

Have You Traveled in Italy?

If you have not done so, you should go over now. I believe you will find some of the beautiful gardens left, not destroyed during the war. You would get an idea of the beautiful surroundings it is possible to have right here on your own grounds.

You say the climate is different. That is true; but we have a great variety of trees, shrubs, evergreens, roses and other flowers which grow very well here. Even with the limited variety we have in this country you can make your home not only beautiful, but wonderful, in Italian styles.

I am prepared to draw plans for your garden and grounds after the Italian style, and will be glad to talk over such plans with the owners of North Shore property. I handle the work either on a time basis or by contract. No job is too small to have my attention; still I am prepared to handle contracts running into thousands of dollars.

Won't you think it over? If you would like to beautify your grounds, call up Highland Park 523 now, and I will prepare a plan during the Winter. The work can then be done early next Spring. Bear in mind that a job of this kind well done never needs to be done again. You save money by having it done right.

"TIGER! TIGER!" AT POWERS THEATRE

David Belasco Presents Frances Starr in Knoblock's Drama. Opened Monday for Limited Run

David Belasco is sending the original great cast and production which will be under his personal supervision when Frances Starr's notable success "Tiger! Tiger!" comes to the Powers Theatre, Chicago, opening on Monday, Jan. 19, for a limited engagement.

"Tiger! Tiger!" was a sensational success in New York where it packed the Belasco Theatre throughout all of last season, breaking all previous records at this house noted for its brilliant successes. Miss Starr always a pronounced favorite with Chicago theatre-goers will be supported by the most notable company of dramatic artists that has ever attended her in her previous brilliant plays. Mr. Belasco selected the principal players from the leading theatres of London and Paris and the cast in every instance has been brought to the highest possible standard in keeping with the best ideals of the well-known Belasco trade-mark. Among the leading artists in "Tiger! Tiger!" the list includes such celebrities as Lionel Atwill, Frederick Lloyd, Wallace Erskine, Whitford Kane, Edwin Denison, Thomas Louden, Mary Moore, Daisy Belmore and Helen Andrews.

The title of the play is purely symbolic, born of the author's fanciful likening of human society to the jungle with its dangers and its warning cry, "Tiger! Tiger!"

The action opens in the luxurious apartments of Clive Couper, member of Parliament, bored and lacking interest in the concrete things of life and utterly unmoved by the love of the beautiful daughter of his old friend. Then comes into his life a little servant girl, a cook, whom he picks up in the street, and they enter into an illicit love affair which continues for two years. It is to the unlettered girl of the masses that the awakening comes, rather than to the cultured and gifted man of the world. The scene at the close of the third act when Sally renounces her lover and at last confesses to him and to herself that the end had come, is spoken of by New York critics as the most powerful situation ever shown on the English speaking stage, and Miss Starr and Lionel Atwill both rise fully to its tremendous possibilities. Miss Starr's true artistry, it is said, enables her to carry through in this play a role which in itself is always intensely interesting.

Some ructionous and irresponsible knockers will persist in asking why, if it only takes two weeks for enumerators to take the census, it should take from five to ten years to figure up the results and have it published.

LEONARD WOOD, ADMINISTRATOR

WOOD HAS VARIED CIVIL EXPERIENCE

ADMINISTRATIVE QUALITIES ARE TESTED AND PROVED IN HANDLING GREAT BUSINESS PROBLEMS.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

From time to time people ask, "What has been the administrative and business experience of Leonard Wood? What has been his experience with men outside of the army? What does he know about conditions in the different parts of the United States and in our overseas possessions? Has he any thorough knowledge of foreign affairs and of our foreign relations?"

The administrative qualities of Leonard Wood have been tested and proved. No American living has been tried more thoroughly than he in complex fields of constructive civil work, administrative work of the highest order which carried with it the necessity for the exercise of keen business acumen.

The republic of Cuba, built upon firm democratic foundations, is a monument to the administrative ability of Leonard Wood. In the Philippines it is to be found another monument to his statesmanship.

Leonard Wood graduated in medicine from Harvard University in 1884 and served for more than a year in one of the great hospitals, later to take charge of the charity departments in a section of the city of Boston where the poor lived.

Not long after the completion of Wood's work in Boston he became an assistant surgeon in the army, coming into contact with the western plainsman, the miner, the people generally, and giving much of his time to the work of assisting the Indians and to a study of the problems of irrigation and reclamation.

Then for Leonard Wood there came four years in California. He covered the state many times in pursuance of his duties and extended his field as occasion required into the states of the Northwest. Then for two years he was in service in the South, having headquarters in Georgia.

