

Special Demonstration Friday and Saturday of Pictorial Review

Patterns

By Miss Lillian C. Fisk

from the designing rooms of the Pictorial Review Co.

Miss Fisk is here to give you expert advice regarding the new fashions in dress for spring.

She will help you plan your new garments and demonstrate the advantages of using Pictorial Review Patterns.

She will give you many valuable ideas on home-sewing and assist you in selecting styles and materials if you so desire.

Miss Fisk will be in our pattern department Friday and Saturday of this week only.

"The Red Cross Bloke."
"Not a blinkin' rap do we give for the chap
With a Red Cross on this sleeve.
Till we get to the front, on the stand to shoot,
An' a farewell bomb when you leave.

Midst that flying death you hold your breath,
An' life seems suddenly dear.
While the Red Cross chap is out of the scrap,
In the safest part of the rear.

It doesn't seem fair for him to be there,
While we face the powder and smoke,
An' check the Huns, with red hot guns,
An' cheer and curse, and smoke.

But many a lad feels thundering glad
When the night lends a sheltering cloak,
To be overhauled by the chap who's called
The bloomin' Red Cross Bloke.

My own turn came—its part of the game—
In a scrap we had before Loos.
When the blinkin' Huns tried to pinch the guns
Of the 15th—never mind whose.

They tried and tried, and you bet they died,
While we lost many a chum.
When the message came through
"Now lads stand to,"
And the next was "Here they come."

We charged and yelled, on the line we held,
But I don't remember the rest,
For the earth spun round, and I hit the ground,
With daylight inside my chest.

When next I woke, a Red Cross Bloke
Was crossing that zone of death;
An' I watched him come through that sharpnel hum—
Just watched and held my breath.

He reached my side with a crawl and glide,
An' I blessed his crimson crest
While he made me snug, with a comfy plug
In the painful hole in my chest.

Then away he crept, and I must have slept,
But when I woke with a pain,
I was down at base as a hospital case
And looked for "Blighty" again.

We landed all right on a wet stormy night
But what did we care for the rain?
For a Red Cross Bloke fixed me up with a smoke
An' a crib on a Red Cross train.

So that's why I'm here feeling shaky and queer,
In this blinkin' red cross bed,
With a Red Cross nurse, when I'm feelin' worse,
To lay cool things on my head.

And tho' it all seems to be part of my dreams
Yet I know it's all not a hoax,
There are thousands today who are ready to say,
"Thank God for the Red Cross Bloke."

CHIEF OF AMERICAN HABITS

Telephone is a Day and Night Requirement. Both a Commercial and Social Convenience.

Not poker nor the movie nor good nature nor detachable cuffs, but the telephone, should be ranked as the chief of American habits. Just about 30,000,000 telephone calls a day were handled by the Bell telephone system in 1916. That is, 100 calls a year for every man, woman and child in the country—excepting those members of families who are too young to be held up to receivers.

Like most habits, we take the telephone for granted, notes the New York Tribune. Yet anybody beyond the ripage of thirty can remember very handily when there was no such thing as a public curiosity. If you wanted a doctor you ran down the street to fetch him; or if you wanted a man for luncheon you dropped a note the day before. And like all the other inventions which have speeded up our means of communication, the telephone has done something more than merely compress life: it has changed the quality, subtracting certain elements and adding others. You simply cannot be elaborately courteous or impressively dignified in a world that knows the telephone. Those impressive Napoleons who make it a rule not to speak over the phone are following a sound instinct—as are also the very toady-princesses of society with a similar edict.

It has also perceptibly reduced what little was left of solitude. The great novelist or the great composer can afford a telephoneless hut or flat, and so gain enough peace and quiet to think. Plain Americans must have the telephone at their elbow day and night or go out of business—socially as well as commercially.

VERY HARD TO PRONONCIATE

English Language Bothered Edward Livingston Trudeau, "The Pioneer of Opera," Although American.

In St. Nicholas Mary R. Parkman tells an incident in the childhood of Edward Livingston Trudeau, "The Pioneer of Opera."

"The small boy who could scarcely remember the time when he did not live in France and whose relatives were all French did not forget for a moment that he was an American. The toy boats which he sailed in the fountains of the Tuilleries all bore the Stars and Stripes. All his favorite playmates at the Lycee Bonaparte, where he went to school, were hardy American boys whose parents were living in Paris.

