ALWAYS A PLEASANT FRIEND

It is True, of Course, That "Money is Not Everything," But See What It Will Do.

"Money isn't everything," says the spendthrift as he scatters his wages to the four winds.

Then he reaches middle life, with old age in the foreground, vainly wishing for the return of the misspent coin.

It may be true that money isn't everything, but one thing is absolutely certain. Old Man Money, if he is cultivated through life, will not desert the friend who has cultivated him. When every human friend has fled Old Man Money sticks. You can start him off with five or ten cents a day in early life and keep feeding him that amount all through life, and in old age you will have on your hands a financial Frankenstein, albeit a pleasant and highly agreeable one.

If you find the rigors of the northern winter too severe, you simply tap Old Man Money on the shoulder, and he lies you to Palm Beach; if you are sick another tap on the shoulder brings you the best nurses and specialists the world affords. He's an agreeable old man, never disputes orders and is always ready for duty. He makes the proverbial busy bee and the equally industrious ant look like pikers, for he never rests. He's one size when you go to sleep and larger when you wake up. The older he gets the stronger he becomes. If you are a stranger in a large city, Old Man Money opens the doors of the best hotels and stakes you to the best of the town affords.

But money isn't everything, at that.

POVERTY IN SOUTH AMERICA

Appalling Conditions Under Which Many Have to Exist in Latin-American Countries.

Consider for a moment the conditions under which thousands upon thousands of Latin Americans live. Out in the country they can get fresh air. But in the city they live with one window and a door. Seventy-five per cent of the houses have no baths and 28 per cent have no water facilities. Eight to ten families use the same faucet and toilet in the open court. Men, women and children live in the same room, without ventilation.

Now, it is bad enough for men and women to live so, but it is worse that children should grow up without any memories of a pleasant home. Yet there are thousands of children to whom the necessities and the decencies of life are unknown and to whom "home" means an old freight car.

Many Mexican girls marry at thirteen, and have ten or eleven children by the time they are twenty-six. The men are employed at seasonal jobs in the sugar-beet fields, on the railroads, in the mines, harvesting beans, in orange and lemon orchards and doing construction work. Drunkenness is common. Babies are born into a world which has no clothes for them and shirts and overalls are lacking for the older children. Ignorance and superstition abound.—World Outlook.

A Mountain Camp.

I have spent one perfect night on a mountainside. Others were lovely enough, but this one was the pure idyllic moonshine, the dream come true. We made a good stiff run through the day. Late in the afternoon we left Santa Fe to climb the Glorieta pass through a country of rolling red hills, thick with cedar, broken by cliffs and mesas, and cut by the deep gorge of a little stream.

We scanned the clearings with an eager eye. At last we found the thing we sought.

It was the ruins of the first church built on American soil by the Spanish fathers. Away back in 1450 Coronado found here the thriving village which encouraged him to pursue the conquest of the new world, and here commenced the civilization which lingers unchanged in the back country today.—John Breck in Kansas City Star.
