

ETHICS DIFFER IN NORTH SHORE CITIES

Waukegan Paper Tells of the Methods Followed by Doctors and Druggists

The Waukegan Sun has the following interesting comment to make regarding the filling of prescriptions on the North Shore:

"According to a man who transacts business along the North Shore a different line of ethics is observed among doctors and druggists in cities down the lake shore as compared with Waukegan.

"For instance the man in question states that it is next to impossible for a person to go to a doctor in Lake Forest or Highland Park and after consulting him have the physician turn around and produce the medicine for him to take. Instead the doctor writes a prescription which must be filled at the drug store.

"However, on the other hand he explained that if a person goes to a drug store and wants the druggist to prescribe, there is no drug store where the druggist will do so.

"Now just the contrary is true in Waukegan according to the same man. He says that many of the doctors follow the opposite course, that is if a patient consults them, the doctor sometimes prescribes and hands them the medicine rather than write out a prescription and order the patient to go to the drug store and have it filled. On the other hand, he says that in a few cases in Waukegan it is possible in the drug store to have prescriptions furnished and made for you. That of course is only possible where a doctor is available in the stores.

"However, it is explained that the practice that is observed by the doctors and druggists in the various cities along the lake shore is so entirely opposite that the patients have difficulty in figuring out the ethics which actually are the recognized standards of the two professions."

NEW BASKETBALL RULES THIS YEAR

Player May Be Taken Out of Game And Put Back Again

There have been a number of changes in the playing rules for basketball this year, a knowledge of which will be of value to the fans at local games.

A player may be taken out of the game once and put back in providing he has not been disqualified by personal fouls.

The two feet zone has been done away with and the end boundary line moved back two feet under basket, but between free throw lines, directly under basket the two foot zone has been retained and when a held ball is called in this zone the ball is jumped for out on the free throw line. This rule has been adopted to give the defenders of the basket a holding of the ball to give a tall man a chance of tipping into basket on the jump.

The dribbling rule, one of the hardest rules to interpret, has been changed so that a man who is going to dribble the ball must have both feet on the floor before he starts to dribble and the instant the ball comes to rest in one or both hands he must get rid of it or he has committed a technical foul.

If a coach wants to send in a fresh man, he must wait until the ball is dead.

Unless a player is really advancing ball while whirling he has not committed a foul. He may take one step in any direction providing he throws the ball before his foot leaves the floor.

Hurried effort seldom has a happy result.

True, "Pride goeth before a fall," but it also goes before good work.

Keep reaching out for the thing you want most.

There will be war just so long as men insist that war cannot be banished.

The handsome candidate will now have a big advantage over his home-ly opponent.

DONNELLY RESIGNS; SHURTLEFF NAMED

SELECTION A POPULAR ONE

Governor Lowden Appoints Prominent Legislator to Circuit Court Judgeship in District

Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo, has been appointed circuit court judge for this district by Governor Lowden.

This course was anticipated some time ago when Judge Donnelly, dean of the seventeenth judicial district announced his intention of retiring from the bench in favor of Representative Shurtleff whom it was figured would receive the appointment from the governor.

It has been known for some time that Judge Donnelly was planning to resign because ill health made it impossible for him to devote the time necessary to judicial duties. County Judge Charles Barnes of McHenry county previously had announced himself as a candidate for the office of judge in case Judge Donnelly resigned, but as soon as he learned that Mr. Shurtleff would be a candidate he withdrew from the race himself and announced that he would support Mr. Shurtleff.

Mr. Shurtleff has served as a representative from the eighth district for many years and always has been a power in the legislature. He was not a candidate for re-election at the recent election and his term of office expired January 5. Mr. Shurtleff is a lawyer and it is generally conceded he possesses the necessary judicial timber.

Movement Was Spontaneous
The movement to make Shurtleff a circuit court judge was inaugurated by his friends unknown to him and they prosecuted their efforts into the other counties of the circuit, where they found a strong sentiment for the Marengo legislator, who has an extended and favorable acquaintance among members of the bar and laymen to a very marked degree. At Rockford and Belvidere the Shurtleff sentiment was found to be fully as strong as in his home county of McHenry, the sole obstacle discovered being as to the attitude of Judge Donnelly, who has long had a large following in the places mentioned.

Shurtleff Strong in District
Lake county, the other unit making up the judicial circuit, was found to possess a legion of influential men anxious to enlist under the Shurtleff for judge banner with the Woodstock jurist out of the running. The campaign was mapped out and carried on upon the theory that McHenry county would be for Shurtleff with Judge Donnelly having made up his mind to resign and this theory was borne out by later events. Letters pouring in on the Marengo lawyer asking him to say yes to their wishes. Thereafter everything was easy.

Donnelly on Bench over 30 Years
Judge Donnelly's occupancy of the bench began in the early fall of 1890 after he had received the nomination in a convention in which Judge C. P. Barnes and Ira R. Curtiss of Marengo were contenders. Judge Gilmore was the occupant of the county court bench, but he moved to Washington D. C. to accept a post of responsibility on the court of claims, thus creating a vacancy which Governor Fifer filled through the appointment of Judge Donnelly, but 35 years old at that time.

Judge Donnelly held the county judgeship for seven years, when he was elected one of the three judges of the circuit court, which event took place in May, 1897, his colleagues at that time being Judge J. C. Garner, deceased, and Judge C. E. Fuller, now a congressman from the Belvidere district. Six years later, or in 1903, he was re-elected with Judge R. W. Wright of Belvidere, and Judge A. H. Frost, of Rockford.

How the Old Judge Felt
Speaking recently with the Harvard Herald relative to the prospective change in the judgeship, Judge Donnelly said:

"If I thought I would feel as well for the next few years as I have for the past few weeks I would enjoy retaining my office. But who knows, perhaps a week, or a month, or a year, and there may be a change. A slight cold or some other minor ailment, might bring back my old trouble, and unfit me for my position. Perhaps I had best retire and give way to some one whose physical condition is better than mine. I have not made up my mind.

Donnelly for Shurtleff
"You can say, however, that in the event that I do decide to retire from the circuit bench, nothing would please me more than to see Edward D. Shurtleff succeed me. We have been friends, close friends, for many years. A bigger man is not numbered among my acquaintances, nor a man more ably fitted for the position. Cool, level-headed, fair in his judgments, a keen student of the law, with an abundance of common sense, Edward Shurtleff would make an ideal jurist.

"Of course it is most gratifying and pleasing to me that hundreds of my friends are urging me to run again and should I decide to become a candidate, their support will be most welcome. However, should I deem it advisable not to enter the race, I feel that they can do no better than to give their allegiance to Mr. Shurtleff, provided he yields to the demands of his friends and seeks the office."

The finest and most difficult art in the world is to know what, how and when to read.
