HIGHLAND PARK BOY RECEIVES 2ND PRIZE

Lyman McBride, 10 Years Old, Receives Prize for Fire Prevention Essay

Lyman McBride, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. McBride, of North Linden avenue, received a check for $15 this morning from the Prouty company of Chicago as a second prize for an essay on Fire Prevention. Lyman noticed the company "adv" in a magazine stating that they were offering prizes among the school children for the best essay on Fire Prevention. He wrote the essay with the above result. Lyman, says it pays to read the "adv" as well as "it pays to advertise."

Below is his essay:

Fire Prevention

Fire prevention day is a very good thing, it will remind the people not to be so careless. Matches should be kept out of reach of children and should be kept in an iron box. There should be no rubbish in basements or attics, as it helps to start fires. Fire extinguishers should be in every room in the most convenient place. Wood and paper should not be kept near fireplaces or furnaces. People should use safety matches as much as possible and must look out for the afterglow of the strike anywhere matches. There should be no bonfires unless they are out in the open where nothing near can catch afire. Fire drills should be had often in schools in the winter, ice should be taken off the fire escapes. If you know where there is a fire go to the nearest phone and tell the fire department. Gasoline should be kept in a red container with a black label on it. Keep no oil in a closet because it can get no air and will explode. Do not leave stoves with oil on them in the house. If you are going to clean anything with gasoline take it outside.

Be careful in doing anything that is apt to start fire, children especially. Doing so it will not only save property but many lives.

The judges were Peter M. Hoffman, coroner of Cook county; J. C. McDonnell, chief of Fire Prevention bureau, Chicago, and H. A. Mott, supervisor of safety, Chicago Telephone company.

HOLD-UP STORY IS DENIED BY THERRIEN

Says Report is Ridiculous Exaggeration; Girl Didn't Drive Car

Edward Therrien is indignantly denying the detailed report that appeared in a Chicago morning newspaper Tuesday morning, relating in glaring terms an exciting hold-up from which Therrien and Miss Hazel Behrens of Glencoe were supposed to have escaped through the young lady's ingenuity.

According to the story, the couple, driving along the Wheeling road, toward Glencoe Monday evening, were accosted by four hold-up men. Miss Behrens, it was said, took the wheel and drove the car at high speed away from the place, thereby eluding the gang, who followed them in a yellow racer.

Therrien says that the story is greatly exaggerated. While driving along the Wheeling road Sat., evening, he said that they passed a group of men standing in the road, and that he sped by them; but there was no attempted hold-up, and no yellow-racer followed their car. The part of the story telling of the girl's heroic assistance in driving the car out of danger is laughable, he says.

BICYCLE THIEVES TAKE TWO WHEELS

Continue to Carry On Operations in This City; Suspect Gang at Work

The bicycle thieves are continuing to operate in this city. Last Sunday night two more wheels disappeared, one from the home of Walter Cope, and the other from the home of Eliza Morgan. Last week several bicycles were stolen in Highland Park. So far, no trace of the thieves has been found, but the police believe that all of the thefts were made by the same persons. A close watch is being kept for further thefts.

PLAN MUSICAL PROGRAM

Club Has Made Arrangements for an Interesting Series of Entertainments for the Coming Year

The Ossoli club's opening meeting takes place Tuesday, Oct. 26, with a musical, given by the Sybil Sammis Singers of Chicago, whose reputation in the musical world is the assurance, always of a very large attendance.

Ossoli's program for the year includes such names as: Mary Hight, whose lecture on jewels, with their history through antiquity to the present day, together with her collection of their crystal replicas, is a much sought feature for club programs.

A series of lectures by Julian B. Arnold, essayist and lecturer, and son of the late Sir Edwin Arnold, promises to give the members three lectures of more than usual interest.

Prof. Cantu, a native Mexican and noted among colleagues of this country as a teacher and lecturer, together with Mr. Ralph Fletcher Seymour, artist and traveler, and Wallace Bruce Amsbury, noted university lecturer, comprise some of the notable names which will appear on the club's program during the year, which promises to make Ossoli afternoons as great a success as those of last year.

The social committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roger Vall, will serve tea after the musical.

