HE BELIEVES IN PUBLICITY

Dutiful Husband Anxiously Wife in Receiving, and Wants His Friends to Know It.

A small, rather timid-looking man entered a newspaper office and approached the clerk.
 "Are you the man who takes in society news?" he queried with an appealing look.
 "Yes, sir," cheerfully replied the young man at the desk. "I can take any kind of news. What have you got?"
 "Why, it's just this way," said the caller, lowering his voice. "My wife gave a party last night. It was a brilliant affair, and I am willing to pay to have this report of it put in the paper."
 "We don't charge anything for publishing society news," explained the clerk, at the same time taking the proffered manuscript and looking it over.
 "That's all right," was the reply. "You don't get me. I wrote this up myself, and I put in a line that says, 'Mr. Halfback assisted his distinguished wife in receiving the guests.' That's the way I want it to go in, and I don't care what the cost is, absolutely don't care what the cost is. I want my friends to know, by George, that I still belong to the family."—Lippincott's Magazine.

LAKE COUNTY AND NEARBY NEWS NOTES

IMPROVEMENT AT GT. LAKES

Four Prisoners Escape from Fort Sheridan Prison. Waukegan to be Dark After 1:00 a. m.

Many Improvements Planned at Naval Station

Christmas is only beginning at Great Lakes. Commandant William A. Moffett has opened up the official station stockpiling and found therein some whopping big presents for the Jackie regiments.
 In the first place, four big swimming tanks, to cost $100,000 will be provided for sailor training and sport in addition to the big natatorium already in use in the main camp instruction building.
 Then comes the announcement from the Navy Y. M. C. A. that five additional Y. M. C. A. recreation buildings will be constructed in the various camps. And one of the buildings is going to be a big central clubhouse.
 The Y. W. C. A. announces the new hostess house will be ready to open shortly after the first of the year for the accommodation of women visitors to camp. The hostess house cost $30,000 to build, and as much more to equip. But that isn't all. The Y. M. C. A. will open rest rooms for women in each of the seven camps.
 Then there's the new postoffice for the station, to cost $40,000, contracts for which will be let at once, according to Captain Moffett. It will be located near the main gate and will contain quarters for the public telegraph and telephone stations also.

MEXICAN BOYS WERE BRAVE

Cadets of Chapultepec Put Up Gallant Fight at Defense of Their City in 1847.

The defense of Chapultepec, during the war between the United States and Mexico, in 1847, was almost as gallant as was the attack. In this attack 43 Mexican cadets, among others, lost their lives. The story is a stirring one, observes the Los Angeles Times.
 For many years the celebrated Castle of Chapultepec, where Montezuma held his barbaric court in the surrounding groves of cypress; which during nearly three centuries lived the successive viceroys of Spain, and where Maximilian made his imperial home, has been the West Point of Mexico.
 When General Scott had taken the place by storm and General Bravo had surrendered, a Mexican cadet only fifteen years old, seeing the flag of his country in peril, climbed the flag-staff, tore the banner from its place, wound it around his body and slid down, intending to plunge over the precipice, in order to save the colors from falling into the hands of the enemy.
 That act of heroism being frustrated, the brave boy, with the banner still wrapped about him, fought until he was cut in pieces. Forty-eight of these schoolboys, ranging in age from fourteen to twenty years, he buried in one grave at the foot of the hill. Year after year the cadets of Chapultepec strew flowers upon the grave.

Waukegan to be Dark After 1:00 a. m.

Mayor Pearce and City Clerk Marselles of Waukegan were authorized Monday night by the city commission to sign the new contract with the Public Service company which provides for the dimming of the electric lights from 1 to 5 a. m. for sixty days beginning January 1.
 If the plan proves a success it will be made permanent. It is pointed out that the fuel administration is expected soon to order all cities to take like action as a step in the conservation of fuel.
 The schedule just adopted is expected to save the city about $3500 a year, and is so arranged. The new rate for the large area is $53.85 a month and for the small lights $18.84.

Roberts Made Executive Head at Great Lakes

Lieut. C. S. Roberts for two years aid to Capt. William A. Moffett, commandant at Great Lakes, has been made executive officer at the station, second highest commanding naval officer in the middle west, succeeding Lieut. Commander Charles H. Fisher, retired to private life after several years of Great Lakes service.

Oil the Skin Also.

In describing the means by which the Hawaiians, before contact with civilized peoples brought about the deterioration of this splendid race, kept their skins in healthy condition, V. MacClaughey says in the Scientific Monthly that they not only bathed daily in the sea and in fresh water, but oiled their bodies with coconut oil.
 Commenting on this latter practice, the Journal of the American Medical Association says the effectiveness of bathing is well recognized today, but we fail to realize the unquestionable merit in the injunctions with oil that undoubtedly confer a suppleness and pliancy to the skin quite contrary to the extreme detergent action of the water bath. It is not without hygienic significance that the skin is normally lubricated by a sebaceous secretion which the bath tends to remove, often to a degree no longer compatible with a perfect epidermis.

ELBA'S VALUABLE IRON MINES

Some of Purest Metal in the World is Found Here, Although in Small Quantities.

