WINNETKA GIRLS ARE CANNING FOR MOTHER

The children in the Domestic Science classes in Winnetka have started the year by adding to the contents of their mothers' pantries. They brought vegetables and fruits from home, and have canned them under the supervision of Miss Ruth M. Longfellow, teacher of domestic science, taking back the completed products to their homes. The work they have done has not been of the small sample variety, but full quart jars of delicious looking string beans, tomatoes, peaches and pears have gone into the homes.

Miss Longfellow, who has succeeded Miss Feidkirchner in the Winnetka schools, intends to give the pupils work of the most practical nature, encouraging them to do cooking in school which will be of direct use in the home. She is planning to have the children themselves prepare the cafeteria lunches for children and teachers at the Horace Mann school, thus learning to shop, plan, and cook on a fairly large scale. In this way she plans to make the cooking course thoroughly practical.

SALVATION ARMY OUT FOR $2,250,000 FUND

Chicago to Raise $1,500,000. Balance of State of Illinois to Raise $750,000

Once again the people of Illinois are called upon to give their store to help those less fortunate than they. This time the call is not soldiers overseas, but for the poverty burdened family next door, the broken man on the street, the girl who finds her dreams of life shattered, the boy whose feet are slipping into paths of crime, the lame, the halt, the blind, "the least of these."

It is the call of the Salvation Army for money to carry on their work for others. They are asking Illinois for $2,250,000, all of which will be used within the state. Chicago, the center of the Salvation Army's activity in this section of the country, will contribute $1,500,000 and the remainder of the state is asked for $750,000.

No plea for aid ever falls on deaf ears when it is made to this band of workers; no path is so dark that they cannot make light with their work. Their work is eminently practical, but is carried on with a spirit of christianity which places humanity far above statistics. They are asking nothing for themselves, only for the means to help the men who may be down, but is never out.

The Salvation Army gave its all to the soldiers during the war, it is now asking to be placed in a position where it can resume the works of peace, to be restored to a footing even stronger than it held before the war swept it out of our cities to the battlefields of France. The returned soldiers, in recognition of the work of the Salvation Army overseas, have thrown their entire resources into this campaign, they ask for help for the Salvation Army which gave its best to them.

TO EXTEND SHERIDAN ROAD TO SHEBOYGAN?

A meeting of the Sheridan Road association of Milwaukee will be held shortly to discuss the diverting of its efforts to building up the road north of Milwaukee, between Milwaukee and Sheboygan, now that the original work of the association in building up the Sheridan road has been accomplished. President Ray Smith of the association said:

"With the completion of the Wisconsin part of Sheridan road the association has fulfilled its primary purpose," Mr. Smith said, "but there is every reason why we should now devote our efforts to building up the road between Milwaukee and Sheboygan. This road is quite as bad as that south of the state line through road must be put in shape by the people of Illinois before he Sheridan road can be at its best."

Mr. Smith said that the past summer has seen an "extraordinarily large volume of tourist traffic in Wisconsin induced principally by the good roads of the state and the setting up of thousands of signs and route markers by the highway commission. It is estimated that more than 60,000 tourists come to Milwaukee in automobiles during the past season.

There is a great number of people who cherish the belief that the way to become more prosperous is to do less work.
