

Say "Mothers Day" With Flowers

May, the 12th That's next Sunday, will be Mother's Day. You can't do any better than "SAY IT WITH FLOWERS."

Mother's Day is set aside officially throughout the United States to honor the best mother who ever lived—YOUR OWN—say it with flowers.

If you are as yet not very seriously impressed with the necessity of a War Garden for your own good, read Hudson Maxim's article, "What We Must Do to Prevent Starvation," in the May issue of Leslie's Weekly, and let it soak in.

The spade and the hoe have to be made allies of the rifle and the bayonet in order to win this war.

It is unpatriotic to say that you can buy your vegetables cheaper than you can raise them, for it isn't a matter of cost, but of producing food no matter what the price.

Our President and others in high authority who know the seriousness of the food situation are urging everyone who can possibly do so to plant a War Garden. It is the one thing you can't become

For mother's memory, flowers white; for mothers living, flowers bright; there is no other more appropriate way you possibly could express the real sentiment of your message better than to "Say it with flowers."

There may be a mother to be remembered many miles away—no matter where if in the United States or Canada. We will telegraph your order and deliver it inside of two hours if you want to "say it with flowers."

too enthusiastic about.

After all that Third Liberty Loan of three billions isn't so much when you take into consideration that in 1917 over four billion dollars worth of corn was produced in the United States and that our aggregate farm crops amounted to over 13,600,000,000, an increase of over 97 per cent over 1915, but we need a whole lot more. Will you do your part?

Did you "know beans" will thrive and flourish in almost any kind of soil, even the stiffest clay of which the Lord has blessed Highland Park with such an abundance. Navy beans properly prepared taste mighty good to those with a healthy appetite. Get acquainted with both. It's worth your while.

"Let's pick those Four O'clocks," I said, never thinking they could hear me. "April Fool," they shouted. "We are Five O'clocks this year."

How about it? Are you going to get some color in that front yard? Are there going to be porchboxes full of flowers and vines, a few Heliotropes, Rose Geraniums and Lemon Verbina to fill the air with perfume; some Rosy Morn Petunias and Ageratims along the walk, a bunch of Pink Impatiens in that shady corner, Phlox, Iris and Larkspur along the shrubborder? Are you going to live outdoors this summer? Then you want all of these. Suppose you meet me just across the Depot and we talk it over.

How We Can Help Your Daughter Help Uncle Sam
YOUR daughter, too, wants to "do her bit." And we can help her do it. Our "Garden Guide" is the key to the situation. It is a book containing 336 pages of valuable information for the amateur gardener. It is such a helpful, instructive book that you would be proud to have her show it to her friends and neighbors, with the idea of taking their orders. It is so obviously a bargain at 75 cents that "taking orders" will require no urging on her part. For every order she takes she collects 75 cents, the retail price of the book; she can spend 75 cents with Uncle Sam for a Thrift Stamp. She sends us 45 cents, and contributes the balance, 30 cents to her local Red Cross. This 5 cents comes out of our profit. Have her send 50 cents today for her sample copy of the "Garden Guide," and get started right away helping Uncle Sam, the Red Cross and herself at one and the same time.

POTATOES
Eat Them and Save Wheat
The food situation of the Allies continually grows more critical. The French are reducing their bread ration; the English have adopted bread cards; Italy has tightened her bread belt to the last notch. We must send more wheat.
We have an abundance of potatoes. We cannot export them; but we can EAT POTATOES IN PLACE OF WHEAT.
Show your patriotism. Urge every one to use more potatoes. Advertise their use. Serve Uncle Sam.
