NUMBER 13 THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1920

Telephones, Highland Park 557, 558

One of the most serious problems that has to be faced within a very short period is that of the financial support of public utilities. It must be conceded by all thinking men that if public utilities are to function properly and give the necessary efficient service that is required by the public at large, they must receive a sufficient revenue to pay their employees adequately and provide necessary facilities.

Every one will agree that if for only a day, the gas company or the electric light company, or the telephone company were to cease operating, or to go a step further, if the elevated lines or car lines were to be tied in the car barns—the inconvenience to the public would be stupendous.

It is for the public of course to appreciate the fact that adequate rates are necessary in order that service may be rendered. Fortunately there is in this state a Public Utilities commission regularly appointed by law whose duty it is to adjust rates, raise or lower them, as the case may be, in order that a utility may function efficiently. As a matter of fact the Public Utilities commission in granting increased rates to a utility in serious need, really acts as a public servant and benefactor.

In circumstances such as obtain today in the case of the Chicago Telephone company and others who are losing hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, it would seem only reasonable that they should increase their rates to meet the high cost of wages, material, etc., and that public confidence should be reposed in the Commission with the assurance that a Commission appointed solely in the interests of the public will, after due investigation, grant such increase as is necessary to public advantage, and that when the costs decline, if ever such a condition does arise, to use the power which they already have to lower the rates to normal standards. This seems to be common sense and an honest solution of the present difficulty.

RAVINIA PARK

Not least among the pleasures and privileges which we enjoy who live in this favored region is the Ravinia Park musical season with its afternoon orchestral concerts and its evening operas sung by artists of international renown.

There is no place in America and probably none anywhere else where such beautiful music is provided in the midst of surroundings of such natural charm. It is a glorified amusement park appealing only to the real lovers of music, a garden of delights for the judicious and the artistic. It is a tribute to the appreciative taste of the music lovers of Chicago and the North Shore that an enterprise so daringly undertaken has proved at last a financial success and bids fair to be a permanent place of summer enjoyment.

We are all under a debt of gratitude to the men and women and in particular to Louis Eckstein, president, who year after year have stood behind Ravinia Park and have made good the deficits of the early years until now the undertaking is a proved success. Nothing else has done so much to raise the musical standards of Chicago and the middle west.

We are assured that the music this summer, both orchestral and operatic, will be of a higher order than ever before and that the season will continue for full ten weeks, beginning June 26.

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra will return to us under the direction of Richard Hageman and Gennaro Papi, and Scotti and other well known artists of the Metropolitan company will sing throughout the entire season.

A canvass is now being made for the sale of tickets, and we urge all our readers to purchase in advance for the encouragement and help of the officers and members of the Ravinia association who have made us all their debtors and with whom we should cooperate in every way possible.

DEFEATS GLENCOE IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Community Service Athletic Club Wins Game 7 to 4. To Play North Ends

The recently formed Community Service baseball team defeated the Glencoe Athletic club Sunday 7 to 4 on the Highland Park academy field.

Ed Fay, the local pitcher, struck out eight men. The team being aided by great fielding and long range hitting collected fourteen hits against their opponents' five.

Glencoe started off like a whirlwind scoring one run in the first inning, but the locals came back and scored two runs in the home half, thereby cinching the game as Glencoe could not hit the offerings of Fay thereafter.
