BOARD FAVORS NEW COURT HOUSE WING

PLAN TO SPEND $250,000.00

Supervisors Adopt Resolution Authorizing Committee to Proceed with Plans for Addition

The board of supervisors at its closing session last week adopted a resolution authorizing the building and grounds committee to proceed with plans for the erection of a $250,000 addition on the west side of the present court house, the plan being to duplicate the present structure.

By adopting the resolution the board authorizes the committee to retain the services of Architect Beers of Highland Park who had submitted plans and who addressed the board relative to going ahead with the specifications in building the addition.

The plans call for a practical duplication of the present county court house to be erected on the west of the present building.

As a result of the adoption of the resolution it means that the finance committee must find ways and means to finance the proposition and the chances are that steps will be taken by this committee immediately to call for a special vote on the bonds at the next general election which will be in April.

The building committee which submitted a report covering architect Beers' suggestion and which will have charge of the preliminary plans for the new court house addition includes Supervisor Fiecke of Elia, Holstein of Waukegan and O'Connor of Deerfield.

Three Stories

The plans which Mr. Beers has submitted to the Board and which were accepted at the Friday's session, provide for a three story building but contrary to previously reported preliminary plans these plans do not provide for the county jail therein. The jail will be left where it is at the present time.

However, a complete heating and ventilating plant will be installed in the new building for it is recalled that the present court house does not have a heating plant but receives its heat from the public service company.

From now on the building committee, the finance committee and architect Beers will be busy with their plans in the hope that when the special question is submitted to the voters in April they will approve the bond issue and then work may be started immediately on the beginning of the big addition.

The architect and the committee have figured out there is ample room at the west side of the court house to permit the addition which will be a duplication of the present building. All talk of building an addition to the jail has been abandoned.

Need is Apparent

It is recalled that the supervisors have long recognized the need of an addition to the present building, or an entire new court house. The fact is that at the present time the state's attorney's office and the county superintendent of schools are located outside of the court house and the county is paying rent for them.

The desire naturally is to have all the county officers housed under the same roof but this has been impossible because there has been insufficient room, furthermore, with the creation of two new officers the coming year, that of probate judge and probate clerk, it means that additional room must be provided.

Accordingly the supervisors between now and spring will probably make appeal to the taxpayers of the county to authorize the bond issue so that they can go ahead with their plans.

One of the closing statements of the Friday session was the recommendation by the Board of the purchase of a new automobile for the sheriff. The car in question according to the sheriff has seen its best days and he needs a new car. Accordingly the purchase committee was authorized to buy one.

Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight,
Give us a maiden with skirts not so tight;
Give us a girl whose charms, many or few,
Are not exposed by much peek-a-boo;
Give us a maiden, no matter what age,
Who won't use the street for a vaudeville stage.
Give us a girl not so sharply in view;
Dress her in skirts that the sun won't shine through.
Then give us the dances of days long gone by,
With plenty of clothes and steps not so high;
Oust turkey-trot capers and butter-milk glides,
The hurdy-gurdy twist and the wiggle-tail slide.
Then please let us feast our tired optics once more,
On a genuine woman, as sweet as of yore,
Yes, Time, please turn backward, and grant our request
For God's richest blessing, but not one undressed.

MANY STUDENTS ENROLL AT NORTHWESTERN U.

Expect, 9,000 Before Registration is Completed; Journalism Popular

From figures now available, Northwestern University's registration for the season, 1921-22, will exceed last year's which went slightly beyond 9,000. Registration at the College of Liberal Arts, Evanston, has been in progress all week, but various students are expected to matriculate next week. Thus the figures now available, about 1900, will be considerably augmented within the next ten days. It is therefore virtually assured that Liberal Arts will exceed last year's total of 1896 students. The school of engineering this year has 150 students registered, about the same as a year ago, and the school of music and school of speech are expected to run beyond last year's figures. The data for these schools is not at present available, but a good estimate for the two would be 550 students, with the music school somewhat in the lead.

