Station. A number of women in town are banding themselves together under the auspices of the Chicago Chapter American Red Cross and with the aid of a trained nurse, and a doctor, will render first aid to those who need it. An automobile will be used for an ambulance. The station will be at the Lake Front. Dr. H. J. Ullman is to be in charge, and he with his workers deserve a great deal of credit for making possible this helpful addition to the annual Highland Park Day celebration.

MORGAN KINGSTON, as Manrico

in "Il Trovatore", which will be the attraction at Ravinia Park Saturday Night

"Morgan Kingston possesses the greatest voice that has come to New York in a decade." So wrote the critic of the New York Press at his debut with the Century Opera Company as principal tenor in 1913.

Since that institution closed its doors a year ago, Mr. Kingston has devoted himself to concert andatorio work, of which branch of his art he made such a success in Europe.

In his first season in America he has sung at sixteen festivals and was on tour with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra singing at Ann Arbor, Mich., in "Samson and Dalilah" with Mme. Matzenauer and Pasquale Amato, scoring a veritable triumph. He also sang with the New York Oratorio Society in the first performance of Bossi's "Joan of Arc" and received a bronze medal in commemoration of that event.

In Boston he was engaged for the Handel and Haydn Society's performance of "Judah Maccabaeus" and created a sensation by his singing. Mr. Kingston has also given recitals in St. Louis, Des Moines and Toronto and received an invitation to sing at the White House for President and Mrs. Wilson, who complimented him highly and presented him with a miniature Welsh harp in gold as a souvenir of the occasion.

Mr. Kingston has just been engaged to take part in the tour of "Carmen" and "Il Trovatore," under Charles A. Ellis of Boston, next season. Mr. Kingston is engaged to sing the part of Manrico to Emmy Destinn's Leonora.

Last year Mr. Kingston scored wonderfully well at Ravinia, singing Manrico and Lohengrin and other roles, and this year singing the principal tenor roles, he always calls forth a large house.

SOLOISTS' NIGHT AT RAVINIA PARK MONDAY

COMFORTABLE CROWD HEARS CONCERT

Seventh Student Artist Day, August Eighteenth with Florence Sherman, Charles Howe, Jr. and Mr. David Rosenweat

Soloists' night at Ravinia Park on Monday attracted a comfortable crowd of music lovers. The program, a beautiful combination of art, was charming, and those people who were wise enough to avail themselves of the opportunity of going enjoyed a rare treat in the way of music. Millo Pico sang the difficult Largo Al Factotum from the Barber of Seville, with such ease and composure that he was cheered most enthusiastically, and sang an Aria of the sixteenth century from an old Italian score, "Caro Mio Ben" by Giordani. Mr. Harry Weisbach played Polonaise in D by Wieniawski and when encored, as Mr. Weisbach always is, responded with an attractive Strauss composition. Estelle Wentworth and Burno Steindef were on the program as soloists and gave beautiful interpretations of their art, following up with familiar encores. After the intermission Millo Pico and Sig. Giuseppe Bonfiglio gave a program of very pretty dancing.

The seventh student artist day will be celebrated on Friday, August eighteenth, when Florence Sherman will sing an aria from Verdi and Der Strammann by Hildrach. Mr. Charles Edwin Howe, Jr. will play on the piano, the First Movement Concerto from Tchaikowsky, Mr. John Wilderstein at the second piano. A violin obligato will be played by Mr. David Rosenweat, who will give a Ronald and a Brewer composition.

Chautauqua for Waukegan

Waukegan's second big Chautauqua will open on Saturday, September 2. Secretary E. R. Gobrecht of the Y. M. C. A. has received communication from Harry P. Harrison, manager of the Redpath Chautauqua that this date is now definite. The Chautauqua proved so popular in Waukegan last year that it was decided to hold another this year.

The program is even better than that of last year and a great treat is in store for the community and for the people in the county who will enjoy the program.
