What Credit Men Think of Paying by Check

"Every effort should be made to have checks become more completely the Nation's real currency; the circulation of currency for the payment of accounts, when checks would be safer and more adaptable, is unwise and unsafe."

The above is the conclusion reached by the banking and currency executive committee at a recent meeting of the National Association of Credit Men.

WAR HYSTERIA AND REACTION

The human machine is a nicely balanced mechanism and responds quickly to the stimulus of individual excitement and of day. crowd contagion, so that quite unconsciously we are affected by the great currents of sentiment and emotion which sweep over a nation in times of public agitation. The psychology of the crowd is something which as yet is imperfectly understood, but we know how it works with an army in battle or a mob under the braska visited this week with their bor, Mich., spent a few days last incitement of riot or lynching.

But every action has its corresponding reaction, and the world is still suffering from the consequences of the intense excitements of the great war. The enthusiasms then aroused have trip. died down, the fires of patriotic zeal have burned themselves out, the self denials which we then so willingly practiced have this week in Woodruff, Wis., on a work. been succeeded by an epidemic of self indulgence and an orgy of hunting trip. They made their headspending. Restlessness and discontent everywhere prevail, labor disturbancs and social revolt.

Perhaps we can give no better reason for this dislike than to say that the practice is neither modest nor womanly, that is a vacation trip to Tennessee. to say, it is contrary to the social code by which women have been governed in the past, and that is precisely why women smoke: they do it to show their revolt against the old order, they want to do something daring and rebellious, it is a symptom parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. When women discover that such customs do not add to womanly charm and to the respect paid to their sex, that immodest dress and cigarettes do not make for higher standards of womanhood, that there is a reason for the old inhibitions, then they will cease to give offence in these matters. Meanwhile old fashioned people must be patient and hope for a return to sanity, mer menu at the Y. W. C. A. cafeterin Waukegan 1606.
