WAR CAMP COMMUNITY SERVICE

We again tried two halls. We again found that all the dancers preferred one hall. There were probably one hundred dancers in the boys' gym while three or four hundred crowded into the girls' gym. There was no particular reason for them preferring one hall over the other except that there are many things that cannot be accounted for in dealing with the human.

It has, therefore, been decided that one hall will be used hereafter.

The attendance at the dance was as follows:

Army	128
Navy	103
Girls	232
Hostesses	27
Hosts	23
Total	513

This is the largest attendance of any of the dances thus far given. That they had a good time is not debatable.

Many of the town folks were on hand acting as chaperones and from the appearance of the chaperones it was self apparent that they were enjoying the good time with the others for there was nothing but a continual smile on their faces from the start to the finish.

It is wonderful how swiftly the time passes when people are enjoying themselves for when 11:15 came around, few thought it was more than ten o'clock.

As the boys and girls left the hall many were heard to say: "We sure did have a good time," and possibly when the history of the war is written, it will contain a paragraph at least of the War Camp Communities' activities, for it is fast melting the ice that has surrounded social doings and making them very human and likeable.

The Jackie Orchestra that was supposed to be on hand, disappointed us at the last minute, but our fellow townsman, Mr. Duffy, came to the rescue and did yeoman service.

Work on Highwood Club Begun

Monday morning the signal was given that the New York Authorities had approved the appropriation for remodeling one of Highwood's old saloons and using it as a club for the men in service. Local forces were ready to begin work, and it was at once under way. Miss White of the Young Woman's Patriotic League and Mr. Harris of the Highland Park Army and Navy Center had been making plans and getting workmen in line to begin. One plan calls for paint, within and without. The exterior is decorated at present with whiskey advertisements. The appropriation for the new work is $3,000, of which $500 is allowed for the furnishing of the rooms, and in addition various donations of furniture have been received. Mr. Harris reports a whole truck-load from Mrs. Boyer and is proud of the inspiration which enabled the committee to put the furniture in perfect repair without cost to the W. C. C. S. Some old pieces which could not be used at the club were given to the upholsterer in exchange for his repair work. One of the harrowing problems to be met was the selection of a name, but a long consultation resulted in the happy title of "The Sheridan Club of Highwood Soldiers and Sailors." This name, with the insignia of the War Camp Community Service, will be displayed on the front of the Club. Arrangements for organizing and directing the work in Highwood are now in the hands of the Highland Park Board. Mr. Loomis, the Chicago secretary, after surveying the field, reports that it presents an unusual opportunity for patriotic service and that great activity will be necessary to do justice to the situation.

The Week-End After Pay-Day. All committees in charge of entertaining the men in Highland Park reported a dull week end. All of the cots at the Center were used, but a few at the High School were vacant. The canteen committee served out about sixty suppers Saturday evening and twenty breakfasts Sunday morning. Miss Agnes Cavanaugh has been engaged as a canteen worker. Mrs. B. A. Hamilton, Mrs. Rolland Hastings, Miss Church and Mrs. Pitt served on Saturday and Mrs. Tremaine, Mrs. Newhall and Miss Noyes on Sunday afternoon. More Sunday dinner invitations are necessary to provide for the men who desire hospitality in private homes. Those interested should communicate with Mrs. F. D. Everett.

Highland Park Discovers Ft. Sheridan. While plans are being perfected by various organizations to provide recreation for the men in the hospitals at Sheridan, emergency measures are in order. Miss Charlotte Yoe visited the hospital on January 22 and found Mrs. Henry Mason and the D. A. R. serving tea under difficulties in a corner of the Red Cross room. Water had to be carried in from the engine room and the place where the tea was served was full of desks and busy people, and had to be reached by devious passages. In spite of these obstacles the men were obviously having a good time, and Miss Yoe at once made arrangements for providing similar entertainment on the following day. Her committee served about forty-five men, and will hereafter entertain the men every Thursday afternoon. Necessary equipment has been authorized by the W. C. C. S. Board. Other opportunities of service will present themselves, such as taking patients out in machines, and visiting them in the wards. A request made for potted plants to be placed in the wards should meet with immediate response. Geraniums are especially suitable. Those interested should inform Miss Charlotte Yoe. Patients are arriving rapidly, and by May 1, there will be at least 4,800 in this hospital.

THRIFT LESSONS IN SCHOOLS

Beginning next week Thrift will be in the curriculum of all Illinois schools.

With the endorsement of Francis C. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, and the co-operation of city and county superintendents of schools, "Little Lessons in Thrift" will be put into the class rooms of every public school in the state by the War Savings Organization for Illinois.

By special arrangement with the bishops of the five Roman Catholic dioceses the lessons will be sent to the parochial schools. Plans are being made to include all private, Lutheran and normal schools and the colleges. The lessons will be sent out semi-monthly and through them nearly 1,500,000 school children will be reached by the War Savings propaganda.

While the primary object is education in the principles of thrift the fact that the government still needs the support of the small saver will not be lost sight of. It will be emphasized that saving is just as patriotic in peace-time as in war-time; that supplies for an army of occupation and during the period of demobilization are just as essential as during the period of warfare, and that boys and girls who lend their savings to the government should feel just as keen a sense of responsibility in the affairs of the nation as the holder of large denomination government bonds.

The first two sets of lessons will go out together. The first, based on the writings of Benjamin Franklin, were printed too late for distribution in time for use on Franklin's birthday.

The thrift program for the year includes lessons on successful methods and devices used in the sale of War Savings stamps, and of "written English" containing a list of subjects on thrift with unique methods of interesting children. It is a campaign to teach children, by the aid of Thrift and War Savings stamps, the simple facts and principles relating to capital and labor and the emphasis of thrift in relation to democracy.

At the same time the War Savings organization will introduce into the schools a simple device for collecting and safeguarding the small savings of the pupils toward the purchase of Thrift and War Savings stamps and for the sale of these stamps by the teachers.

Teaching thrift in schools has been found beneficial from so many points of view besides that of raising money that from now on it will be a subject much in demand. Teachers have seen the advantages of inculcating habits of thrift among pupils. Children can be shown that all social progress depends on thrift and that efficient democracy depends on a citizenship economically competent.

Thrift is one of the big principles of a great democracy. The schools of a democracy must implant it in the lives of its citizens. For this reason, the schools of the future will find that the thrift idea will not only pervade arithmetic and English lessons, but probably be given a place as a distinct and important subject.

The following plan is outlined for the teachers:

1. Make the "Little Lessons in Thrift" issued by the War Savings Organization a regular part of your class room work.
2. Make it a point to know the opportunities for spare time employment opens to boys and girls in your locality; if they can earn money it naturally follows that they will have money for saving and investing.
3. Arrange meetings for the children and parents at which the importance of saving is discussed.
4. Plan separate talks for the children emphasizing the value of thrift, not only to the individual, but to the nation.
5. Have the children write essays on "How We Save," "How I Saved to Buy My First War Savings Stamp," "Why Economy Pays," etc.
6. Plan arithmetic problems on the growth of savings and small investments.
7. Use the thrift honor roll as a means of creating competition among the pupils in the purchase of War Savings Stamps.