"It must be admitted that the English have not been very generous," remarked Napoleon as he surveyed his kingdom of Elba from the top of its highest peak. Yet a man more modest than the great Corsican might have been well content with this fair and rich little island, to say nothing of the title of king.
 Elba today has come into a new importance, owing to the war stimulated values of its iron mines. Some of the purest iron ore in the world is found here in beautiful crystals, although the quantity is not great enough to be of any wide significance.
 The little island includes all manner of little industries in its 10 by 12 mile confines. On the lower slopes there are fertile little valleys, and along the beach a tiny fishing industry manages to thrive. Besides the iron mines there are famous stone quarries, and the scenery is rugged and imposing on a miniature scale. Had Napoleon been a philosopher he might well have found contentment here.
 But Napoleon was a general and a builder; instead of settling down to enjoy what the gods had left him, he infiltrated all manner of projects for development in his tiny kingdom, and even conducted from here his lesser known campaign.
 Across the blue waters to the south of Elba is visible the smaller island of Pianosa, low and fertile. Pianosa was deserted in those times on account of the depredations of Mediterranean pirates. Napoleon directed an expedition of 40 men against the corsairs with the object of ridding Pianosa of his kingdom. He probably would have led the pirates a hard life had not the opportunity for escape presented itself that led to France and Waterloo.

Disappointments.

Have you stayed at home all afternoon, some time, waiting for some one who had said: "I am coming over this afternoon," then she did not come? Has some one promised to do something for you, then didn't do it? It has happened to me more than once or a dozen times, writes Helen R. C. Temple. And every time it happens, it makes me "mad!" Angry sounds altogether too mild to express my feelings. When you go to the window about forty times to see if "they" are coming, or when you have planned to have a roast for supper and you have asked some one to get it for you, and they did not, how do you feel?

Oriental Architecture.

Mosques and other buildings are now erected in re-enforced concrete in Egypt and other countries, but adhering to the national type of architecture as regards the design of such structures. Among others is the Sultan Hassan mosque at Cairo, in which re-enforced concrete enters largely. Another very handsome structure of Oriental type was recently erected near this city, the Grand Palace hotel of Heliopolis. It is a vast building of four stories, and presents a pleasing aspect owing to the excellent architectural design inspired by the prevailing styles.

No Confetti Wanted.

"No confetti," was the request the vicar of East Ham, England, made when announcing his marriage. In announcing his wedding in the parish magazine, the clergyman said that owing to the war it will be very quiet, and ends with the request: "N. B.—Please bring no confetti."

THE MAN WHO STAYED AT HOME

A German Spy Drama Now Running in the Playhouse, Chicago

BY PERY HAMMOND

Several things have happened to "The Man Who Stayed at Home" since it was played here two years ago at the Princess—as "The White Feather."
 Alan Mudge, who acted the willing young guardsman, is buried some where in Belgium and Leslie Faber, who impersonated the shrewd and valiant bonehead, upturning the German plot wears the soldier's livery as a captain in the British army. Gordon Graham and Wyndham Standing, other members of that cast, are also actors in the big play, I am told.
 In "The White Feather" there was a scene somewhere near the end wherein the captured German-English traitor, his person covered with maps, bombs and cetera was about to be put into the tumbrel. "I don't suppose," said he wistfully to his noble captor, "that you would shake hands with a German spy?" "No," was the compassionate answer, "but I'll shake hands with a brave man!" Much applause.
 We are a little less neutral now than we were then, and that speech has been amended to suit our altered mood. "I don't suppose you would shake hands with a German spy?" the prisoner says wistfully, as before. "No," is the choleric rejoinder. "You damned baby-bayoneting, woman-cruelizing, well-poisoning, church-rapping, bloodsucking murderer! I'd cut off my right arm before I'd shake hands with you, or the rotten Hun who is your kaiser!"

 I approximate the epithets with no hope of approaching them in their virulence. The spy is led away to his doom with many expressions of approval from the audience.
 Otherwise "The Man Who Stayed at Home" is about the same as it used to be, except that the patronage seems to be better. It centers around a treacherous Marconi plant hid in the fireplace of the living room in an English country hotel run by a German-Englishwoman and her son. It is discovered by a young Englishman who appears to be a helpless ass from the peak of his osseous dome to the tip of his slender slippers. Though employed in the perilous work of the secret spy, he is persistently blissed by his acquaintances, who put white feathers in his pipe and in other ways symbolizing their contempt for his supposed cowardice in staying at home.
 Alexander Onslow is this penetrating person, and he is very handsome and amusing at it. His leathisome adversary is acted by Harold Vosburg with all the villain's stigmata, from a great deal of white in his eyes to a wicked, rhythmic elocution replete with double significance. The women are as usual much the better players. Miss Auriel Lee contributes charm, good looks and skill to the role of White Feathers betrothed, and there are quiet and graceful performances by Miss Dorothy Dorr as fanatical German-born Englishwoman and by Miss Eodine Latimer as "Mr. Onslow's pretty auxiliary." The play is by Lechmere Morrell and J. E. Harold Terry, and it is produced at the Playhouse by William Moore Patch, the Pittsburgh impresario.

Daily Paper for Great Lakes
 Great Lakes Naval Station is to have a daily paper. It will be called the "Great Lakes Log."
 It will be unique in its arrangement as it will be void of advertising and will consist only of news about the station, bulletins and information which the commandant desires to have the men know about. An editorial will also be carried daily and the size of the paper will depend on the amount of matter which Captain Moffett wishes disseminated among the 25,000 men at the station.
