HOLSTEIN MEN MET MONDAY AFTERNOON

NEED GREATER INTEREST

Meeting at Libertyville Was One of a Series of Gatherings Being Held in State of Illinois

"We haven't yet had the breeders in Illinois interested enough in the state Holstein association for their own good," said George Fox, president of that organization in speaking to a group of Lake county breeders in the farm bureau office in Libertyville on Monday afternoon. The meeting was one of 31 gatherings that are being held in Illinois to get breeders of purebred and grade Holsteins interested in, and members of, the state Holstein association. Every breeder present joined the state organization at the close of the meeting.

George White, president of the Lake County Holstein association opened the meeting and called upon county adviser Watkins. At the time of the organization of the county farm bureau Lake county had nine men breeding Holstein cattle with a total of 217 purebred cows, according to Mr. Watkins. There are now 74 breeders with a total of 925 purebred cows. He also pointed out that the income per cow was $17 higher from the sale of milk and its products than the man who had been using a purebred bull only, over a period of eight years.

Mr. Fox in his talk outlined the organization of the Illinois association by districts with three directors from each district. He showed that in this way the breeders themselves control the work of the association.

Mr. R. C. Pollock of the National Holstein association told of the work that was being done by organization in other states. He pointed out what could be done by a state association in advertising the state Holstein interests and furnishing an outlet for surplus breeding stock.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Woman's Club Bazaar
Every Y. W. C. A. girl should make the Blue Triangle booth her headquarters at the Woman's club bazaar and do her share of publicity work for the Y. W. C. A.

This is a splendid opportunity to explain the local activities to those interested who are unacquainted with the vast amount of work done by the association as a whole. There will be plenty of publicity matter for free distribution.

Watch for the Blue Triangle in the west room of the Community Center and make it your business to make it popular.

It is your booth and your pleasure to be there.

Friendship Club

The Friendship club gave a cootie party Thursday evening, after which officers were elected for the ensuing year and a program committee appointed to plan a literary program for every meeting.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 18, at 8 p. m.

Vesper service every Sunday afternoon at 4:30. Social and tea follows the meeting. Come and bring your friends.

Fancy Work

The Entre Nous club held a very interesting meeting last Friday evening and have started their Christmas work under Miss Carolyn Bean.

The Rainbow club met Wednesday evening socially with light refreshments, several new members being added to the list.

Bible Class

A bible class under a competent instructor is being started, only a limited number to be enrolled in the class. Any who are interested will do well to make inquiries of either of the secretaries.

The class will meet once a week at 7:30 p. m. for one hour.

TRINITY CHURCH

The church school has undertaken to send a missionary box of 100 "joyful" gifts to reach its destination in time for Christmas. These gifts consist of knives, games, toys, or anything that boys and girls of 4 to 18 years of age would enjoy.

There are also twenty men and women on the list. They may be "used" gifts if they are in good condition, but new presents are best.

These are to be brought to the church school next Sunday, Nov. 21, at 9:30 a. m., or any time during the week.

The office seekers can't usually get jobs on their showing for efficiency, but perhaps they can demonstrate that they need public charity.

Maturing Thrift Clubs "Like Money From Home"

Six months ago about 500 young men and women joined our weekly payment thrift clubs.

These thrift clubs are now maturing and as we pay them the money, or put it into a permanent savings account, we hear them say, "I never missed it, this is like getting money from home."

New clubs are now forming
Why not you come in and join?

QUICKSILVER IN IDAHO

Although Idaho has never been a considerable producer of quicksilver, it has from time to time yielded a few flasks—enough to arouse interest in the character of the deposits and their possible economic future. The district in which the most activity has been shown is the Yellow Pine, in Valley County, about 50 miles northeast of Cascade. The district has recently been examined, under a cooperative arrangement, by E. S. Larsen, of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, and D. C. Livingston, of the Idaho State Bureau of Mines and Geology. Their report, published as Bulletin 715-E of the United States Geological Survey, describes briefly the geology of the district and the principal known deposits of quicksilver ore. Mining development, although some of the deposits have been known for nearly 20 years, is still in an early stage. The ore, mainly cinnabar, occurs chiefly in limestone near the contact of that rock with quartzite. No large masses of ore have yet been blocked out, but the prospects for future production are regarded as fairly good. The most serious handicap to development has been the remoteness of the district from the main lines of transportation. The wagon road from Cascade is 70 miles long and has steep grades and a generally rough surface.

The report, which is entitled "Geology of the Yellow Pine Cinnabar-Mining District, Idaho," may be obtained free on application to the Director, U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.
