The Month of Roses

During the fairy-like month of June, many things besides the roses bud and bloom. Mankind, like nature, assumes a festive air—small wonder it is a favored time for important occasions!

And, speaking of important occasions, could there be a better time than now to open that account with us, and take a definite step forward on the broad Highway to Success?

RACE RIOTS

One of the serious problems of our national life is the reconciliation of the rights and privileges of our large negro population with those of their white neighbors. Race riots are becoming increasingly frequent and with the rapidly growing negro population of our northern cities we are beginning to realize some of the difficulties with which the people of the southern states have to deal.

If it were merely a question of skin pigment there would be no problem; if black men and white men had the same natural powers and capacities and differed only in complexion they would mingle as naturally as do Latins and Saxons, as black haired and yellow haired races, but there is a deeper and more essential difference than that, a fundamental difference which affects all the social, intellectual and moral standards and which makes impossible the mingling of the races.

The black man is here not from his choice but because he was brought here as a slave. The responsibility for his presence rests upon the white race, but now that the black man is free and rightly so, how is he to be dealt with? He is equal before the law, must he be held to be equal socially and intellectually?

There are those who claim that the inferiority of the black man, measured by cultural standards is due to the fact that he has always been oppressed and held in slavery, that he has never had a chance to develop along national lines. "Be patient and give him time," they say, "and you will see what the black man with freedom of opportunity will make of himself. Education is the ladder by which he will rise."

Give him education by all means, help him to make the most of his new opportunities, we can in fairness do no less, but when all has been done the black man and the white man will in certain respects stand as far apart as the poles, the differences are not superficial but fundamental.

Why has the negro race always been in subjection? One race is as old as the other, each has had abundant opportunities to prove its natural capacities, to develop its characteristic civilization. But as a matter of fact, there has never been any negro civilization, the Egyptians were not negroes, nor the Moors; it is only by contact with a superior race and by their help that the Africans have risen from barbarism. Upon monuments of ancient Egypt we see carved in imperishable granite long lines of negro slaves, they were hewers of wood and drawers of water then as throughout all subsequent ages, no Caucasian race has ever submitted to permanent servitude, the difference is one of racial quality.

Has there ever been a black man of pure blood who has risen to the intellectual level of the white race? We honor Booker Washington but his father was not a black man. This is not to disparage the good qualities of the black man, for they are many, but only to say that the essential difference between the two races can never be bridged over except by amalgamation and amalgamation as a solution of the problem is in the nature of the case absolutely ruled out.

The problem has puzzled wiser heads than ours and we can only counsel courtesy and forbearance and fair play and a mutual respect and toleration for those racial qualities which make people what they are.

THE SIXTY-SIXTH CONGRESS

On Saturday, June 5th, the sixty-sixth Congress of the United States ended its sessions.

During the six months since the session began some twenty thousand bills and resolutions were introduced. Two and one-quarter billions of dollars were saved to tax payers by reducing the estimates introduced by the administrative departments. Many important measures were enacted into laws. The Army Reorganization bill fixing the strength of the peace time establishment of 297,000 officers and men, the Merchant Marine bill, the Transportation bill and the Water Power bill, which was signed by the president after the adjournment of the session.

Many important bills failed of passage, among them the Soldiers' bonus bill and the Budget bill, both of which will be revived in amended and more acceptable form at the next session.

Notwithstanding the rejection of the League and the Treaty and the time spent in partisan wrangling, Congress enacted many important measures for which we are duly thankful.

COMMUNITY DANCES AT HIGH SCHOOL

There has been some confusion of thought regarding the dances at the high school, requiring an official statement as follows:

The undersigned as chairman in the month of May discussed the question of the continuation of the dances during the hot weather with the advisory committee comprising the following members: Harry Eichler, Edward Maechtle, James Duffy, Irving Brand, John White, Dr. Lee, and the Misses Alice Duffy, Mae Siljestrom, Florence Simmers, Marjorie Merritt, and Miss Silber, and it was the opinion of the committee that they would be discontinued after July 1st.

In the meantime the school board found it necessary to shut down the power plant and the plan of continuation of the dances was out of the question.

The cooperation of the school board and of everybody in connection with the school has been one of the very bright spots in connection with the activities of this particular branch of community service and public acknowledgement is made of the great assistance given.

I have no doubt but what the board will again allow the community service to use the school next fall.

During the summer months it is the present plan, as I understand it, to have dances of an informal nature at the center, in charge of Mr. Harris and Mrs. Merritt.

STEWART REED BROWN, Chairman of Community Dances.

Lots of people spend their spare time reading about the awful results of under production, instead of getting out into the gardens and producing some vegetables.

ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE

WHILE we are still planting, this week will finish up the Spring work and we are ready for the Summer work such as tree surgery, tree pruning, etc.

Our office offers its service to plan your gardens, to make your surveys, planting plans, to analyse your soil, etc.

We plan as well as execute and it surely is a good time to put in a pergola, a lily pond, a rustic bridge and a trail down your ravine. We do all these things reasonable as to cost, satisfactory as to results.

For good landscape gardening, for well studied out plans we are yours as ever.
