This promise to be the most attractive of the many good entertainments that have been put on by the Y. W. C. A. The cast includes sixteen speaking parts, all of which are selected material from the association and the Patriotic League. THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving Day is near at hand. The spirit of the day is not to be measured thru gratification of the appetite and purely personal pleasure, but rather like the old farmer, "Not wastin' stuff, you understand, not hoggin' to be sure, Jest feillin' good, an' thankin' God, and giving to the poor."

None are so poor that they cannot show gratitude to the Almighty by some kindly deed; a word of sympathy; joining in public worship. "It's a great thing to lay For a feller just to lay His hand upon your shoulder In a friendly sort of way."

In our own town--across the ocean everywhere. We can send forth the friendly hand of service to humanity.

Save on Sugar, Wheat, Meats, Fats for our soldiers and our Allies--save money--for the new Liberty Bonds.

Liberty Bonds preserve both your money and your freedom. Be glad and thankful for the opportunity.

volunteer conformity to government suggestion. The households represented in the food pledges have agreed to make the effort. It will have government direction. The conforming citizens will not be left to their own devices. They will be informed as to what the individual effort ought to be.

The safest basis of war finance is thrift. The future savings of the nation will permit war operations to be conducted with the least possible disturbance of necessary functions of the nation and without compromising the future. Thrift will counter-balance the waste of war. It will permit financing which does not disturb the necessary processes of the nation. The next Liberty Loan ought to find a frugal nation waiting for it.

The programme was followed by a social hour upstairs, where Mrs. A. L. Renning, as chairman of the hostesses served all.

The next meeting is December fourth at two thirty o'clock at Wittent hall.

Miss Grace Ethelwain Cody, staff contributor for the Youth's Companion, a writer for the Daily News and whose life work is writing for girls, will read a paper she gave before the Chicago Woman's club on "What Do Our Children Read?"

BONDS AND FOOD

The direct relation between the food conservation campaign and the next Liberty Loan is being emphasized by the government. Food conservation demands thrift and frugality, demands and promotes thrift and frugality. They will be needed to take up the next loan and the succeeding loans.

Thus far war has merely picked up a little loose change in the United States. Thus far it has merely suggested that there may come a time when there will not be so much food on the American table.

It has neither squeezed the pocket-book nor restricted the appetite. It has not begun to scratch the resources of the country. As war conditions become established and make their effect appreciable they will demand changes in American habits, changes which are not now apparent.

The third Liberty Loan will come to demand more money. The best foundation the loan can rest upon is the individual frugality and national thrift. Households which now begin to readjust themselves to meet and anticipate new conditions will be prepared to get under the burden and help carry it.

Conservation of food is one item in the program of frugality which will make money available for national use. It is only one item, but it serves two purposes. It is a means of saving money and it is an insurance against want.

The general adoption of an effective scheme of thrift in the household will produce a frugal, hard fisted nation which will have both men and money for the accomplishment of its aims.

A general social effort toward such result can be made by individual
