The money for plant extensions of the Telephone Company must be obtained through issuance of stocks, bonds or notes.

Reconstruction projects and new or expanding industrial undertakings are in the market for new capital.

Foreign governments are seeking loans for the rehabilitation of their devastated domains.

The competition for capital was never so keen and borrowers must show, beyond question, their ability to earn and pay interest and dividends.

The rate schedule is the index to the borrowing power of the Telephone Company. It should be liberal enough to demonstrate conclusively that the company will promptly carry out its obligations to stockholders and bondholders.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

Last week we published two essays on library subjects written by High School pupils for which prizes were given by Miss Ridlon and Miss Baldwin.

This week we print another essay by Irving Conrad of Highland Park, telling of the work of the American Library Association:

The American Library Association By Irving Conrad, Highland Park

Before telling you of some of the present plans of the American Library Association, let me give you a little history. The association is a professional organization made up of four thousand active librarians throughout the United States. It was established forty years ago and has been successfully growing ever since.

The organization was very successful in its war work, distributing more than seven million books, and thus cultivating the habit of reading among the millions of young Americans who saw service.

However, at present there is a new and greater plan on foot. It goes under the name of "Books for everybody," and is, in one sentence, a plan to promote voluntary self-education through the use of libraries.

Although many city dwellers are inclined to believe that libraries are available everywhere, they are very much mistaken, as actual investigation shows that only twenty-seven per cent of the 2,964 counties in the country have libraries of 5,000 volumes or more. This means that about sixty million American people are without adequate library service.

Another very important problem which confronts the A. L. A. is that of providing books for the blind. At present there are seventy-five thousand blind people in the United States including the soldiers who lost their sight in the war. These soldiers are taught to read a uniform type, and only a few books of that type can be found, so it is up to the A. L. A. to overcome this shortage by distributing more of these books.

A third great cause which the A. L. A. is striving to better is that of citizenship. "Good books make good citizens," such is the firm conviction of all the American librarians. Statistics show that there are approximately fifteen million new Americans in the United States and that six million of these cannot read or speak our language. To be a good citizen one needs to know the ideals of American democracy, and be well informed on current and political affairs. There is one, and only one successful way in which this can be done, and that is through our libraries.

This present movement is surely one of the greatest that could have been started, and points directly to the time when good books will be freely accessible to every man, woman and child in the United States.

IN MEMORIAM

Carl H. Carlson

In loving remembrance of our dear son and brother who went to his eternal home with Jesus on June 9, 1919.

One sad year ago today, since you, dear son and brother, passed away. We saw you suffer and heard your sighs, with aching hearts and weeping eyes.

We saw you sinking hour by hour, but could not save you from Death's power.

All pains, all aches, all suffering passed.

Ask us, do we miss him, it is such a lonely place;

Of we think we hear his footstep, or see his smiling face.

Around the grave we linger, as without the one we treasured so.

Your loving parents, sisters and brothers.

What these fellows who are trying to overturn the government need is education, particularly the course offered in the jails.
