PUBLIC LIBRARY

Do you know:
Who had a magic lamp?
Who won a pair of silver skates?
Who drove the rats out of Germany?

You can find out about these people in stories which you can borrow free from the Public Library.

Also you can get a Manual of Fall Planting which will aid you to do your garden's very best at the earliest opportunity next year. Who knows what another year may bring?
If it is peace, don't ew want the finest garden ever, to the show the lads who return? If it is war, don't we want the most powerful home defence ever? Plant the garden now for Fall Planting.

The library has received three interesting and authentic works on the reconstruction work with the disabled soldier after the war. These pamphlets are issued like books.
This is such a new work that very little has been published on the subject except in pamphlets and periodicals, but anyone who is interested will find all the library resources at their disposal. Some addresses on the General Federation of Women's Clubs, 14th biennial convention held this year at Hot Springs, Ark., the printed report of which has just been added to the library files. Some of the celebrated speakers on various subjects were: Miss Jane Addams, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Mr.
Herbert Putnam of the Library of Congress, Miss Julia Lathrop of the U. S. Children's Bureau, Hon. Jeanette Rankin, and many others.

The 1918 edition of "American Private Schools" has arrived. This is the only book which critically describes all the private schools of the United States and Canada. Some of the features of especial value in addition are: "Review of the year in education;" "Review of recent educational books;" "Educational Reconstruction in England;" Modern and experimental schools" and "War time activities of schools."

A new bulletin board has been added to the children's room on which is posted from time to time, news of interest to children and people interested in children, lists of holidays and holiday reading, lists and or pictures on current events. The children have shown so much interest in the war map and notices on the bulletin board in the main room of the library that they are now to have a bulletin board all their own.

Several of the sets of books in the Children's room are very badly worn, and should be replaced. If any public spirited person owns sets of the following books which they are not using, and which they will give to the Public Library for the use of all the children in the city, their generosity will be warmly appreciated. The print is almost worn off the pages of:

Miss Alcott's books;
The Betty Wales series; Camp Fire Girls' stories; Boy Scouts' Books;
Aunt Jane's Nieces series; Swiss Family Robinson; Kipling's Jungle books and Just So stories;

Trowbridge's books for boys; and the children's books by Stevenson, Barbour, Beech, Dudley and the Little Colonel series.

The Public Library has added a new Camp Fire story by Amy E.
Blanchard, "The Camp Fire Girls of Brightwood," a story of how they kindled their fire and kept it burning. Two stories of the present by the popular writer of boys' books, Rolt-Wheeler, are: "The Wonder of War on Land," and "The Wonder of War in the Air."

Other new books (for grown-ups especially) are: Edna Ferber's "Cheerful by Request," a collection of inimitable short stories of very human men and women, some of whom you will love, some you will hate and some you will feel sorry for. But you will chuckle a bit over their problems and come back to your own in a more cheerful spirit.
"Miss Mink's Soldier" is another collection of short stories, expertly told by the author of that "long-short" story—"Mrs. Wiggs"—Alice Hegan Rice. Louis Tracey's new novel, "The Revelers," is a story of mystery and romance, culminating in a vivid and dramatic picture of the great war. If you want a good laugh, however, take out the Bairnsfather's book, "Fragments from France," a collection of hilarious drawings which were originally published as cartoons for the amusement of his friends at the front. Speaking in his own words, "Well if you know of a better 'ole, go to it!"

Some of these silly people who spread the very harmful lies greatly exaggerating the influenza deaths in the army camps, are the same ones that kick if a newspaper prints a man's initial wrong.

COMPANY C

On account of the restrictions ordered by the Board of Health, there has been no drill the last two Monday nights.

The Company has been losing a good many men of late through enlistments and the draft. Men in the new registration are urged to enlist with the Company and get what training they can before being called into service. Men who have had some training find it greatly to their advantage, as about the first question asked them after they are received in the training camps is whether or not they have had any previous military training and those who have are usually assigned immediately assigned to some responsible place in the work.

Some of our own men have been appointed non-commissioned officers and assistant instructors and we fear the men of Highland Park do not fully realize the importance of this preliminary instruction.

As soon as quarantine regulations are raised Company C will again take up the regular weekly drill, meeting at the High School building on Monday evenings at eight o'clock.
A special invitation is given to all men between the ages of 18 and 55 to enlist, and we expect to see a good many new men on hand. Further announcement will be made in the Press. Don't forget the time and the place.

Last Saturday the First Brigade, Illinois Reserve Militia, took part in the Liberty Loan Parade in Chicago and Company C was represented.
On account of sickness and other causes they could only turn out one platoon under the command of first and second Lieutenants A. C. Purdy and Edw. A. McTamany, Captain E.
A. Turpin, on account of recent illness, was unable to take command.

CAPT. MORRIS M. WESTERN

The rapid advancement of Morris Myron Western, son of John Western, President of Modern Cemetery and Mausoleum Cemetery, which owns North Shore Cemetery in which so many Highland Park people are interested, illustrates the opportunities that young men with the right stuff in them have been offered by the present war. Captain Western will be a citizen of Lake County at the close of the war, if it is his good fortune to return, as his parents are now residents of this county.

Young Western was noted as an athlete while in his high school course in Detroit, serving as captain of the football team of Central High School which had upwards of 3000 students at the time.

After this country entered the great war and before the draft law became operative, the young man left a remunerative position selling metal on the road and joined the First Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan where he received the commission of Second Lieutenant in the Motor Truck Division. He expected to be in the infantry but the Government discovered he had a special knowledge of motor trucks. After a short furlough Lieut. Western reported at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., and organized and drilled a company in infantry tactics, until just before Christmas, as the Camp which was soon to be the great headquarters for motor trucks and tractors was not ready in August.

During December Western received his commission as First Lieutenant and was sent to Camp Joseph E.
Johnston at Jacksonville, Fla., and made instructor in Motor Trucks and Tractors. He soon became senior instructor of the Camp and was in command of thousands of men.

Early in July Lieut. Western was made a captain and reassigned to a company and sent to France. His parents have received two letters from him since his arrival and he is in command of a motor train, hauling men, munitions and supplies to the front in the region between St.
Mahl and Metz.

NOTICE

Having leased two-thirds of my store to the government for a postoffice, I will, beginning Monday, November 4th, 1918, start to dispose of my entire stock of groceries, selling for cash at wholesale prices.

On the same date I will discontinue the sale of all fresh fruits and vegetables.

Respectfully,

Fall Time in Nature's Play Ground

Along the

North Shore Line

It is just beautiful now in the natural play grounds to be found along the North Shore Line. The fallen leaves and dying shrubbery fill the air with their last enticing fragrance. The green of summer has given way to the fall tinge of beautiful rainbow colorings, and the air is great, out there. A day in the woods and fields will make you forget the strain, the toil and the dirt of city and town. It will invigorate your entire system.
There are plenty of places to spend a day roaming through little patches of wilderness. See beautiful Root River Falls, for instance, a short ride north of Racine.