The law school should equal last year's attendance, 195, when the figures are compiled; the medical school of Northwestern university has had to turn students away this year and should register a total of at least 365 when it opens next month. It is too early to make a final report on dental school registration but the outlook there is for 600 students, somewhat below last year's total.

The Medill School of Journalism starts out the year encouragingly with a total registration of 209, of which the evening students, attending downtown classes, number 112, an increase of two over last year's. At Evanston, the regular journalism course starts auspiciously with 97 students of whom 30 are candidates for the degree of bachelor of science in journalism. The school of commerce, downtown classes, this year already totals 2169 students with registration steadily proceeding. At Evanston the commerce school has about 300 students. Old students returning for the evening commerce courses number 311 more this year than last. Estimating the graduate school at 250, last year's figure, and including 1400 students attending the summer school at Northwestern the past summer, the present total indicated attendance is 8,088. An increase of over 1,000 during the next eight or nine months is more than probable.

$43,000 FOR ROADS IS APPROPRIATED

BOARD WILL LEVY TAX

Money to be Used for Maintaining State-Aid Roads Other Lake County Items of Interest

The Lake county Board of Supervisors, upon the recommendation of Chairman Baintow of the road and bridge committee last week passed a resolution whereby during the coming year a sum totaling nearly $43,000 will be raised to be devoted to maintaining roads that have already been designated as state-aid roads, but which have not been improved. A new law became operative this year which permits the county to levy a tax up to 25 cents on each $100 valuation to be used for this purpose. The committee decided to levy ten cents per $100 valuation.

Russ Alford, 216 Center street, Waukegan, a night engineer at the Cyclone Fence company plant, was made defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed in circuit court by Sadulah Abdulah, administrator of the estate of Sali Salyman, deceased. The suit grew out of the injuries received by Salyman when he was struck by a motorcycle driven by Alford May 23 of this year. Salyman died a short time later.

Waukegan high school has added journalism to its curriculum. Miss Dorothy Dunn, graduate of the school of journalism at the University of Illinois is in charge. Credits will be given in this course the same as in other high school courses. Thirty students have enrolled.

The body of Private John Liginski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Liginski, 1034 Jackson street, North Chicago, was returned to that city last week. Services were held in the Holy Rood church. Private Liginski, who entered the army at Washington, was killed in action overseas.

BAKU: OIL CITY CASPIAN

The recent outbreak of Russia against the Bolsheviks among other nations that on whether it is a city of Asia, now a Bolshevik government, more thrown open to the world's greatest petroleum practically bottled up in the Russian empire. The city of Baku, built on an amphitheater on the shores of the Caspian Sea, far out into the Caspian Sea, contains 2,700 wells, making it the largest oil field in the world. The Teutonic power occupied it before the war and more serious than that was the seizure of an oil field by the German occupation.

According to a census before the outbreak of the war, Baku was a city about the size of Louisville, Ky. It was one of the Russian provinces, but in recent years has formed a government under the name of the Azerbaijan. Baku is situated on a narrow plain which stretches along the shores of the Caspian Sea. Baku rises only 30 feet above the level of the great inland sea, so that it is less than 50 feet below the sea level.

Many centuries ago the Persians discovered natural gases issuing from the rocks near Baku. These gases may be seen, to this day, in the remains of ancient temples.

The upper part of the Caspian Sea, according to the back of the Caspian Sea, is the plain quarter, with its many and oriental bazaars. A huge palace of the kings, dilapidated condition, is used for many years by the military magazine. The massive Kis Kalk Tower, which rises to a height of 100 feet, is now a ruin. It dates from the period of the Sassanids.

Four fifths of all the oil in the Russian empire is produced in the Baku fields. The high production was reached in 1905, when the district produced 10 million tons of oil. In 1905, however, the district produced 10 million tons of oil. The district produced 10 million tons of oil. The district produced 10 million tons of oil.

The town derives its wealth from the oil wells which are very violent on the Caspian coast.
