Red Cross
 The following article is taken from the Chicago Chapter Bulletin of the American Red Cross:
Why We Should Kilt—A Foreboding
 Listen, how the wind howls around the house! The sky is veiled with a thick, gray murk, and there is a penetrating chill in the air that speaks of winter's approach. You are thinking of steam heat, of open fires perhaps—at any rate, of shelter and the thick, warm clothing which you will shortly don.
 Over there in France it is raining—not a warm, beneficent summer shower, but a bone-chilling, steady downpour that soaks through the soldier's clothing and permeates deeper ever deeper into that vast sea of mud which constitutes the landscape. Standing in mud, sitting in mud, eating and sleeping in it, is the lot of the soldier in France today. Never by any chance is that mud warmed, for fires are unknown quantities, except for purposes of cooking.
 Before many weeks have passed, the liquid in the air and underfoot will have congealed with the ever-falling temperature, and ice and snow, or slush will take its place. Then, more than ever, will the fighting forces feel the lack of sufficient clothing to keep out the freezing blasts. It is then that King Winter, the enemy's ally, will add, as he did last year, to the mortality lists.
 A Chicago boy, Lieut. J. E. Moore, who has just returned from the French front, where he has been fighting with the French army, tells of the experiences of French soldiers during the past winter. According to Lieut. Moore, who is on a six months' sick leave which he intends to make use of for the benefit of the Red Cross in Chicago, many thousands of allied soldiers were returned from the battle line during the winter because of frozen feet and hands. An invalid soldier is less economical to his government than a dead one, as everyone knows now.
 Lieutenant Moore says that at no time did the French forces have enough clothing to keep them warm. "We were always cold, in varying degrees," said he. "Our feet were wrapped in burlap over our shoes, while for socks we often wound our cloth puttees around our bare feet. Hand knit socks would have saved many of the feet that were afterward frozen, but of wool for the knitting there was practically none, willing as the French women were to ply their knitting needles. One pair of socks issued to each soldier was the rule and these were never removed from their owner's feet until they wore out. Sweaters were unheard of. How gladly would we have welcomed their additional warmth! Baths, too, were unknown, from fall to spring. Fires, except for cooking were out of the question, fuel being impossible to obtain."

From September 18 to October 8th the Central Red Cross Shop of Highland Park has sent in the following knitted articles to the Chicago Chapter:

- 60 Sweaters.
- 37 pair Socks.
- 45 Scarfs.
- 24 pair Wristlets.
- 11 Helmets.
- 8 Trench Caps.

The Shop is desirous of obtaining small quantities of bright colored wool to give out to children for knitted squares for comforters. This is a most desirable way to use up odd bits of bright colored wool.

American Fund for French Wounded
 A short time ago an order was issued by the Red Cross to discontinue shipments of comfort pillows; however this order has nothing whatever to do with the ambulance pillows which are still needed in large number. Sometimes it is necessary to use from 50 to 60 around 1 man to make transportation in the ambulance safe at all.

These pillows are made of a rubberized material and are stuffed with scraps of soft materials cut into small pieces. The American Fund for French Wounded of Highland Park is well supplied as to the rubberized material, but would be very glad if donations of material for the stuffing; such material will either be given out on Wednesdays to be returned, cut and ready for use or may be cut at the Parish House on Wednesdays. This is very easy work and children find it most entertaining. It allows the children to do their bit in the war and keeps them out of possible mischief.

Mrs. Robert Gregory has just donated the hair from a hair mattress and two dozen pillows have been made from this material and were shipped on Wednesday, October 10th. Any donations of such hair will also be most acceptable for use in these pillows.

Army and Navy Center
 The Committee of the Army and Navy Center is extremely gratified by the ever increasing attendance of men at the Center. An effort is continually being made to supply the men with entertainment and comfort, and the Committee is pleased to announce that there will be a small billiard table in place for use on Saturday next.

The requests for a ukelele are still coming in from the men and the Committee very much desires to comply with these requests. If anyone can loan the Center a ukelele it will be very much appreciated both by the Committee and the men themselves.

Daughters of the American Flag
 The regular meeting of the Barbara Fritchie Chapter of the Daughters of the American Flag will be held next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. C. N. Kimball.
