The cost of living has gone up forty-five per cent in England since the war began, and the dealers in food products have no Wilson to blame.

It wasn't until the terrible fierceness of the U-53's nature became known that it was fully realized why everybody loved the Deutschland so.

About this time of the year one can scarcely blame the early settlers for feeling that Indian summer was entirely too good for an Indian.

The German druggist who married a princess probably will compromise by recommending something to his customers that is just as good.

Why call marriage a failure when a New York lady has just received alimony at the rate of $33,000 a year?

If one could be sure that he could afford the eggs, all misgivings about the nog next Christmas might be dismissed even in prohibition State.

Nevertheless we might suspect that the average American citizen suffers more from the inflated price of stocks than from the inflated cost of wheat.

It now begins to appear that the U-53 could have been of vastly more assistance had it preceded the Bremen instead of following it several months later.

A letter in a Birmingham newspaper says that 40,000 persons have left that city by reason of prohibition. It must be fruitful to be cold sober in Birmingham.

Ebenezer Evangelical

The contest is still on and next Sunday November twenty sixth at ten a. m. is the time for a thrill. The news of the Aquitania entering the Straits of Gibraltar and the Red Sea for the final dash to Palestine has increased interest in the Sunday School. They have been studying about the Apostle Paul sailing the sea, long ago, and the miraculous ship wreck. The Great Aquitania is due to reach Palestine in two weeks. Come out and read the third message at ten a. m.

Yours, Captain of the Blues.

The Captain of the Mauritanian sends greetings both to the Captain of the Aquitania and friends on shore as follows:

On account of the inclemency of weather and rough sea encountered last week on our trip to the Orient we were delayed slightly. Ails however "All is Well." Next Sunday morning every passenger with their friends are cordially invited to be on deck at ten o'clock. Roll call and crew drill prompt at ten five.

Officers and passengers of the good ship.
