WILMETTE OBSTACLE TO GOOD TRANSPORTATION

other trains, running on schedule occupy the express tracks.

It is difficult to see how this attitude on the part of the Village of Wilmette benefits anyone. Certainly it works a hardship on the residents of all other cities north of Wilmette and they are beginning to protest against the delay.

How some of them regard Wilmette was shown one evening recently on a Waukegan express train. At Central street, Evanston the conductor called, "Waukegan Express, one stop in each town. At Kenilworth a lady arose to leave the train. "You must have made a mistake" she said to the conductor. "You announced one stop in each town, but you stopped nine times in Wilmette."

"That's all right" said a passenger who overheard the remark, "Wilmette isn't a town; it's a disease." Everyone in the car joined in the laugh which followed this sally, showing that Wilmette is not making friends by its attitude.

This is a question which should be taken up by the Association of North Shore Municipalities, of which Mayor Hastings of Highland Park is president. If it is necessary to have limited trains stop at each crossing in Wilmette, when they stop only once in cities like Waukegan, Lake Forest and Highland Park, the people ought to know it, so that the grumbling may be stopped. If it is not necessary, then the officials of the other municipalities should take up the matter with the Village officials of Wilmette and see if the situation cannot be remedied.

In marked contrast is the attitude of the railroad company toward Wilmette, as shown only last week.
John J. Moran, an employee of the North Shore line, who lives in Wilmette, found that the coal dealers in the village were without coal, when he tried to order some. He immediately got busy on the telephone and in orders of President

Budd the railroad company ran a carload of its own coal down to Indian Hill, placing it on a sidetrack there for the use of Wilmette coal dealers.
The coal was given the dealers at the price it cost the railroad company. This seemed, literally as well as figuratively, to be heaping coals of fire on the heads of the people of Wilmette, who in turn do everything in their power to handicap the railroad company in its efforts to give the North Shore first class transportation facilities.
