

The Bank of Personal Service

Hewing to the Line

Sustained energy — not a sudden glow of enthusiasm or a spasmodic spurt of effort — insures achievement.

In attaining a position of financial comfort, this holds particularly true.

One man saves "off and on" and wonders ruefully why he never appears to get anywhere; another saves consistently and in short order builds a competence.

Be a successful saver! Open an account in our bank and then hew to the line!

DO NOT BLAME THE WAR

Watered stocks of money, inordinate prices for goods, public waste and private squandering, no people so poor as to want work, the arrangements between the nations out of kilter—all these troublesome things can be explained by saying that war bumped into an economic machine designed for peace.

The problem of declining production, however, is something else; its solution eludes our thought. It has nothing to do with any mere juggling into balance of economic devices; "getting back to where we were before the war" does not help any.

The fact is, declining output is a movement; it came into the world when machinery came, and labor is only a part of it. It was the human notion of self preservation before the devouring energies of steel and iron.

APPEAL FOR ADOPTION OF ARMENIAN ORPHANS

250,000 Hungry and Homeless Orphans Need Support; Women Asked to Help in Work

Adopt an orphan!

With that as their slogan, the women workers of the Near East Relief in Illinois have started out with the determination to get every woman's club, every Sunday school, every lodge and every children's group in the state to assist in this human salvage campaign to the extent of supporting at least one of the 250,000 hungry, homeless Armenian children for a year. It costs only a small sum to support an orphan in Armenia. Sixty dollars will feed one for a year and $180 will clothe and educate one of these parentless youngsters.

The Illinois women who have undertaken this task have worked out a human salvage price list that everyone may know what every little bit will do to save the lives of these thousands of starving orphans. Here is the list.

$5 a month will provide food for one orphan.

$10 a month will furnish food and clothing for one orphan.

$15 a month will take entire care of one orphan.

$20 a month will keep a girl in a rescue home.

$25 will provide bed and clothing for one refugee.

$50 will give an adult one warm meal a day for a year at a soup kitchen.

$75 will pay for a bed in a hospital for one year.

$100 will cover the pay roll of a small factory employing 50 women.

$180 will keep an orphan for a year.

$240 will keep one rescued girl for one year.

$500 will pay the freight on 100 tons of flour (500,000 tons are needed in the Caucasus.)

$1,000 will get old clothing from America for 5000 people.

$5000 will equip an orphanage for 5000 children.

Miss Mary Edna Burgess, of Bement, Ill., who spent five years in the Caucasus and who recently returned issues an appeal to the women of her state. Miss Burgess was with the party of Americans who prevented the Turks from scalding hundreds of Armenian babies to death. She was in the midst of the starvation and suffering of these peoples in the Near East.

"Conditions in Armenia are unspeakable," she said. "There are hundreds of babies who cannot remember tasting milk. I have seen little ones sleeping on the blackened bodies of their small dead companions to keep their naked bodies from the cold ground. This is a disgrace to the civilized world. And the mothers of America, looking at their own healthy comfortable babies, cannot refuse the little youngsters across the seas in their desperate appeal for aid."

The Illinois quota is $2,032,169, of which $770,669 has to be raised outside of Chicago. The preliminary gifts total more than $200,000, of which the Mennonite Brethren of Elgin raised $100,000.
