Last evening several officers from Fort Sheridan entertained at dinner for officers who have recently returned from active duty overseas. There were eighty guests present.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Hester Hyde, daughter of Mrs. Seymour J. Hyde, of New York and Greenwich, and Lieut. Arthur Hatley, son of the late Walter C. Hatley of this city. The announcement was made at a buffet luncheon following the wedding of Mrs. Hyde's daughter, Mary, to Second Lieutenant Cooper Pynchon. Lieut. Hatley is with the Chemical Warfare Service at Camp Upton, N. Y.

LIEUT. LESTER LEVIN WRITES FROM FRANCE

Highland Park Boy, Who Has Been Transferred to the Tank Corps, Writes as Follows:

311 Tank Center, — A. P. O. 714
A. E. F. July 23, 1918.

In the first place, I am no longer in the Infantry, having been transferred to the Tank Corps some time ago. After going to school for some time I was granted a commission in that Corps. A little later I was made camouflage officer for the light two and three men tanks. As we are a small unit over here now, my chances for promotion are good. There is a great deal of work connected with it, but that is what we are over here for. I am no longer a U. S. R. for my title is T. C.

The Aviation is just as common a branch of the service now as any other, but the Tank Corps or "Sulicide Club," is considered by all the Allied Armies to be the highest branch in the service; and, mark my words, it will be the arm that will strike the last fatal blow when the Rhine is finally crossed. The Tanks will have done it; and after the affair is finished we shall wash our Tanks in that same river. We are on the job every minute from 5:45 a. m. to 9 p. m. and it is interesting and exciting. That is about all I should tell you about it now.

On July 7th I put on my first service stripe for six months' foreign service; but if we keep on as we are doing at present, we shall be home soon, for already we have the Hun on the run. They had an idea that we were talkers, not fighters, but they are wiser now.

You had a note in a late paper about a minstrel show we put on. It was a huge success. The commanding general of the Tank Corps complimented us highly on it. After playing it fourteen times in the Y. M. C. A. huts we gave it before the C. in C. of the A. E. F., General Pershing. It pleased our colonel who is one of the greatest fellows who ever lived and a fighter from the word go. We want to start another show shortly and wish some kind-hearted person would send us all the latest sheet music that has been put on the market. We ran short for that last show and tried to write some of our own. We have a clever composer amongst us.

I saw John Honaker the other day as I was passing through a town. He looked fine and well. I have not seen any of the 149th Field Artillery as yet. I know where they are and some day soon will look up Van Bergen and the others from Highland Park.

Yours sincerely,
LESTER LEVIN.

EYE GLASSES

"Uncle Sam is going to furnish eyeglasses free to every soldier in the army who needs them. It was announced at the Camp Sherman Base Hospital following orders received from Washington.

"This is the first time the Government has ever provided 'specs' for its fighters, and it is in line with its war policy of making every soldier count for as much as equipment and preparation will provide.

"Formerly there were not many men in the army with defective vision, a good sight has been one of the strictest requirements for enlistment. With the induction of the National army, medical officers explained, the rules were greatly relaxed.

"Thousands of men with astigmatism or other eye defects, otherwise physically qualified, can do full soldier's work with corrective glasses.

Progress of the Telephone Art

NO industry in the country exhibits in larger measure the remarkable electrical progress of this age than the Bell Telephone System. Improvements in the telephone art are being made constantly by Bell engineers, both through scientific discovery and experience gained in solving every-day operating problems.

Ever since audible speech was conveyed over the wire in the Boston machine shop forty-three years ago, it has been theoretically possible to talk from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Until a few years ago, however, no candid telephone engineer would have predicted the accomplishment of such a thing. But it is being done every day.

The Bell System gives the same painstaking attention to the smaller problems of the telephone business, assuring its patrons that the most approved operating methods will always be employed.
