Let's Continue to Boost

Highland Park day served to draw together those interested in our city. If all our citizens would keep up the "BOOST HIGHLAND PARK" spirit throughout the year, the results would be marvelous. Our local institutions would become giants in their capacity to serve.

A "RED LETTER" DAY

Highland Park Day means more to this community than a mere one-day holiday celebration. Its success is an indication that the people of this city are able to work together — it spells cooperation. The life and prosperity of a city of seven thousand depends upon the manner in which its citizens work together. No city can attain the fullest measure of prosperity unless its people are willing at times to sacrifice their time and money to the common good.

Highland Park Day afforded a fine illustration of what may be accomplished by cooperation. Everyone rallied to support the event, and the entire community enjoyed a full day of entertainment. Formalities were laid aside for the day, and all met on a common level. Good fellowship was everywhere evident, and everyone was determined to do his share toward making the 1921 Highland Park Day the biggest affair of its kind ever held here — and it undoubtedly was.

Great commendation is due the members of the various committees who planned the many features of the day. Nothing was half done, and no detail was left to chance. The remarkable lack of confusion was due to the businesslike methods of the different executives. Mr. Herring, chairman of the "Day," and Mr. Albert Larson, vice chairman, are to be especially congratulated upon their good leadership.

Highland Park Day of 1921 is now history, but the good it has done will live as long as people of Highland Park remember the good times they enjoyed together. It is a "red letter" day in the history of this city.

THE WILL TO WORK

It is strange to find the belief surviving anywhere that those who sit aside in the shade, twiddling their thumbs and twaddling with their tongues, deserve any pay for it, as though they worked and produced.

The rule of labor is the underpinning of the universe. On every hand, however, we see people trying to crawl under or over or around that uncomfortable prescription about earning one's bread in the sweat of one's brow. On the dance floor the one-step and the two-step may come and go; but in the work shop the sidestepper and the sidestepper are always with us.

Young men are hunting for short cuts to wealth. The shortest cut is the straight line of responsibility and duty and good faith with one's employer. If you happen to be your own employer there are certain things you owe yourself just as much as though someone else hired you. You owe it to yourself to report for the day's work fit to do it; you owe it to yourself to keep your appointments at the time set for them; you owe it to yourself to be steadily industrious. You cannot in self-respect take money that you have not earned nor demand a fabulous income for a fictitious effort.

There are men out of employment today who are victims of economic mal-ease and readjustment. They have caught betwixt grinding millstones of circumstances. They deserve sympathy and a hearing and an opportunity. That opportunity is likely to come soon, if they hold on.

But there are others who deserve no sympathy. They deliberately elected to be idle. They condemned all conciliation and consideration that were not their own selfish and greedy dictatorship.

Certainly the chance to earn a living ought to go to those who have the will to go to work and not the desire to stir up insurrectionary discontent and make trouble in the peace-loving, law-abiding ranks of the industrious.

FOOLISH QUESTION NO. 896
When about to deliver a lecture in a small town the well-known speaker asked the chairman if he might have a pitcher of ice water on the platform table.
"To drink?" inquired the chairman.
"No," answered the speaker. "I do a high diving act."

BOTTLED COURAGE
Is this stuff guaranteed to make a rabbit slap a bulldog in the face?
"My dear sir," said the bootlegger, with a pained expression. "This stuff will make a tenant snap his fingers under his landlord's nose."
