PROTECT OUR TREES FROM TUSSECK MOTH

Station entitled "Some Important Insects of Illinois Shade Trees and Shrubs," gives a complete description of the moth and its life history and suggestions for its control. Like all other moths the tussock moth hatches from the egg in the form of a caterpillar and it is during this caterpillar stage, which lasts four or five weeks, that the stripping of trees and shrubs takes place. The full grown caterpillars may be known by its coral-red head, by two plume-like tufts of long black hairs near the head end of the body and a single similar tuft at the hind end, and especially by four thick, short, brush-like clusters of cream-colored hairs arranged, one behind the other, in front of the center of the back. The caterpillar stage of this insect is succeeded by the pupa or cocoon stage when the full grown caterpillar spins on tree trunks or the underside of large branches a grayish cocoon of silken web mixed with its own hairs. After ten days or so the moth emerges and lays her egg masses on the outside of the cocoon. These appear as frothy, oval, snow-white patches about an inch in length. Fortunately for those who fight this moth, the egg masses and cocoons are quite conspicuous and easy to scrape off. The female moth is practically wingless and has to crawl up tree trunks to find suitable places to deposit the egg masses. A simple obstacle like a band of cotton batting tied around a tree trunk will arrest her progress or that of the caterpillar and thus cocoons and egg masses will be deposited below the band where they can conveniently be collected and destroyed. It is the best current practice in areas where the tussock moth has become numerous to band trees in the way described or to scrape a smooth band round a tree trunk and smear it with tanglefoot solution. However, as pointed out by Professor Forbes in the Bulletin named above and confirmed by an opinion recently given the City Beautiful Commission by Mr. Jamst, the landscape engineer in the employ of the South Park Commissioners in Chicago, the main reliance is in scraping off cocoons and egg masses and burning them. Spraying is very difficult and of doubtful utility after the caterpillars have hatched on a scattered over the trees. They feed on the under side of the leaves out of direct reach of the spray. Besides that, as pointed out by Mr. Jamst, the caterpillars recoil instinctively from contact with a poison area and will abandon such areas for uncontaminated spots.

To cope with the situation in Highland Park a force of men with ladders and buckets was set to work in the infested areas above described and trees on parkways and in yards adjoining were cleared of eggs and cocoons. The tussock moth appears in two and sometimes three generations during one season. It is hoped that the present generation here is the final one of the season and that the eggs that have been deposited of late would not hatch until next spring. This would make it possible to continue the warfare upon this pest in Highland Park during the coming winter months. If every one is on the alert for signs of the pest and will act promptly, Highland Park may be spared an epidemic of disagreeable caterpillars. It is probable that Bulletin 151 referred to above is available for general distribution. It is recommended that persons interested write for a copy.

LOCAL SCHOOLS OPEN THIS WEEK AND NEXT

be made up of children at least six years of age but may include any whose sixth birthday does not occur later than two months from the opening of school.

The Elm Place teachers arrived early this week to attend an "Institute" of their own presided over by Mr. Smith. With but one exception all the members of last year's staff are here to take up their work again next week. Miss Ruth Bushnell retired in June to continue certain studies in which she is greatly interested. Miss Isabel Fink of Grand Rapids, Michigan, comes to fill out the staff in her stead. Miss Fink is especially trained to teach French and will devote a portion of her time to that work. Similarly Miss Koenig will teach German and the two will also assist Miss Schermerhorn in the work of the third grade. Miss Charlotte Bergman, a graduate of Church's School of Normal and Applied Arts in Chicago, has been added to the staff as cadet without salary. To qualify for appointment in her chosen profession Miss Bergman has to have a year of teaching experience. She will accordingly give her entire time for one year to Elm Place, being assigned from time to time to various duties as occasion permits.

The value of teaching a modern language to children in the elementary schools, which is rarely questioned by those who have had the opportunity to see this work carried on with skill, has also been demonstrated during the past two years in Miss Koenig's excellent work in conversational German at Elm Place. Some of the patrons of the school, however, have regarded it as unfortunate that the language of a country with which our own is at war should be the only foreign language taught in our school. Others have preferred French anyway without regard to any particular sentiment, just as others have preferred German. This and other considerations led the Board of Education to authorize the employment of both Miss Fink and Miss Koenig to teach by the "direct method" and as a portion of their daily program the language in which they specialize. With this arrangement it will be possible to offer all pupils from the fifth through the eighth grades either French or German. Pupils will be assigned to these classes as their parents direct, those who have hitherto been taking German being permitted to elect French instead if the parents so prefer.

