THE WEEK BEFORE VACATION

Monday and Tuesday are sure to drag. Wednesday brings thoughts of things that must be done. Actually doing them is a battle that commences Thursday and should be won by Friday -

Because on Saturday morning, whether you are ready or not, the vacation spirit has gripped you. Bulging suitcases are jambed together and you're off.

But just before you're off make your farewell visit to the bank. Make arrangements for carrying vacation funds in the most convenient way, and store your valuables in one of our safe deposit boxes.

THE ANCIENT AND ROYAL GAME

The golfing season is now in full swing and the fifty courses in and about Chicago are crowded with players every fine day. Our North Shore in particular is a golfers' paradise and its almost continuous line of fine country clubs reaching from the city limits to Waukegan are unsurpassed by any in the country.

Golf, which was almost unknown in America twenty years ago, is rapidly becoming a national institution. It is more than a pastime and like Boston, may aptly be described as a "state of mind," in that it shapes the characters and affects the lives of its devotees to a degree that is true of no other recreation.

There is a curious fascination about the game which may not wholly be accounted for, but which is largely due to the healthful out of doors conditions under which it is played, the vigorous yet moderate physical exercise which it encourages and the delicate skill which it requires, a skill which demands self-control, good temper, fair play and a close coordination of all the faculties of mind and body.

There is vastly more to the game than appears to the scornful non-golfing onlooker who only sees men and women in sporting costumes knocking a small ball around a large field. Once a man takes up the game, whatever may be his age, race or previous condition of servitude, if he be a normally minded person of fair physical vigor, he becomes a devotee, and from that time on observes the first rule of the game, which is "Never let your business interfere with your golf."

Once you are on the mound with your ball teed before you and your trusty driver in your hands, with the long green fairway stretching before you and the sunshine flooding the course with beauty, you forget all your cares and worries and think only of one thing, how best to hit the ball so that it will fly straight and low toward the distant flag. Anglers may talk of the thrills they feel when playing a muskie or a five pound trout, but for pure exhilaration there is nothing to compare with the joy of a long straight drive, and next to that of a ten foot putt which sinks the ball into the cup.

But it is not all so easy as it seems. Golf is a jealous mistress which will brook no rivals. When you address your ball there are nineteen things you must remember not to do, any one of which will spoil your shot, and as many more which you must do if you are to win the hole. There must be free play of every muscle and a perfect balance and coordination of body and mind. Confidence and assurance are essential to success and quietness and cheerfulness. "Be bold, be bold, be not too bold" is excellent advice for the golfer, and the timid player as well as the rash is doomed to failure.

No man can play perfect golf continuously, the vagaries of the game are infinitely puzzling and the player is continually striving after an excellence which forever eludes him, this is one of its chief fascinations.

The psychology of golf is a science in itself which no man has yet mastered, many books have been written about it but none of them is adequate. we may yet see established in our universities professorships of golf psychology, to which subject may be joined the ethics of golf, unless that develops into a special department of study, as is likely.

SERVICE

The shop, the railroad, or the salesman that does the most business is | coe av., are leaving Saturday for Orethe one which has the best service. That means courtesy, thoughtfulness and always the best, not the easiest, effort; in other words, those things which cannot be bought but which make people want to buy.

The husiness concern which pays no attention to service can usually make both ends meet but it gets and gives very little pleasure or happiness in so doing, for such work is drudgery, not pleasurable occupation. So it is with life in general. Do you give service? Are people glad to see you coming or do they turn down a side street to avoid you? If they avoid you it is probably because you are not glad to see them, you are selfish and want it all your own way.

The Boy Scouts have as one of their mottos "Do one good deed each day." and it is not a bad rule for the oldest or the best of us. Try to give service to all at all times, make the effort and it will pay you well. And it is condemic of service in Highland Park.

Achievement and Lasting Results Count in Landscape Architecture.

We have been fortunate last spring, partly on account of frequent rains, but perhaps also by "knowing how" as well as in Lake Forest, Glencoe and Winnetka will adhere to our motto: "Service, results, satisfaction and harmony in all our plantings."

We are now real busy making drawings for new places, preparatory to the Fall planting. Perhaps you would like to enhance the charm of your home grounds by planting hardy shrubs, vines, perennials and bulbs. Now is the time to estimate your wants, and we will do so gladly. Call up H. P. 64 or write to box 314, and we will give you a figure.
