SAILOR DROWNED IN LAKE FRIDAY

Companion Nearly Dragged Down in Futile Attempt to Effect Rescue

One youth was drowned, and his companion, exhausted in an attempt to rescue him, was saved by a life guard just in the nick of time, Friday night in Lake Michigan, south of the light house pier at Waukegan. Felix Druba, life guard, rescued B. K. Larkin, sailor, 21 years old, of the Great Lakes hospital, ward 19, South, as the latter was going down for the last time, having exhausted himself in an effort to save his companion, C. M. Byrd, a sailor 18 years old, from the same ward, who sank to his death about a hundred feet south of the government pier, and a hundred yards from shore.

When the life guard heard the outcry of Larkin he did not know of the drowning of Byrd. When he had brought Larkin to shore the latter gasped, "the other lad's gone and I'm gone too." Several persons worked over Larkin for a quarter of an hour until he was considered out of danger and taken to the Great Lakes hospital while Druba and others worked to recover Byrd's body. Byrd's body was found after it had been in the water about 20 minutes and although a lungmotor and other efforts were made to revive him for more than an hour and a half the attempts proved futile. An ambulance from Great Lakes took the body of Byrd to the naval training station.

Larkin's home is at 25 Lake street, Cobleskill, N. Y., and Byrd's at 1002 E. Division street, Evansville, Ind. More than a hundred persons witnessed the tragedy. It is said both sailors were regarded as good swimmers.

Druba had just finished his supper when he received word of distress and he ran 300 yards, plunging into the water and swimming to Larkin's aid. He was compelled to put up a desperate fight to bring Larkin ashore and was so nearly exhausted he thought he would be compelled to give up. Just then he touched bottom and by that time another sailor helped bring Larkin to shore.

Byrd had been ill in the Great Lakes hospital for a long time and had been released only a few days ago. He apparently was in a weakened condition.

COMPLETE INVENTORY AT NAVAL STATION

Captain Wurtzbaugh Orders Checking Up; No Report Has Been Submitted

An inventory of stock and supplies at Great Lakes Naval Training station is being taken now and it has given rise to a rumor that a "great discrepancy" has been discovered. Inquiry shows that during the war the station was too busy to bother with checking up between the audit and supply department and it was only when Capt. Wurtzbaugh ordered it lately that the ledger and stock books were checked. Of course they ought to agree, but the chances are they will not, it is said, for, with the vast amount of business entailed at the station, it would be a physical impossibility to have them agree in the final checking. However, the taking of inventory means that the "stock on hand" will be carefully checked against the book accounts on same and Uncle Sam will know something about how things stand at the station. In connection with the work being carried on now came the rumor that a vast discrepancy already had been discovered. Such is not the case for no report has been made as yet. It is admitted that within a station of the size of Great Lakes, there are always many cases where material, supplies, etc., are actually stolen, carried from the station and nobody ever can check on them.

KITTLE OUSTED BY MARKETING COMPANY

W. J. Kittle, for eight years one of the leaders in the Milk Producers' association and the Milk Producers' Co-operative Marketing company, was ousted last week as sales manager of the marketing company. He now has no official connection with either company.

For some years Kittle was secretary of the parent association. When Chas. H. Potter of Elgin resigned as manager of the marketing company over a year ago, Kittle was given that position. A week ago he resigned it but accepted the position of sales manager for the company, a newly created office. Monday the board of directors voted to dismiss him altogether. The vote was almost unanimous, according to reports.

The action of the board of directors is thought to be a reflection of the sentiment of milk producers all over the district, who are very much dissatisfied with the way the affairs of the marketing company have been conducted and are demanding not only a change in policy but a thorough re-organization and complete change in officers and executive personnel.

After ousting Kittle the board of directors voted to instruct the executive committee to secure at once a man "fully capable of directing the marketing company's affairs as manager."

SELLING POST CARDS OF "CITY BEAUTIFUL"

TO ENCOURAGE CIVIC ART

Municipal Art League of Chicago Directs Publication and Distribution of Worth While Pictures

How often in the ordinary pursuits of everyday life, a rare bit of beauty is flashed across our vision. It may be some point of natural beauty in our own city or in our travels, an artistic architectural design, a striking vista of trees or buildings; perhaps just a plain object made enchanting by lovely lighting effects, and into our contemplated enjoyment of it creeps a poignant regret that we are unable to carry away with us something more tangible than just a mental picture of that beauty. Our natural desire is to share it with others whom we feel sure would be appreciative.

