Reliable Weather Glass.

A test tube about 10 inches long and 3/4 inch in diameter is fastened to a base or hung up by a wire. In this test tube are put 2 drams of camphor, 1/2 dram of potassium nitrate, 1/2 dram of ammonium chloride, 2 ounces of pure alcohol, 2 ounces of water. If the ingredients do not mix easily tube should be put in warm water or shaken thoroughly. After a cork is put in the tube it is ready for work, says Electrical Experimenter.

Following is the weather which the changes in the liquid denote:

Clear liquid—Bright weather.
Crystals at bottom—Thick air, frost in winter.
Dim liquid—Rain.
Dim liquid with small stars—Thunderstorms.
Large flakes—Heavy air, overcast sky; snow in winter.
Threads in upper part—Windy weather.
Small dots—Damp weather, fog.
Rising flakes which remain high—Wind in upper air.
Small stars in winter on bright, clear, sunny days—Snow in a day or two.

Will Amount to Vast Sum.

We read that a retired soap manufacturer of the middle West has made testamentary provision for a fund of $11,000 which is to remain intact until the year 2100, a neat little period. The important document in the case has been placed in an air-tight metal tube, hermetically sealed to withstand the ravages of time, and the fund will be safely kept in such places as will provide for a steady financial accretion. It has been figured that in 246 years the $11,000 will have increased to more than $200,000,000, and in the year 2100 that amount will be available for the beneficiaries—"homeless dogs and cats."—Providence Journal.

FAMOUS OLD MIDDLE TEMPLE

Historic London Edifice Contains Actual Stage on Which Shakespeare Acted Before Queen Elizabeth.

The hall of the Middle temple, London, contains a table made from a tree presented by Queen Elizabeth. The top is 30 feet long and 3 inches thick and forms "the high table" for the Benchers of the Inn. The date on which it stands is at the western end of the hall, and on the actual floor boards of this platform Shakespeare performed "Twelfth Night" for the entertainment of "the Virgin Queen," who opened the hall in 1572.

The eastern end of the hall is occupied by a magnificent carved screen, finished in 1574, the upper part of which forms the Minstrel's gallery. The walls of the hall are paneled to a great height, and both the panels and windows above are richly embellished with the coats of arms, dating from the sixteenth century, of legal luminaries, members of the Inn. Among them may be observed the arms of Sir Walter Raleigh, Pepys and of the present lord chancellor and the present lord chief justice of England. Portraits by Van Dyck, Lely, Kneller and Murray, together with suits of well-preserved armor, greatly add to the mural adornment of this historic edifice.

Another Kind of War.

The warfare between man and his insect competitors is only to a small degree waged at the point of the bayonet; it is generally a struggle for the means of subsistence. Man has many times been beaten by locusts devouring his pastures, meadows and grain. Crawlers on the ground and buzzers in the air, moths with wings like silver down and caterpillars with brilliant regimental stripes flutter about the gardens and orchards and march up and down the trees and shrubs, either devouring as they go or planting eggs from which future devourers will spring.

Having practically complied with the government request to stop using bean and pea shooters, the boys slip out with an air rifle to stalk neighbors' hens.

It is difficult to see how the shoe manufacturers can get the leather for these high top women's shoes unless the cattle producers can grow bigger cows.
