Be Not Deceived!

It is really better to buy your Christmas things at home.

It costs more to shop in the city than to shop in Highland Park.

The cheap leader, advertised below cost to pull you in, is more than made up for in the cost of your other purchases.

It costs to travel. What you pay the railroad company is pure waste.

Your luncheon in the city costs twice as much as luncheon does at home.

It may cost a doctor's bill to wear yourself out fighting the crowd at the counters.

You have known people to spend more than they expected, and then try to make it up by lugging home meat sold below the wholesale price of good beef. Horse meat looks and tastes like tough, stringy beefsteak. "Killers" are cheap, but—

"No, no!" said the dear sweet-faced lady, when her friend suggested Christmas shopping in the city. "I shop in Highland Park. The merchants here are accommodating. I know them and their goods. And, best of all, by trading here I keep my peace of mind."

The home stores have laid in a fine lot of Christmas things for you. Try them.
