Don't Lose Your Head

In every crowd there is always somebody who is ready to yell "fire!" Then the panic starts. When order is restored, everybody wonders why everybody else lost his head. When President Wilson issued his war proclamation and called upon the people of the United States to conserve their resources for the struggle ahead, he did not mean that they should stop spending money. Business consists of buying and selling. Certain kinds of business are fundamental. The building business is one of them. The Press has been informed thru reliable sources that the proposed Ravinia Town Building will be started as soon as tenants are secured for the space provided in the first section of the block, also that work will be started on improvements of our City Hall, together with two or three new pavements.

In connection with these improvements proposed by our energetic council and public spirited citizens, The Press urges, "Keep on Building."

There should be no curtailment in building and road construction. Let both public and private useful construction proceed. Production and handling of building materials and public and private construction work are fundamental industries of the country. Any tendency to suspend or postpone building projects is inconsistent with maintaining our prosperity. The country is prosperous. Building investors should not hesitate to go ahead with their plans. Railroads should spare no effort to supply the building industry with the cars needed to transport materials. Government, state, county and municipal authorities should encourage the continuance of all kinds of building. Road and street improvements in particular should go on unabated. Bad roads and streets are factors of first importance in the present high cost of food stuffs. Never before was the improvement of highways so essential.

President Wilson said truly that this is the time to correct our habits of wastefulness. If we were to correct those habits, the waste turned to profit would make this war nothing but a little passing game. We may have to face a new disturbing readjustment, but business men will go to the limit to help the Government, and the real business men will keep business speeded up just a little more than it has been in the past. The right thing to do is to keep building.

DEERFIELD'S OLDEST RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Lydia M. Hoyt Approaching Her Ninety Seventh Birthday, Passes Away Thursday

Mrs. Lydia M. Hoyt one of Deerfield's oldest residents passed away Thursday evening about 6:00 o'clock after a lingering illness of two years. Mrs. Hoyt was born in New Haven Mills, Vermont in 1820, and came to Deerfield in February 1866, where she made her home at "Castle Rest" for the last 51 years. Her husband died twenty-nine years ago. Mrs. Hoyt was a wonderful old lady and up until two years ago, did all her own housework, cared for her garden and made all her clothes by hand. Her dress was always the subject of great interest as she retained the styles of the Civil War period.

October 30th, last, the Parent Teacher Association entertained in honor of Mrs. Hoyt's ninety sixth birthday anniversary in the school Assembly Hall. Mrs. Hoyt is survived by three children, five grandchildren, fourteen great grandchildren and 7 great great grandchildren.

The funeral services were read at the Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the Rev. Paul W. Stephen officiating, interment in Deerfield cemetery.

There is a very great difference in the use of human eyes in general in our day and generation from their use in the days of our forefathers. We do not have to think back many generations to the time when the number of those who worked in office, store and factory was very much less than now. In office, store and factory work the eyes must be used for many hours a day, in very close work and with great exactness, whereas in the days of the pioneers there was very little demand of this kind upon the eyes.

The wearing of glasses by young people is very much more common than it used to be, and is becoming still more common as the years pass. This does not mean that the eyes cannot see as well as they did in earlier generations, in fact, because of our more hygienic living, they see better now than in old days. The reason is that the knowledge is spreading that many cases of uncomfortable sight, in fact, nearly all such cases, can be relieved by glasses.
