The north shore records few railroad accidents more deplorable than that of Mrs. Frank W. Coolidge and Mrs. R. R. Gilkey, killed by a Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee train

The women, who were stopping at the North Shore Hotel, left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney C. Eastman where they had been spending the evening, about eleven o'clock. They approached the electric tracks from the east, and seeing a car coming, attempted to run across the tracks where they would be in readiness to get on board by the time the car stopped. But, whether owing to the blinding headlight, or to the presumption that the car would stop, they failed to gauge accurately the nearness of the car, which caused their death. The car proved to be a limited which was not scheduled to stop at the street from which they approached. It struck them squarely and threw their bodies into the shrubbery which grows along the right of way. A crowd immediately gathered, but there was no one in the number present who had the courage to lift these women into the waiting automobile and take them to the hospital. At this critical mo-

TWO WOMEN KILLED LOCAL TEAM LOSES TEN INNING GAME AT KENILWORTH SUNDAY

Locals Tie Score With Progressives in Ninth by Bringing WALK IN FRONT OF TRAIN in Three Runs

> The extra inning battle staged at Central Park last Sunday was a humdinger and with the exception of a few ragged plays, was full of the kind of baseball that the fans love

But these errors, mentally as well as mechanically, proved the undoing of the locals.

The home athletes got busy in their half of the seventh and scored by Hesler, Fitzgerald and Genty. The Progressives knotted the count in the eighth and assisted by two errors Bend, Indiana. scored three more in the ninth. Going into the ninth inning three runs behind the locals showed their fighting spirit by going after the Progressives' pitcher with a vengeance and when the inning came to a close the score was tied at eight all. But the visitors came back and took the lead by scoring a run in the tenth. In the home half the crowd went wild when with two defunct the locals filled the bases.