The tourist and even the traveling business man will admit that they have sought vainly for some true expression of the beautiful sights they have viewed. It is indeed a regrettable fact that hardly a city in the country has heretofore offered to travelers artistic pictures of the beauties of their respective cities or towns. The average picture post card sold throughout the country has not satisfied the demand of discriminating people; who have an appreciative and true sense of artistic values.

With this in mind, the Municipal Art League of Chicago is directing the publication of a worthy series of post cards of Chicago and vicinity. It is an interesting fact in this connection, and not to say the least commendable, that this organization was a pioneer in the "City Beautiful" movement. Its prime purpose is to encourage civic art and to oppose such influences that threaten to check endeavors in this direction.

The League was organized in Chicago about twenty years ago by a public spirited citizen, Franklin MacVeagh, who was president of it for many years. Mr. Everett L. Millard is now president, Mr. Eames MacVeagh, vice-president, Mr. Charles L. Hutchinson, treasurer. These gentlemen together with a number of others interested in art and civic matters constitute the board of directors. The League has, as stated, always stood for better civic art interests while also promoting industrial art and the fine arts. This post card issue by the Municipal Art League, therefore, has nothing of a financial element in it. Their aim is obvious, as always, purely altruistic. Mr. Thomas E. Tallmadge, the well known architect of Chicago, is chairman of the committee that has charge of the post card issue.

The cards selected for reproduction and distribution are mostly prize-winners in a photographic contest conducted by the Chicago Camera club. They include scenes of Michigan boulevard; one near the Art Institute, photographed on a rainy day, the glistening street and sidewalk reflecting lights and shadows, with a striking effect of street distance; another of the Desplaines river on a bright winter day, its shores clothed in snow, the water looming around the harbor line, a park scene, a picturesque street corner in the downtown section, and many others of notable buildings seen from advantageous points, all done in a most exquisite photographic work.

There are twenty-four cards in the issue and they can be bought at most of the large hotels in Chicago, at book stores and in department stores for a very moderate price. Visitors to this city will be sure to find something better in these views of Chicago as they are an absolute departure from the whole spirit of the average commercial postcard. They are well worth having for their beauty and artistic value.

LAKE VILLA AFFAIR DREW LARGE CROWD

People From All Over Lake County Gathered at Second Annual Show

Lake Villa Day held at the village of Lake Villa Saturday proved a very successful event. The attendance was large, people driving there from all parts of the county and the promoters will realize a handsome profit off the enterprise.

The principal feature of the entertainment was the horse show, wherein the Lehmann Bros., F. S. Peabody, James K. Deering, Guy Woodin and others exhibited fine riding, jumping and driving horses. Ribbons were awarded the winners in the various classes.

Besides that there was a plowing contest earlier in the afternoon on the Busse Farm. Boxers from Great Lakes, as well as wrestlers, entertained the crowd in several exciting bouts.

While Lake Villa Day was launched last year as a community boosting affair it assumed a degree of importance this year which indicates that if carried on it will be a big money-making event for the promoters.

THE NEW 1922 Haynes 75 $2485

F. O. B. FACTORY

Several months in advance of the usual time of presentation of such a car comes this new 1922 Haynes 75, priced fully a thousand dollars below what you would ordinarily expect it to be.

A newly developed big, powerful Haynes-built engine, perfected after many months of careful scientific research, equipped with the Haynes fuelizing system, assures power, flexibility and acceleration even greater than ever before enjoyed with the always popular Haynes power plant. Larger valves, larger intake and exhaust, thermodynamic engine heat control and other decidedly advanced features emphasize the distinct advantage of the Haynes 75 motor alone.

The new 1922 Haynes 75 has a more rugged chassis and in lines and finish, as well as fittings, is completely a 1922 idea. The seven-passenger touring car offers the extreme of luxury and utility in such a production, and the price — $2485, f. o. b. factory — is in keeping with the Haynes policy of extending to the purchaser every benefit of the organization's manufacturing and distributing methods.

The Haynes 75 is also available in the four-passenger Tourister at $2485, the two-passenger Special Speedster at $2685, the five-passenger Brougham at $3185, the seven-passenger Sedan and Suburban at $3485 — each price remarkably low. All the new Haynes 75 models have a 132-inch wheel base. Cord tires are standard equipment.

The Haynes 55 and 75 models are the result of more than a quarter of a century of fine automobile manufacturing by the oldest automobile institution in the United States. Consequently these Haynes models represent the combined skill of a corps of engineers who possess the accumulated experience of such an extensive period.