From the South Leonard Wood went to the city of Washington, where his work brought him into daily contact with Grover Cleveland. Then he had the same intimate relations with William McKinley and the men of his time.

Then came the Spanish war and the active campaign in Cuba as the colonel of the regiment of rough riders of which Theodore Roosevelt was the lieutenant colonel.

At the close of the Spanish war Leonard Wood's supreme administrative duties began. He was made the governor of the city of Santiago and a few weeks later of the entire eastern half of Cuba.

Under Wood profiteering was abolished, industry was built up, agriculture rehabilitated, hospitals organized, equipped and maintained, tens of thousands of people clothed and fed—and all this done in a thorough, businesslike manner. It was done under tribulations which arose from the fact that the people were impoverished to the point of starvation and had been dying by thousands for the lack of the things which Wood quickly provided.

Then there came the rehabilitation of the municipalities, the establishment of schools, the opening of roads, the organizing of government in the provinces, the readjustment of taxation and of the courts, and the work of providing for the thousands of children made orphans by war or famine. There was more business and more varieties of it than it has been the lot of many men ever to have placed upon their shoulders.

Not long after this there came the greater opportunities in Havana. It was necessary to re-write the election laws to make them fit the habits of the people. Production had to be stimulated, for agriculture was the main source of the island's wealth. Here again the same measures were followed and as a result there were established law and order, protection of life and property, and liberty within the law.

These were the foundation stones. Wood knew that the government must be run by the Cubans, and so 90 per cent of the officials engaged in the great work of reconstruction were selected from the people of the island. The Cubans were taught government while the government was being built and thus they were able to run it when the rule of the island was turned over to its inhabitants.

When it became necessary to reorganize the Cuban railroads Wood secured the services of Sir William Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific, and of Granville M. Dodge, builder of the Union Pacific.

The same general policy was followed in dealing with the problem of caring for the tens of thousands of orphans that had been left by the war. Homer Folks, commissioner of charities of the state of New York, was called to Cuba by Wood to aid in the establishment of a system for placing and permanently caring for these little desolates. Chief Justice White of the Supreme court of the United States, at that time an associate justice, was consulted as to the method to be pursued in reorganizing the courts.

Leonard Wood was in Cuba about four years. He left there a reorganized and sound banking system, a good railroad system, no debts, nearly $2,000,000 unincumbered money in the treasury, a sugar crop of nearly 1,000,000 tons, sound municipal laws, fine public works, a firm agricultural foundation and an absolute respect among the people for life and property. The school system which Wood established was founded on the laws of Massachusetts and Ohio. Roads were built which made communication speedy. The hospitals erected under his supervision were of the highest type.

Lord Cromer said he wished this American officer was available to follow him in his reconstruction work in Egypt. Elihu Root said this work never was paralleled in colonial possessions anywhere. Theodore Roosevelt said that Leonard Wood "has rendered services to Cuba of a kind which, if performed three thousand years ago, would have made him a hero mixed up with the sun god in various ways."

After the Cuban experience Wood was for five years in the Philippines confronted with the difficult labor of establishing a civil government, this time among a Mohammedan people. There he did the same successful work he did in Cuba.

This period of residence in the Philippines gave Wood an opportunity to study conditions in the British colonies, Borneo, Singapore, and to keep in close touch with conditions in Japan and along the China coast. Wood traveled through India, spent some time with the Dutch in Java, and with Lord Cromer in Egypt. He gained and retained knowledge of all which at that time came under his studious observation.

Then Leonard Wood became chief of the general staff of the United States army, in whose hands rests very largely the direction and administration of the military establishment, which after all is 90 per cent a business matter.

The administrative career of Leonard Wood is spread upon the records of his country. The work which he has done is lasting. It is a statesman's work.

HIGHWOOD PATRIOTIC LEAGUE

The folkdancing classes for children under ten years of age are held every Monday afternoon.

Last Monday evening the school girls gave a party for their young boy friends in the League rooms.

The cooking class met Tuesday as usual and were initiated into the art of salad making.

The Business Girls' buncó party was held Tuesday evening and a most delightful evening was spent.

The music classes are held Wednesday afternoons under the direction of Miss Hull of Waukegan.

Wednesday evening the Shrading club of Ft. Sheridan had possession of the rooms.

Friday evenings the Boy Scouts meet at the League.

The Sunday party for wounded men will be postponed for one week owing to the influenza epidemic.

Some young women who would never be so bold as to make a leap year proposal, are nevertheless patrons of the drug store beautifiers and frequently inform the boys that they are very lonely.