At its recent session the state legislature passed the so-called "Daily Text Book Bill" which includes among other provisions one materially reducing the margin of profit allowed dealers for the sale of school books. The local dealers considering the margin too small petitioned the Board of Education to take over the sale of school books for elementary pupils as the Township Board did for high school pupils two years ago. This has been agreed to and beginning Monday, Sept. 10, pupils may buy their text books at the "Elm Place Book Store." The Board of Education buys the books directly from the publishers at their lowest net wholesale price and will sell to pupils at a small profit to cover expenses. Books will be sold for cash. Miss Nora Behrens, the office secretary, will have charge of the store. The store will act as the agent of pupils in the sale of second-hand books that are not soiled or otherwise disfigured. The store will not sell school supplies such as pencil, paper, drawing materials, etc. These will be on sale as before at the local dealers.

The members of the Elm Place staff are as follows: Kindergarten, Ruth Fargo and Catherine Crocker; 1st grade, Esther White and Lula Behrens; 2nd grade, Harriet Ames and Irene Jones; 3rd grade, Kate Schermerhorn assisted by Misses Ruth Koenig and Isabel Fink; 4th grade, Orva Stine and William S. Parks; 5th grade, Clara Sands and Bertha Cramer; 6th grade, Clara White and Lucille Shaw; 7th grade, Dorothy Corey and Etta Grunewald; 8th grade Alice Davis and Ellen M. Gilney; drawing and sewing, Eva Griffin; Manual Training, George Greene; music, Annie C. Jewett; cadet, Charlotte Bergman; Office secretary Nora Behrens; superintendent, Jesse L. Smith.

FARMER FEED EXPERTS.

THE AVERAGE REFORMER. [National Crop Improvement Service.] The average reformer having so little at stake himself, plunges about like a bull in a china shop, regardless of the results of his ardor. An amusing incident is told of the Secretary of Commerce. The can manufacturers put up a howl that unless they could get tin-plate to make up, no canning of fruits and vegetables could be done, so without looking over the field it is said that an order was made that steel was to be diverted by the manufacturers from other projects and put at the disposal of the can manufacturers. It looked all right on the face of it. They looked all right on the face of it. But when the manufacturers of machinery demanded steel which they contracted for, and found that there was not steel for aprons, it having been diverted to cans, a hurry-up call modifying the order was issued, so that our harvesting machines could be made in time for the growing crop.

MUST TASTE GOOD. [National Crop Improvement Service.] A dairy ration must, of all things, be palatable so that a cow will eat it. It must be bulky and coarse so as to avoid indigestion and sickness. It must contain a variety of foods so that the cow will not tire of it or get off her feed. It must contain enough real protein—all protein is not alike. It must contain the right amounts and kinds of mineral substances necessary to life, health and milk secretion. It must be highly digestible. Many feeds are only about fifty to sixty per cent digestible and the work of excreting so much waste matter is costly in that it uses up the energy of the food to do it.

WRONG FEEDING METHODS. [National Crop Improvement Service.] There is an old story about a ship captain who had a medicine chest. A sailor was sick and he found that No. 47 in his book was the indicated remedy, but alas! the bottle of No. 47 was empty, so he took equal parts of No. 40, which was strychnine, and No. 7, which was carbolic acid, and added them together and made No. 47—the sailor died.

SUCCESSFUL FEEDING. [National Crop Improvement Service.] It is most significant and probably the best argument for mixed feeds when it is considered that a large number of the most prominent and skilled men in America have discarded their own mixed feeds and rations because they have found a satisfactory brand of feed which will make as much milk at less cost and no trouble and, above all, keeps cows in perfect health.

Many agricultural schools and experiment stations use and have used them for the same reason. You can verify this by writing to any experiment station and they will give you the names of mixed brands which are best adapted to your purpose.

CHICAGO STORES OPEN LOCAL BRANCHES

Chicago Represented in Highwood by Number of Down Town Shops
If you chance to be roaming into the north boundaries of Highland Park, and should you chance to go so far as Highwood, Waukegan Ave., you would certainly think you were in the loop, Chicago. The old dilapidated buildings which have adorned Waukegan Ave. for the past number of years have been opened up as branch stores of certain of the stores in Chicago. Mandel Brothers, Rothschild, The Hub, The Golf Shop, and Noble Tailors, have established branch stores in Highwood and are ready to serve the H. O. T. C. men just as they would be served in Chicago.
Capper and Capper of Chicago will on Saturday open a branch store in Highland Park, in the Griffin Building, next door to Jesse Sober's meat market. The managers will conduct a gents furnishing business during the encampment of army men at Fort Sheridan.
