What the Sheriff Wanted

MILWAUKEE County is in the market at the present time for two automobiles for the sheriff's office. The cars they were considering are the Marmon, Packard "12," Ross "8," MacFarland "6," Pathfinder "12," and the Premier, also the Hudson Super-Six. The points that they gave most consideration were quick pickup and speed. It was arranged to have all of these cars meet at the County Jail at two o'clock on the afternoon of February 21st to hold a contest.

This contest was held on the Grand Avenue Viaduct, which is about 1800 feet long. The cars were to race in pairs, from a standing start. The Super-Six and Marmon were matched for the first race. Both cars carried six passengers. The Hudson won this test very easily, showing better than sixty miles per hour at the other end of the viaduct. The Ross "8" then eliminated the Premier, showing a maximum speed of forty-nine miles an hour. The maximum speed of the Premier was forty-four miles per hour. The Hudson Super-Six then eliminated the Ross "8," again showing better than sixty miles per hour.

The Pathfinder then eliminated the MacFarland, showing a maximum speed of fifty-four miles an hour. The Super Six eliminated the Pathfinder at sixty miles an hour. Then

We think this is proof enough that the Hudson Super-Six is in a class with the best cars made. We don't pretend performance by talk. We really produce the goods, as the Hudson Super-Six has shown the world in the past year. Watch it in 1917. These cars are for sale at

FIRST UNITED EVAN.

Corner Green Bay Road and Laurel Ave., C. G. Unangst, Pastor. Services are being held every night this week in observance of Passion Week. A great number of copies of a little book called "His Last Week" have been distributed. It is the story of the passion and resurrection of Jesus in the words of the four gospels and relates the events of the last week in the life of Jesus Christ before his crucifixion. The pastor is enlarging upon these events as they come in order. Sunday morning at 8:30 there will be a sunrise prayer meeting, led by the Christian Endeavor Society.

At 9:30 the Sunday school will consider the lesson on "Jesus Raises Lazarus from the Dead," John 11:17-27, 43, 44.

At 10:45 the pastor will deliver his Easter sermon, "The Risen Saviour's Message to His Disciples," Luke 24: 46-49.

Florence Morse Kingsley has written a very beautiful story of the First Eastertide, under the title "Love Triumphant." A number of very appropriate Easter anthems have been inserted which help to tell the story and make a very impressive Easter service. It is to be rendered Sunday evening in this church at a Vesper service conducted by the Christian Endeavor Society. This service is to be combined with the regular Sunday evening preaching service and will begin at 7:00 o'clock. After this program of song and story the Pastor will give an address on "The Risen Christ, the Best Escort on the Pilgrimage of Life," Luke 24: 31-35.

Spend your Easter with us, we will try to make it a happy one.

INTERESTING LETTERS FROM GLADYS SPENCER

As soon as the requests from a hospital are listed and the supplies packed, the boxes or bales are dispatched in our own motors, all driven by girls, all over Paris and to the hospitals near Paris. Those out any too great distance are sent by train. You can only appreciate how welcome the supplies are and how much they are needed, when you go out on a delivery and see the delight with which the doctor or nurse receives the consignment. Of course the chauffeurs are always a strange and wonderful sight to the "blanches" and they love to have you stop and chat with them; if you don't have to race off to another hospital. They are such a cheerful lot and just like children, for most of them are hardly more than that. A single cigarette brings such joy that you wish your poor five-francs would go further in the way of purchasing abominable French cigarettes.

In another letter Miss Spencer writes very interestingly of her personal experiences. She writes:

"I am beginning to settle down into the work at last. At first it was wild chaos for, as we later learned the A. F. F. W. (American Fund for French Wounded) had just moved into their new quarters on the Rue Gabriel and naturally everything was in a state of adjustment. Miss Root, under whom I serve is a wonder.

Last Friday I went out to deliver goods to Rocheville, Le Pecque, Seine, et Oise to one of the smaller auxiliary hospitals. The hospital is in a chateau, the stables being used for offices and the chateau proper for the wounded. It is a lovely spot and the men seem quite comfortably off, although of course they have to have makeshifts. There is an American girl out there as infirmiere, and she almost embraced us and the "Ford" too, she was so glad to see us. I was sorry we couldn't stay to chat with her, but it was already getting dark so we dumped our three "canses" and having had our "nehe" signed hastened on. It was really a lovely ride; half misting and only the dim lights of the vehicles reflected in the pavements, lots of military and Red Cross cars looming up out of the gloom like gray ghosts.

I kept thinking of the ambulance boys, driving along bombarded roads with wounded in their cars and wondering how it seemed. Going in and out of Paris you have to make a declaration of the contents of your car, and they examine your gasoline; on the return trip they again inspect your gasoline to see that you haven't purchased any out side, as there is a big duty to pay on it.

You can't imagine how the war sort of gets into your blood. At first you don't quite understand what's hanging over you, and why you feel as if it were cloudy all the time. Then you talk to a soldier who comes from the invaded districts, he tells you he has two sisters and a mother living near Bapaume. He hasn't heard from them since he left in August 1914; but a neighbor tells him that his mother is dead—killed. "But my sisters"—and he shrugs his shoulders and says, "Oh, les Boches," as if you'd understand that it wasn't necessary to explain. Then it suddenly comes over you, that that's what puts the sun out. Or perhaps you just pass a stunning boy, just twenty one, quite gay, well dressed, an officer with a croix de guerre, une medaille de honneur, and his bandaged eye make you feel as if something must explain what makes such things possible. You notice that civilians as well as lieutenants, captains and generals as they pass this slip of a boy, who is led by a brother officer or a girl friend, they all salute the blind boy, as if paying respects to a great soul—but of course he doesn't know.

I feel sorry for my generation and yet was there ever such a wonderful opportunity of really seeing life and experiencing the things which are worth while. You must reverence the wonderful spirit of comradeship, solidarity, and sacrifice which these pretty French girls and their brother soldiers are making for the sake of a new France.