WOMAN'S CLUB FIRST MEETING GREAT SUCCESS

MRS. U. S. GRANT SPEAKS

Holiday Sale Committees Report on Sale to be Held November 19 and 20

The first meeting of the season was a great success for the Highland Park Woman's club. There were over two hundred members and guests at the cafeteria luncheon which proved thoroughly enjoyable to all. There was such an abundance of delightful dishes that an auction was held at which Mrs. A. L. Holabird officiated as auctioneer. She sold over 30 dollars worth of salads, cakes, pies and jellies.

The regular meeting at 2:30 proved an interesting one although Mrs. Townley, who was to sing, could not be present. Mrs. U. S. Grant of Evanston, told in a most inspiring way the methods used by the Evanston Woman's club in obtaining their club home.

The chairman of the holiday sale committee reported progress in the work of their circles in preparing for the November sale, which will include Household utilities, toys, books, bakery goods and preserves, gifts and candy.

A hint was given last week concerning the Household Economy Exhibit and Holiday Gift Sale, November 19-20. More complete announcement can now be made.

The exhibit is to be staged in the east room of the Community Center. Among those who have contracted for space are:

The No-Kol company, public service North Shore Gas Co. (2 spaces) B.M.'s Flower shop, The Book House for Children, Harder's hardware store, Easy Washing Machine, Hutton Ironing Machine, Marshall Field & Co (3 spaces), Flynndale Preserves and Jellies, Swift & Co., Calumet Baking Powder Co., and several others.

It has been planned by the Finance committee to make this exhibit as comprehensive as possible. The space at their disposal is far too small to accommodate all the household utilities that could have been secured, but until the Highland Park Woman's Club building is an accomplished fact there seems no other available space and the club is deeply grateful to the Community service for making it possible to hold the exhibit.

More than one thousand dollars has been banked by the Committee for the rental of exhibit space and there is more to come.

In addition to the exhibits of food the companies are to serve their products at the dinner to be given in Witten hall on Saturday night, November 2. Chase and Sanborn's delicious coffee will be served, Swift & Co. will cook and serve lunch, salads will be prepared by Libby, McNeil & Libby and Calumet cakes and hot baking powder biscuits are some of the attractions.

Mrs. C. F. Mather Smith promises a snappy cabaret to entertain the diners. Popular prices will be charged.

OLD TIME HARVEST PARTY, OCTOBER 30

Dancing will be the feature of the evening with Duffy's orchestra furnishing the music. Everybody, old folks and young, are invited to attend. Father and mother will be given an opportunity to indulge in a good old square dance and Virginia Reel, so don't stay away at home because you have passed the first joys of youth. Come and be young again. Don't forget the date, October 26.

A large crowd packed the Pearl theatre last week when the moving pictures of life at Mooseheart were shown by Highland Park lodge No. 446, L. O. O. M. MARGARET McDUGALL FOUND IN CALIFORNIA

BROTHER RECEIVES WORD

Mysterious Disappearance of Local Woman Has Caused Much Comment During Past Week

This usually quiet and sedate community has been the storm center of cumulative sensation over the mysterious disappearance of Miss Margaret L. McDougall, 522 N. Green Bay road and James Griffin, life guard and beach master.

Miss McDougall was last seen when she left the house Friday morning, when it was remembered that Griffin had gone away the previous Saturday.

The anxiety of the McDougall household over the unexpected and mysterious disappearance of Margaret was so pronounced that enterprising Chicago newspaper reporters soon scented the possibility of a racy story and were not slow in weaving a minimum of facts into a maximum of fancies, which soon developed into a veritable game of "blind man's buff," but brought out the ever better side of human nature, for friends and neighbors flocked to the assistance of the McDougalls and Chief of Police Edward Maroney, who exemplified the supremacy of Highland Park in all civic essentials in his clever and effective handling of this case, the intricacies of which would have baffled the far-famed Sherlock Holmes, Esq.

But now, alas! Just as this romance of love, hate and intrigue reaches crescendo, comes a letter to brother John from the recalcitrant Margaret, stating her safe arrival on the wave-washed shores of California and hinting that funds are getting low.

Meanwhile the redoubtable Captain Griffin is said to be rusticated "far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife," making big bags of the occasional duck who dares to brave the stormy waters of Round Lake.

Thus, like a mirage, fades romance away.