"During the years of the French school the vague, inner yearning for a freer, more natural life found vent in many pranks, and covert rebellion not only against the class routine, but also, more openly, against the established order of things on the playground.

"When he returned to New York at eighteen Edward could speak only broken English, but he felt so truly American that he wondered, why his cousins laughed when he said, 'Ze English is a very hard language to prononciate.'"

Another Test of Death.

A discovery of great value for testing with certainty whether a person is dead has been made by a professor of physiology at Chicago university. As described in the "Lancet," it is too technical for the layman's understanding, but a doctor explains that the test is made by crushing a piece of muscle and comparing it with a piece of uncrushed muscle. If the person is alive the crushed piece gives off more carbonic acid gas than the uncrushed piece, as a result of the stimulation produced by the injury. The professor claims that this test can be applied within a few minutes, or at most within one or two hours of death. There are, of course, other tests with which every doctor is quite satisfied, but this will be extremely valuable, as proving local death of the tissues after general death has occurred. There is life in the tissues for some time after death, and proof of their death sets all doubts at rest.

Always in the Limelight.

The whole history of Flanders, until it passed by marriage into the possession of the dukes of Burgundy is filled with stirring deeds and rapid growth. Through all the centuries Flanders has kept itself in the front rank of attention by the great struggles that have swept back and forth across its territory.

When the ruling count would find no adequate scope for his energies in his own country or if the spirit of adventure lay hard upon him he would go off on a crusade as did Count Robert II who wrought so valiantly in the first crusade that he was given the proud title of The Sword of Christendom.

Superstitions About Salt.

It is a curious fact that, from the earliest times, many superstitions have clung about the use of salt. There is much evidence in Holy Writ for ceremonial uses of it. The mosaic law commands that every oblation of meat offered shall be seasoned with salt, a command that is given, with variations, in various books of the Bible, such as Leviticus 2:13 and Ezekiel 16:4. In the old days salt was put into a child's mouth in baptism, and in some countries to this day the custom is followed of throwing a pinch of it into holy water to ward off the evil spirit.

Man Wanted

Must Have From
$1,000 to $10,000

We can show ANY MAN how to invest from $1,000 to $10,000 in a legitimate, solid, substantial manufacturing business which can show earnings of from 70% to 100% on capital invested.

We can show ANY MAN that this NEW industry has a much larger demand than present production. We can show that output can be sold on contract as fast as produced. We can show that railroads are doing all in their power to see this business develop. In PEACE OR WAR the demand for this product will for many years be greater than production. Don't be scared by HIGH PROFITS. This is

Not a Speculation, But A Solid Industrial Opportunity Created by A New and Growing Demand

There is no question as to the substantial merit of this production. There are no "ifs," "ands" or "buts" about it. It is as sure as 2 and 2 making 4. The right man can get in NOW and get the cream. If we can satisfy you as to these points can you invest from $1,000 to $10,000? If not don't write. If you can, write AT ONCE.

He is now a man without money. He bit at a Get-rich-quick Scheme.

A smooth-tongued schemer came along and showed him how he could make "big money." He put in his pile and LOST it;

Just plain common sense should have told him if that project was so good, the schemer would have kept it for himself. Or, he should have consulted his BANKER, who knows about these things. Then he wouldn't have lost his money.

We shall gladly advise you on any investment you are thinking of making. Put YOUR money in OUR bank. We pay 3 per cent interest.

The Kid has gone to the Colors—
The Kid has gone to the Colors, And we don't know what to say; The Kid we have loved and cuddled Stepped out for the Flag today. We thought him a child, a baby, With never a care at all, But his country called him man size And the Kid has heard the call. The Kid has gone to the Colors; It seems but a little while Since he drilled a schoolboy army, In a truly martial style, But now he's a man—a soldier And we lend him a listening ear, For his heart is a heart all loyal, Uncoursed by the curse of fear. "Clit"

Judging by his first effort to start something, young Bob La Follette must be growing a handsome pompadour.

We'll welcome the right peace and the return of the soldier boy; but the first one who comes back and calls a street car a "trans" will get his'n.
