Are You Well Insured?

The time has long since passed when people needed to be "sold" on the necessity of carrying Fire Insurance. Many people, however, do not carry an adequate amount of protection.

The calamity which visited this city so suddenly on Monday of this week is an example of the ever-present danger of fire, and of the thoroughness with which it works destruction.

You cannot altogether obviate the danger of fire; you can, however, provide against the financial loss which it always brings. We are prepared to write fire insurance in responsible fire companies.

The adjusters representing our companies were the first to arrive on the scene Tuesday morning. Isn't it worth while to place your insurance where this service is the rule, not the exception?
