LAKE FOREST HAS BUNGLED CENSUS

After a brief investigation by city officials, Lake Forest census figures have been found totally wrong. The figures for 1920 are given as 3,360, an increase of only eleven over the 1910 figures. Names of persons and streets are carelessly misspelled, and many old residents are left completely out of the lists. City Clerk James F. King is making a thorough investigation of the matter, and has asked the government to make a re-enumeration.

FLOWER SHOW OFFERS A RARE OPPORTUNITY

GARDENS TO BE OPENED

Holders of Tickets Will be Allowed to visit Well Known Estates in City of Lake Forest

This is an unusual peony year, and the peonies at the Lake Forest flower show, to be held at Gorton school, Lake Forest, on June 19 and 20, are sure to create a sensation.

Unfortunately the hot weather has hastened the iris bloom and there will be few of this flower shown. As a compensation the same hot weather has brought on some of the later blooming flowers and these will be added to the show to take the place of the iris.

Many Lake Forest ladies are planning to show table decorations, using their own charming vases and table accessories. Among these are Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson and Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney. Others will show flower arrangements. Mrs. C. Morse Ely, who has charge of this class, promises many beautiful combinations.

But the most interesting part of the flower show is the fact that six Lake Forest gardens in their prime will be open to all holders of flower show tickets. Each garden is an interesting example of the varying forms of landscape architecture. They are large and small, on the lake and on the ridge. They will be open all day Saturday and Sunday and each one will fly a small American flag. If it is more convenient to visit them before attending the flower show, tickets may be purchased at each.
