

HARD WORK WINS.

It is the Staff of Life on the Hard Road to Success.

Sir Frederick Treves, a noted British surgeon, said recently that hard work counts for more than brilliancy. If he had to submit to a major operation, he added, he would choose a careful, hard worker rather than a brilliant surgeon.

These remarks have excited some controversy. But, after all, do they contain any real disparagement of brilliancy? Brilliancy, like genius, is an accident. It is born, not made. The world would be a dull, flat plane intellectually if it did not throw up brilliant people. Hard work would never have given us Shakespeare, Beethoven, Keats, Heine, Poe, Shelley.

But hard work is the staff of life. On it we can count, on it we can rely. Hard work collects data, assimilates them, verifies brilliant hypotheses, connects and completes truths received in "flashes."

When the brilliant man is also a hard worker he conquers the world. But the slow conquests of hard work by men of talent and ability are by no means negligible. We can train children to appreciate work and method, efficiency, order and industry. When they happen to be brilliant into the bargain the reward of hard work will be correspondingly greater.

Woe to them who expect brilliancy alone to give them the success that is worthy and enduring.—Chicago Herald.

VANITY AND SPECTACLES.

The Old Plea That Wearing Glasses Makes One Look Aged.

One of the popular objections to wearing glasses is that wearing glasses makes one look old.

This was true in the days when they were worn only to help poor sight and chiefly by the elderly. Now a very large percentage of wearers of spectacles are children, and the wearing of spectacles is no longer a mark of advanced age. It is not a sufficient excuse for a lady to say that glasses would make her look old.

Moreover, wearing glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eye strain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, anxious, tired, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and is far more to be avoided from the point of view of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses.

Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of face to which glasses just add the finishing touch.—Charles Phelps Cushing in World's Work.

The Way Not to Keep Young.

Our Cousin Ena is only forty years old, but she doesn't look to be a day under sixty. Worry has been the cause. She has worried almost constantly for fear she would look old and that her husband wouldn't like her. She has dieted herself in order to remain young. She never eats as much as she wants or the kind of food she wants. She seems to think that punishing herself in this manner will keep off old age. And she sleeps with a view of remaining young. She goes to bed at 6 o'clock every afternoon, and she remains in bed until 7 o'clock in the morning. The remaining eleven hours of the twenty-four she spends in trying to rub youth and beauty into her cheeks.—Claude Callan in Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Living on Calories.

The cheapest eating in the world is rice and peanuts, measured by the calories, which constitute the only real test. There is no attention paid to the value of food in practical living. Our sole guide is what hits our appetite. We want what "we'd rather," as the poor woman told Jane Addams. "There is twice as much living in some kinds of foods as in others, and yet we pass up our plate perfectly unconcerned whether it comes back with 500 or 1,000 calories. That is one reason we are poor.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Education in Japan.

Money will buy bricks, but it will not always buy brains, and Japan is one of those aspiring but poor countries that are impressed by brains, but not by bricks. There are not ten really fine educational buildings in Japan, but among her educators Japan numbers many men who, as professors in American or English universities, have won an enviable reputation.—Maynard Owen Williams in Christian Herald.

Friendly, but Formal.

"Have you a letter from your previous employer?" "No, sub," replied Erastus Pinkley. "I ain' expectin' to hear 'um him. We parted friendly, but we ain' carryin' on no reg'lar correspondence."—Washington Star.

Head of the Family.

"Are you head of the family?" "Not exactly," replied Mr. Meekton. "My position is rather that of the man higher up, who gets blamed when anything goes wrong."—Washington Star.

Not Hard to Do.

"They spend their money faster than they make it." "Well, that's no trick nowadays."—Detroit Free Press.

A Substitute.

"So you didn't get that political plum from your congressman?" "No, but he sent me some seeds."—Buffalo Express.

Your lips are the bow; your words are the arrows; there are a million marks. The arrows are of your own choosing.—Youth's Companion.
