PUBLIC LIBRARY

BOOKS FOR MEN

What the men in the camps read during the war, and the books men take from the public libraries nowadays, is an indication of the books which other men like. There may be something in this list which you will want to give to some man for Christmas:

Thuvia of Mars, Edgar Rice Burroughs.

Purple Heights, M. C. Oemler who wrote "Slippy McGee."

Ladyfingers, Gregory Jackson, author of "Six Feet Four."

Roaming Thru Changing Germany, N. A. Franke.

Now It Can Be Told, Gibbs.

Kindred of the Dust, Peter B. Kyne.

Dope, Sax Rohmer.

The Skeleton Key, Capes.

Smoke and Steel, Carl Sandburg (new poetry for one with that interest.)

No Defense, Sir Gilbert Parker.

Between You and Me, Sir Harry Lauder.

Creative Chemistry, Slosson.

Jeremy, Hugh Walpole.

Detective Stories of Sherlock Holmes, Conan Doyle.

The Foolish Lovers, St. John Ervine.

The Devil's Paw, Oppenheim.

The Ramblin' Kid, Bowman (for an admirer of Western stories).

Fitzgerald's books have had a tremendous vogue among very young men:

Flappers and Philosophers, and This Side of Paradise.

Two humorous novels are "Alf's Button" by Darlington, and "Anderson Crow, Detective," written by one of the McCutcheons and illustrated by the cartoonist of the same name.

Not All the King's Horses is a Mexican novel written by Chamberlain who was on the U. S. diplomatic forces in Mexico.

Among the 'old' favorites whose books are always in demand by men are the authors: O. Henry, Zane Grey, Jules Verne, Harold Bell Wright, Stewart Edward White, Rex Beach, E. P. Oppenheim, Joseph Lincoln and W. M. Rainey.

If you know that he has some special hobby such as gardening, there are delightful books on sun-dials, garden planning, etc. If tennis takes his summer holiday time, give him "Tennis As I Play It," by McLaughlin.

There are many books about other men, which men like:

Commy by Axelson.

Thayer's Theodore Roosevelt.

Roosevelt's Letters to His Children.

Every Saturday morning a story hour is given in the library, for the children. Everyone is urged to send their brothers and sisters and other children to the public library on Saturday to read the books in the Children's room, and listen to all the stories which Mrs. Leo tells at eleven o'clock. Mrs. Leo has been telling stories at birthday parties for little folk, and at gatherings of grown-ups who enjoy hearing the immortal folk-tales and legends: Being a Southern woman, Mrs. Leo's "Uncle Remus" stories are inimitable, but her pack of stories includes many others. A Chicago woman called Mrs. Leo "the best story-teller on the whole north shore, the other day. Do not miss hearing our story-lady. Come next Saturday and you will come every other Saturday after that. Come to the Story Hour!

The public library is just east of the railroad tracks, one block south of Central avenue; it is open ten hours a day for you to use: 9 to 12, 1 to 6 and 7 to 9.

Story hour Saturday morning at 11. Margaret Ridlon, Librarian.

RAVINIA SCHOOL

This week Wednesday Ravinia school in connection with the Civic club is sending to the Commons of Chicago the barrels of clothing, toys, and food which they share each year with those less fortunate. The older grades are planning to make the Christmas wreaths the first day that holly is delivered.

Next week Wednesday afternoon the children sing their carols at the Presbyterian home.

On Thursday evening, Dec. 16, at 7 o'clock the boys and girls entertain their parents and friends. The gifts they have made in art and manual training will decorate the tree. The Christmas pictures will be shown on the screen as the carols are sung.
